West Coast, Especially, Looks Forward to Greatest of All Years

BY ROBERT B. ARMSTRONG
"Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18. (Exclusive)—Unless all of the thirty or more directors of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States are mistaken, the United States faces a year of general and extended prosperity in 1928. In its own magazine, The Nation's Business, for January, 1928, just off the press—it summarizes the opinion of all the directors from every section of the country and there is little pessimism in the forecast. The West Coast Chamber of Commerce directors lead off with Arthur Brett of Los Angeles, Paul Bissop of San Francisco, Ralph Brett of Fresno, Lafayette Hanchett of Utah, and Dwight Heard of Arizona. What they say at this time of the closing year about the business conditions of the new year just around the corner should interest every American.

"The outlook for Southern California," says Mr. Brett, "is particularly fine for the following reasons: The construction industry in the last six months has again brought Los Angeles to third place in the United States due to an addition of 60,000 to permanent population and to the extensive public building program, and also to the location here of large national industries such as Firestone Tire, Goodyear Tire, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, Ford, White Truck, Truscon Steel, Kerckhoff & Bros., and Pittsburgh Plate Glass. Advent of these new industries with an investment of nearly $80,000,000 makes 1927 a banner year for this community or any other of its size. Agriculture is in a much improved position with crops in every direction. Cotton crop is excellent and the oil situation is much improved. Stagnation of last year due to overproduction is now relieved and oil companies are starting on an important program of development with production well under control. Industrial outlook is fair.

"Improvement in agricultural conditions in Arizona, Nevada and Utah has greatly increased their buying power in this market. We anticipate a record year."

San Pedro Ralph Merritt, general manager of the Sun-Maid Raisin Growers, based on credit conditions, indicates that general business in California will be near normal during the first half of 1928. Reports of crop reports indicate the volume of agricultural production will not decrease this year will be about the same and will be slightly larger in value. The live-stock industry has had a generally favorable year. Dairying has been particularly favorable. Grains, such as barley, rice, sugar, beets, fruits, citrus fruit, walnuts, canned fruits, olives and sheep production are particularly unfavorable to canning fruits, prune and hog production. Production this year will show a decline in amount if not in value. Foregoing production will remain the same while the outlook is improved with a decline in

SIX MEN IN SUBMARINE TALK TO DIVERS BY SIGNALS

Known Survivors in Torpedo Room; Hope Faint for Others of Crew; Experts Debate on Rescue

PROVINCETOWN (Mass.) Dec. 18. (AP)—Six men imprisoned in the wounded hull of the submarine S-4, which lies on the ocean floor in 100 feet of water off Provincetown Harbor, were hopefully awaiting rescue tonight while their span of life grew rapidly less.

Divers who went down to survey the hull of the submarine, rammed and sunk yesterday by the Coast Guard cutter Paulding, brought back the pathetic story of an undersea conversation conducted on either side by rappings on the steel hull.

"How long will you be?" was the question asked and repeated by six men, perhaps the sole survivors of the S-4 crew, from their prison in the forward torpedo compartment of the vessel. But the only answer the rescuers could give to the plea was a qualified one.

"We are doing everything possible," the divers tapped out in the international code.

There is no serious gas condition in the compartment, the submarine men said, but the air is poor. Airlines were applied to the valves of the sunken vessel and immediate steps were taken to supply those within with purer atmosphere, but even the most optimistic among the officers of the salvage fleet expressed little hope that the lives of the men would be saved. The damage to the hull of the submarine appears to be great.

Pontoons dispatched from New London, Ct., and Brooklyn, N. Y., were delayed by wind and rough seas, and had not reached here early tonight.

WILL TAKE TIME

It is admitted raising the submarine by pontoons, especially in the prevailing weather conditions, will require considerable time. Rear-Admiral Frank H. Brumby, in charge of the work of salvage, said every effort would be made to speed up the work.

During the more than twenty-four hours the men on board the S-4 were imprisoned before their message were heard, hope and despair had alternated in the hearts of those directing salvage operations.

The first ray of hope came when early today the hull was located by means of an anchor. Later the S-8, a sister ship of the S-4, was able to receive replies to submarine signals. Divers who went down from the mine sweeper Falcon had signaled by means of hammers, and received replies from the forward torpedo compartment.

Finally the actual messages were exchanged. The report of the divers that there is a large hole on the starboard side of the S-4 under the control compartment, leads to the belief that a large number of the crew must have perished in the collision. While there is no definite proof that men are not still alive in other parts of the hull, officers said it is unlikely compartments other than the forward torpedo section escaped flooding.

WIND STIRS SEA

A stiff breeze is blowing tonight, stirring up a heavy chop in the open sea off Wood End, where the submarine went down. Three mine sweepers, with the Falcon in the center, acted as the base for diving operations. The submarine tenders Wandank and Bushnell are anchored some distance off while four Coast Guard cruisers move about. Strong searchlights from the navy vessels lighted up the scene.

TWO DIVERS FACE PERIL IN DESCENT

Brave Freezing Cold to Reach Submarine and Communicate With Crew

ABOARD U.S.S. FALCON, PROVINCETOWN (Mass.) Dec. 18. (AP)—Two navy divers, Thomas Eady, and William Carr, who braved freezing temperatures and rough seas in a 102-foot descent to the bed of the ocean today brought back the word that six men of the forty within the wrecked submarine S-4 were alive.

The task of the divers who located the sunken ship and communicated with the men inside was a perilous one. It required nearly two hours for each man to make the descent and return to the surface and neither was able to remain on the floor of the sea for more than a few minutes.

Eady was the first man down and the one who located the submarine. He was the first to detect signs of life. Carr followed him and carried on the hammer code conversation through the steel hull. He attached a light line to the submarine before he started for the surface.

The temperature was very close to the freezing point and the men were numbed with the cold. They were lowered a few feet at a time and then the descent was halted while they rested and accustomed themselves to the increased pressure. The return trip was made in a similarly slow and graduated manner.

Naval officers here said conditions for diving were among the worst ever experienced. When the S-51 was wrecked, salvage operations were given up about December 1, 1925, but divers here today said conditions under which they were working were more difficult than at that time.

BAY PLANE UP IN TEST

Endurance Mark Set as Goal

Spirit of California Takes Air With 1422 Gallons of Fuel in Tanks

Must Sustain Flight for More Than 52 Hours to Equal Record

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 18. (AP)—Fifteen hours in the air tonight, the Spirit of California, trimotored Fokker monoplane seeking to break the world's record for sustained flight by an airplane, reported all well aboard, and the flyers announced determination to "see it through or go down with the ship."

The plane, formerly known as the Southern Cross, took off from Mills Field, the San Francisco municipal airport, at 8:23:38 a.m., and officials said the flyers will have to remain aloft until Tuesday at a few seconds past 1:24:46 p.m. to equal the record. The present record, established by German aviators last summer in a flight over Germany, is 52 hours, 22 minutes and 31 seconds.

THREE ATTEMPTS FAIL

After failing in three previous attempts at an endurance flight, Lieut. George R. Pond, U.S.N., and Capt. Charles Kingsford-Smith of Australia made a good take-off today with a load of 16,000 pounds, including 1432 gallons of gasoline and 44 galons of oil. They cruised out through the Golden Gate, circled the Farallones, and turned south to San Jose.

For several hours the plane cruised over various San Francisco Bay cities, keeping in touch with the San Francisco Chronicle, sponsor of the flight, by radio. The aviators announced plans for flying over the Sacramento Valley during the night.

TAIL FLUTTER ENDS

Messages from the flyers stated that slight repetition of the "tail flutter," which caused abandonment of previous attempts has caused them some worry in the early hours of the flight. By late afternoon, however, the gasoline load had been reduced sufficiently so the trouble is believed at an end.

BROCK AND SCHLEE AGAIN POSTPONE ENDURANCE TEST

DAYTONA BEACH (Fla.) Dec. 18. (AP)—Westerly winds that have held William S. Brock and Edward S. Schlee earthbound since Wednesday continued today, forcing another postponement of their attempt to break the world's endurance flight record.

Two Girls Dead From Poisoning

LA JUNTA (Colo.) Dec. 18. (AP)—Marie Eads, 13 years of age, died today, and her sister, Juanita, 16, died yesterday from poisoning from home-canned string beans. A brother, Franklin, 9, is in a serious condition.

Their mother opened the beans Friday night and while trying to determine whether they were spoiled the children ate some of them.

CITY AND COUNTY POST $5000 EACH FOR MONSTER'S CAPTURE

Rewards of $5000 will be offered by both the city and county for the capture of the kidnaper and slayer of Marian Parker. The city and county rewards will be made in addition to those being posted by the various radio stations in this city and private contributions which more than a hundred residents of the city already have volunteered to make.

William G. Bonelli, president of the Los Angeles City Council, yesterday announced that he will submit a resolution to the City Council today recommending that a reward of not less than $5000 be posted by the city for the capture of the kidnaper.

Sidney T. Graves, member of the County Board of Supervisors, announced at the same time that he will recommend the posting of a like reward by the county.

Both resolutions will be made the first order of business of the respective governing bodies this morning.

PASADENA GIRL KIDNAPED

Man in Car Speeds Toward Eaton's Canyon With His Captive While Officers Pursue Him

Deputy sheriffs at midnight last night were in hot pursuit of a kidnaper who forcibly is holding Ethel Swapp, 14 years of age, captive in his automobile and driving in the direction of Eaton's Canyon near Pasadena. The girl entered the man's car by mistake with a girl friend, who escaped. The abduction occurred in Pasadena's downtown district.

The Swapp girl of 2383 East Mountain avenue, accompanied by Julia Westcott, 16, of 3337 Milton street, was standing at the corner of Lake avenue and Washington street after leaving a theater when a young man drove up and offered to drive them home.

BROTHER GIVES CHASE

Mistaking him for a neighbor the girls got into the car, but almost immediately realized their mistake. The Westcott girl jumped out and the Swapp girl tried to, but the man held the car door and stepped on the gas. He drove east on Lake avenue.

Wallace S. Swapp, a brother, was standing on the next corner, saw the incident, jumped into his automobile and tried to follow the kidnaping car. He failed to catch up with it, however, losing track of it on Foothill Boulevard.

Miss Westcott described the kidnapper as being between 23 and 24, weighing about 150 pounds, five feet eight inches tall, wearing a gray fedora hat, dark suit and gray overcoat.

MAY BE STOLEN CAR

The Swapp girl is five feet tall, light brown hair, brown eyes, weight, 115 pounds, wearing a brown hat, brown coat and pink dress. She is the daughter of James S. Swapp, a chauffeur.

Word that a car answering the description of the Essex coach the asserted kidnapper was driving, had entered Eaton's Canyon was communicated to the police by the Altadena substation of the sheriff's office at 11:15 p.m. last night.

Pasadena police assert that the car used by the man who abducted the Swapp girl probably is one belonging to H. A. Schwab, 972 Lola street, which was stolen from Chestnut and Raymond streets earlier last night.

Child Killed as Train Hits Auto

Rosalind Berkman, 9 years of age, was instantly killed and her mother, Mrs. Edice Berkman, is believed to be fatally injured as the result of a traffic accident in Ontario last night. As the automobile in which they were riding crossed the Pacific Electric tracks at San Antonio avenue, it was struck by a Los Angeles-San Bernardino train.

Eddie Berkman, 12, brother of the dead girl, and Louis Stern, who was driving the car, are slightly injured. All four are from Los Angeles.

Will Rogers Remarks:

TAMPICO (Mex.) Dec. 18. [To the Editor of The Times:] Just flew in here by plane from Mexico City. Flying to Brownsville, Tex., in the morning. Left Lindbergh at the rodeo. He was going to the bull fight from there. Don't believe he would have gone at all if there had not been so many fanatical requests not to even before he thought about it. Being a guest of the country, there was hardly any way he could keep from it. Besides he really wanted to see one. That's the way with all Americans, but we seldom want to see another. I stayed away two Sundays and they killed twice as many horses as they did the Sunday I went, so staying away don't do any good. There is only a certain class of people that go, but they go every Sunday. The only way they ever lose a fan is by death, but baseball is replacing it.

LETTER PUT IN FIRE BOX AND ALARM TOUCHED OFF

Search Commenced in District; Flyers Seize Man in Nevada; Parts of Body Discovered

The fiend who slew Marian Parker hurled an unexpected defy at police and citizens last night and threatened kidnaping and death to Marjorie Parker, the slain girl's sister.

"You can't catch me," was the mocking challenge contained in a letter which was placed in a fire alarm box at Maplewood avenue and Hobart Boulevard at 10:30 o'clock, and the alarm set in action.

When the firemen arrived on the scene and found there was no fire, they investigated the alarm box and found the latest of the arch fiend's communications.

Although the message was not made public, it was learned that a threat was hurled at the remaining daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Perry M. Parker.

SEARCH STARTED

"I am going to get Marjorie, too," the letter is purported to say, "but you need not tell police."

The letter was rushed to the office of Detective Chief Cline where it was placed in a safe. Although no official statement would be issued, it was learned that police are making a thorough search of the district where it was found.

Several officers discredited it as the work of a crank.

While the search was being carried on here for the slayer of the child, two airplanes carrying Los Angeles police officers landed at Las Vegas, Nev., last night and halted an east-bound bus to arrest Lewis D. Wyatt, en route from Los Angeles to Terre Haute, Ind. At a late hour last night they were holding him as a suspect in the case.

A complete search of the prisoner, according to information telephoned to Chief Cline here, failed to disclose anything which might connect the man with the case and he entered complete denials of any connection with the revolting murder. He talked freely and told the officers he will gladly return to Los Angeles if ordered.

AIRPLANES GIVE CHASE

The local police first got track of Wyatt when it was learned that he had purchased a ticket at the bus office and paid for it with two $20 gold certificates. The money later was delivered to another bus driver and the authorities were unable to trace it at the time and therefore chartered airplanes and started for Las Vegas, the nearest point at which the bus could be intercepted.

Following Wyatt's arrest the officers who had him in charge declared they do not believe he is the man who is being sought throughout the country. However, the police say that they will not release him until he has convinced them of his whereabouts on the night of the murder.

Wyatt lived in Los Angeles for about two months, investigators learned last night, and made his home at the Lennox Hotel, 317 South Flower street. Until two weeks ago he was employed at a small lunch counter adjoining the hotel. Photographs of the arrested man indicate that he is considerably larger than the description given of the slayer.

In the meantime the local search which has continued since the murderer dumped the mutilated body of his little victim almost at the feet of her distracted father shifted southward last night to the Mexican border. Information the police say has been obtained which leads them to believe that the murderer may have fled into Mexico and squads of officers have been

THIS FIEND MUST NOT ESCAPE!

Staggering to the imagination, abhorrent to every human instinct, are the incredibly horrible circumstances surrounding the murder and mutilation of 12-year-old Marian Parker, lured from her schoolroom last Thursday, subjected by her kidnaper to unknown and unnamable horrors, slain, dismembered and—as a crowning, frightful touch to the hell-born scheme of a fiend incarnate—the pitiful fragments of her hacked-up body wrought into the ghastly guise of a living child and delivered to her father in return for $1500 "ransom."

The police are doing everything possible to apprehend this fiendish slayer, but this is not a job for the police alone. Every citizen of Los Angeles, every resident of the Southwest, must assist. If every pair of eyes within the area of the murderer's possible movements is vigilantly alert for a man of his description, for his car and for the numbers of the bills paid him for the little girl's shattered corpse, his chances to elude the gallows will be scant indeed.

WHAT TO LOOK FOR!

THE MURDERER: American; 25 to 30 years of age; five feet, eight inches in height; 150 pounds; slender build; thin features, smooth shaven; medium complexion; dark brown hair, wavy and has appearance of being waxed; speaks very good English and is apparently well educated. Sometimes wears brownish-gray herringbone overcoat; dark gray hat.

THE MONEY: He has in his possession seventy-five $20 United States gold certificates, serial numbers K68016901 to K68016975, inclusive. This money was taken by the murderer when he delivered the body of the child to the father. Merchant and business men are requested to keep a memorandum of these numbers, and to paste the numbers on their cash registers. If any of the bills are presented notify police detective bureau, MEtropolitan 6100, immediately.

Gets Matador Cape, Doesn't Know How to Wear It; Reviews Parade and Goes Sightseeing

[This is the fifth installment of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's own story of his flight from Washington to Mexico City and his experiences in the Mexican capital. The series of articles by Col. Lindbergh is appearing exclusively in The Times in Southern California.]

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 18. (Exclusive)—This has been another of these wonderful Mexican days. There seems to be no end of them. And I have seen two of the sports of Mexico under a perfect sky and brilliant sun. The exhibition of roping and riding at the Rancho De Charros was one of the finest things of the kind I have ever seen. Then came the review of members of the Mexican labor unions, at the national palace, which were a gratifying expression of friendliness toward the United States.

The much debated bullfight came in the afternoon. I received a beautiful cape there, presented by Jose Ortiz, one of the matadors. The workmanship on it is different from anything of the kind I have ever seen, and it is one of the best nationalistic gifts I have had. I am not quite certain yet how I should wear it, but Senor Ortiz placed it over my shoulders and I suppose that is the way it should be worn.

SIGHTSEEING BY AUTO

Last night I had the first opportunity of seeing some of the country around Mexico from an automobile, in which we drove out some way toward Puebla, over a wide and smooth road. The road went up through the mountains, from which there was a splendid view of Mexico City and the valley.

I should think this would be a great tourist center. It is one of the most picturesque places on the continent, easy of access, and with a delightful climate. If a few hotels were built on these hills with golf courses laid out near them, so that it would be possible to stay in the country it should be one of the dispatched to Tia Juana to head off any effort on the part of the fugitive to cross the line.

Officers in Three States Tighten Dragnet About Kidnap-Murderer of Parker Girl

ABANDONED AUTO SEIZED; SUITCASE CLEW FOUND

Missing Portions of Parker Child's Body Discovered in Park Here; Seven Persons Questioned

Late last night police announced the recovery of a Ford roadster, bearing the numerals, 667-67, used on the death car in which the trunk of the horribly hacked and disemboweled girl was delivered to her father after he had handed the kidnaper $1500, for the delivery of his child.

The recovery of the automobile yesterday followed closely the finding of five separate bundles containing the missing parts of the slain child's body in Elysian Park. Police declare the finding of the car may furnish the most valuable clew to the identity of the fiend, who held his victim captive for two and one-half days, and then killed her less than two hours before her father delivered the money demanded for her release.

The automobile found parked in the Westlake Park district, apparently had been abandoned, police said. Whether anything of value was found in it, was not revealed.

SEVEN ARRESTED

While these developments were marking a turn in events and materially aiding police in closing the ever-tightening net about the killer, seven suspects were taken into custody during the day, questioned, and all but one released.

This youth, however, is being held in the City Jail on a suspicion of grand larceny and was questioned in connection with the murder merely as a routine affair, Chief of Detectives Cline said. He is Earl Smith and was taken into custody at his home, 1942 North Edgemont street.

FACED BY BROTHER

Police were working with William Parker, only brother of the slain girl, in an effort to find some trace of the slayer, whom they believe may have been someone seeking vengeance for a fancied wrong, done by some member of the Parker family. Every suspect was taken before the 20-year-old youth, but none of them was known to him. Tired and haggard by his long vigil, the brother who has been with police constantly for the past forty-eight hours, declared yesterday he will continue to aid in the search until the slayer is captured.

The first move to obtain official city, county and State aid in raising a reward for the capture and conviction of the slayer was begun yesterday and received the sanction of Gov. Young, who said that he personally will contribute to it.

President Bonelli, of the City Council, and Supervisor Graves both announced they will go before their respective bodies this morning and ask for $5000 to be appropriated for information leading to the capture of the slayer.

LARGE FUND

In addition to these rewards Warner Brothers' radio station, KFWB, announced last night that more than $20,000 in contributions has been received for a reward fund.

As the radio call was broadcast Saturday night for the contributions, originally intended to raise $1000, the response from all over Southern California was so generous that receiving facilities were nearly overwhelmed. The funds are to be used as a direct reward and in arrest assistance.

REST OF BODY FOUND

By the co-operation of citizens, police yesterday morning recovered the missing portions of Marian's body on a lonely road in Elysian Park and by late afternoon County Morgue attendants had completed assembling into some semblance of a human form, the once-beautiful child who was hacked to pieces by the maniac who abducted her.

William E. Britton, 1440 Davis street, found the first packages containing the arms and legs of the murdered child and less than an hour later two small boys, carrying on the search, recovered the fifth and remaining part of the body that was yet missing—the viscera. Each of the five missing portions was in a separate package.

Radio KMIC, of Inglewood, also announced last night that it has received promises of contributions toward a reward, the amount of which is set at $4000. Aimee Semple McPherson, too, sent out a plea for contributions toward a fund to be used as a reward for the person who discovers the kidnaper-murderer.

A suit case was discovered by Mrs. Margaret Root, 620 South Manhattan Place, in the gutter in front of her home, only one block from the rendezvous where Perry Parker met the fiend who killed his daughter and handed him $1500 for the lifeless trunk of his brutally slain child.

In the suit case police found several bloodstained newspapers, one bearing a late November date and the other the date of the 11th inst. The torn linen towel is unstained and bears no marks of identification. A quantity of thread, together with the spool, was found. Thread was used in forcing the child's eyes open by the mutilator.

A closer tie-up was found in two Hamelin writing tablets found in the grip, one of the tablets being similar to that used by the kidnaper in his series of letters to the parents and the other having a ruled surface similar to the paper used by the girl in her note to her father. One envelope, of the kind used in the messages, was found in the grip as well as a piece of blotter.

PACKAGES SCATTERED

Chief of Detectives Cline stated that from the location of the grewsome bundles beside the road it was apparent that the murderer had driven through the park some time during the night and thrown the packages out one by one. They were scattered along the roadway for some distance.

MEN SENT TO SCENE

Immediately upon receipt of the information that the body portions had been located, Chief Cline dispatched picked men from the homicide squad, trained in such investigations, to the scene with instructions to note every bit of evidence available before moving any of the packages. Special attention, it was learned, was paid to the automobile tracks made by the fiend's car.

Later, special permission from Coroner Nance was obtained by the police to move the remains to the morgue, where a further examination was begun.

Although Chief of Detectives Cline refused to admit that any other evidence other than the finding of the packages and the suitcase had been located, rumors permeated the detective bureau at Central Police Station that other links in the tightening chain by which the authorities hope to enmesh the murderer have been forged.

The mighty man hunt was still going forward with seemingly indefatigable energy late last night. Thousands of police officers, deputy sheriffs, special officers, investigators from all branches of the city and county governments from San Francisco to San Diego still were on the search, while other thousands of aroused citizenry were aiding.

SUSPECTS QUETIONED

Early yesterday morning Lieut.-Gov. Fitts and Chief Deputy District Attorney Davis arrived at Chief Cline's office, and with Chief of Police Davis and Cline, worked throughout the day questioning suspects and directing the sweeping search that now has widened into three States.

Private detective agencies threw their resources into the man hunt without compensation.

The telephones at Central Police Station and all substations rang continuously throughout the night, as citizens reported what seemed to them suspicious circumstances or activities and the police investigated each as soon as possible. Police executives were gratified at the earnest response of the average citizen, and confident that if their continued co-operation and vigilance could be counted on that the eventual arrest of the criminal was assured.

Surveillance continued yesterday over every means of transportation leaving the city and the police were confident that the murderer was still within the city, afraid to leave, and that he would be apprehended if he tried.

The first one of the packages found in the park was discovered by Britton, who read in the newspapers that citizens had been asked to investigate all bundles and he opened one of the packages.

He originally found portions of the remains on the right side of Lilac Terrace near Paducah street. Later, the police found two more on the left-hand side, and a fifth package, containing parts of the torso, was found thrown over a cliff side 500 feet further down the road.

Detective Lieutenant Condaffer made the last discovery.

AUTO SEEN IN PARK

Other information that may prove of value to the police was also supplied by Britton and another resident of the Britton household, Dr. B. A. Vanderlinde. The two men told officers that they were driving through the park about 8 p.m. Saturday night, and at about the spot where one of the packages was discovered there was an open car with three men in it.

The men, Britton and Vanderlinde declared, apparently were trying to lift something from the floor of the automobile at the time they were observed, but Britton and Vanderlinde paid no particular attention to them, the news of the murder not being generally known at that time.

Despite the statements of Britton and his companion, however, the police were inclined to believe that the three men were not in the murder car. It was believed, however, that they or others in the park Saturday night may be able to provide clews.

Chief of Police Davis yesterday stated that the entire police force has been placed in the hands of Detective Chief Cline and that neither man-power nor expense will be spared in tracking the brutal slayer to earth. Added to the city police were men from the District Attorney's office under Chief of Detectives Contreras and forces from the Sheriff's office and from the office of City Prosecutor Lickley.

TELEGRAM SENT

The following telegram was sent late yesterday by Lieut.Gov. Fitts to Gov. Young at Sacramento:

Without any doubt the murder of Marian Parker is the most vicious and atrocious crime in California history. California has been stirred as never before; and in view of the nature of the crime most strongly urge if legally possible that the State of California immediately offer a thoroughly substantial reward for the apprehension and conviction of the murderer. Suggest that the reward be divided, one-half for information leading to arrest and conviction and the other half for the actual arrest. Authorities feel that crime was undoubtedly committed by degenerates and in view of frequency of these crimes recently in Los Angeles on other children and the fact that the criminal is still at large, and the danger from their activities, the State should be the first one to initiate and contribute its share to the apprehension of these degenerates for the future protection of its children. Unquestionably, the offer of a substantial reward by the State of California and the co-operation with local agents will be one of the most effective weapons in the hands of police authorities.

With best personal regards.

[Signed] BURON FITTS.

In reply to Lieut.-Gov. Fitts's wire Gov. Young returned the following answer:

"Your wire received. Law limits reward to be offered by Governor to $2500 for entire biennum. A portion of this already used. Would State reward within legal limits, seem sufficiently adequate? Will be glad as individual to join with other citizens in making personal contribution toward suitable reward.

[Signed] "C. C. YOUNG."

NEAR EXHAUSTION

Although on the verge of complete exhaustion from the strain, Mrs. Parker was managing to keep a brave semblance of composure yesterday, for although she knows that Marian is dead, that is all she knows. The unspeakable details surrounding the return of the child's body have not been made known to her.

Mr. Parker, however, who knows the worst, is in a complete state of collapse. Late yesterday as a result of the frightful ordeal he had been forced to undergo in the past twelve hours, his condition took a sudden turn for the worse, and Dr. Kirkpatrick hurriedly was summoned to his bedside by the family. A brother of Mrs. Parker has been placed in charge of the family affairs.

It definitely has been established by a careful examination of the body that the Parker child was slain only a few hours before her mutilated corpse was given the father, County Autopsy Surgeon Wagner reported yesterday. Dr. Wagner said that a chemical analysis will be made to determine whether poison was administered by the slayer.

Dr. Wagner, a next door neighbor of the Parker family, visibly was affected as he performed the autopsy. He would not say whether the child had been criminally attacked. No further statement will be made from the Coroner's office until Dr. Wagner makes his final report at the inquest today.

Reports that the slayer was making his way toward San Francisco yesterday morning on a Southern Pacific train, started Bay City police on a man hunt that up until last night had been futile.

LEAVES TRAIN

A man answering the description of the girl's slayer had been seen on the train but when it arrived in San Francisco yesterday morning, he could not be found. Questioning of the train crew reveals that the suspect left the train at Zeinah, twenty-five miles north of Los Angeles, with a ticket purchased to Santa Susana, a point north of Hasson.

The train conductor said the man had a large roll of currency which he displayed when he paid his fare with a 50-cent piece.

Information yesterday which revealed that the slayer also had made his appearance in Inglewood during the time he had the girl in his clutches, resulted in a thorough search of that city by twenty-five members of the American Legion Post there, headed by Post Commander LeRoy Dixson. The search, which was continuing last night, had been fruitless at a late hour.

INGLEWOOD CALLS

At least three of the mysterious telephone calls received at the Parker home, during which the caller always hung up the receiver without revealing why he called, were traced to Inglewood.

At 11:40 a.m. Saturday a man whose description tallies closely with the slayer, called the Parker home from the Balam's grocery store at 907 Hawthorne avenue. The call was intercepted by the Inglewood exchange operator, Miss Anne Lueken, 406 South Grevillea street.

"I'll be here for an hour, if a call comes through for me," the wary killer told the operator. She immediately notified Constable Harry Amend, who rushed to the place only to find that the man had vanished.

Twenty minutes later the same voice placed a call for the Parker home from Crampton's pharmacy, 1101 South Market street.

"I'll give you an hour to do—" exclaimed the caller to Parker and then hung up without completing the sentence.

DESCRIPTION GIVEN

Thirty minutes later the same man appeared at Lamb's grocery, 700 Arbor Vitae street, and after completing the connection with Parker's home, hung up the receiver without saying a word.

W. T. Crampton, proprietor of the pharmacy, described the man as approximately five feet, seven inches tall, weighing 140 pounds, black, greasy hair, thin chin, about 30 years of age, and was wearing a herringbone coat, fedora hat, dark suit. No car was seen by Crampton, he said.

Believing that the murderer either rented or usurped a vacant house or building where the butchery of the child took place, Chief Cline last night appealed to all real-estate operators and landlords closely to inspect vacant buildings in hopes that if the location is found it will aid materially in effecting the man's capture.

Where rentals have been made within the last week to suspicious persons, especially anyone resembling descriptions of the slayer, police request an immediate call.

Angeleno Gets Reno Divorce

RENO (Nev.) Dec. 18. (Exclusive) Testifying he was forced to divorce his first wife in Mexico and wed his second mate, Constantine Nicholas Kauffmann, Los Angeles contractor, has been granted an annulment of his marriage to Ethel Kauffmann. Plaintiff said his second wife threatened his life and the lives of his first wife and child unless he divorced his first mate and wedded her.

Kauffmann was recently refused a divorce from his first wife, Helen Kauffmann by District Judge Thomas F. Moran, who held he had no grounds for a decree, and that his Mexican divorce was illegal. Kauffmann told the court he intended to return to the first Mrs. Kauffmann.

Detectives Examine Grewsome Clews

The missing parts of the body of Marian Parker, 12-year old girl who was kidnaped and murdered, were found in Elysian Park yesterday at about 9:30 a.m. The top picture shows the roadside along which five newspaper bundles containing the parts were found. Below is Detective Neil pointing to the packages on the roadway.

RADIO WARNING BAY CITY PLAN

Parker Girl's Death Leads to Precautionary Steps by Police There

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 18. (AP)—Police officials announced tonight that a radio campaign to warn children and parents to be wary of strangers will be started immediately, in the belief that the slayer of Marian Parker, if he evades the Los Angeles man hunt, may come here to repeat his crime.

"Having accomplished what he did with such comparative ease and safety, it is more than likely that the murderer's courage will be so buoyed up that he will attempt to duplicate the crime, possibly with only minor changes in his plan," said Captain of Detectives Matheson. "For this reason, teachers and parents cannot be too careful in seeing that children are made extremely cautious of strangers."

Thousands of Curious Pass by Stricken Home

For the first time since his little daughter Marion was kidnaped and later brutally murdered, Perry M. Parker, banker, last night broke his silence.

Sitting in the library in the home at 1681 South Wilton Place Parker talked a few minutes with newspapermen.

"This is the saddest moment of my life," he said. "I can't say much. My heart is too full.

"What can I say? My little girl is gone. My little girl who never harmed so much as a fly. She is gone from me forever and when I think how—

OFFICERS THANKED

"Will you please say that I am indebted for life to my friends for their kindness since this tragedy has entered our lives.

"Especially I want to thank Capt. Kallmayer of the Wilshire police, Chief of Detectives Cline and Inspector Cato.

"These men did their best to save my little girl. They have been wonderful. They have hearts of gold.

"And I want to thank the press for the consideration of our feelings in this hour of trial. I can't say more. Please excuse me."

Mrs. Parker appeared outside of her home yesterday afternoon for the first time since the tragic disappearance of her daughter. She was escorted by a police officer on whose arm she leaned heavily as she walked around the block. Mr. Parker did not join his wife, but slept the greater portion of the afternoon.

In the silence of the house, the sirens of police cars told them that the man hunt was still on for the slayer of their little daughter.

Late in the afternoon Mrs. Parker became more nervous. The sounding of an automobile horn would make the grief-stricken woman start from her chair. She does not know the grewsome details of her daughter's death.

The father is carefully guarding the facts from his wife.

CURIOUS DRIVE BY

Late in the afternoon Mr. Parker asked the police to rope off the block in which they live. The cons ant purr of motors and the sounding of auto horns was wearing Mrs. Parker's nerves to the danger point.

It is estimated that more than 25,000 of the morbid curious passed the house during the day. Flappers with their sheiks in their cars. Fathers and mothers, glanding toward the white house with blinds drawn. They, not knowing the bereaved parents, perhaps have children of their own. Their glances were of pity and sorrow.

The December night came. Lights twinkled in windows across the street. Holly and mistletoe shone merrily through window panes. The spirit of Christmas and the finger of death.

YOUNG WILL PUSH PLANS FOR REWARD

Governor Calls Kidnaping and Murder of Girl Among Most Shocking in State

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 18. (AP)—Gov. Young tonight announced that he will take immediate action to add to the already large fund offered for the arrest of the fiend who kidnaped and murdered Marian Parker, 12 years of age, of Los Angeles.

Coincident with this announcement, Gov. Young expressed deep regret over the crime, declaring it to be one of the most shocking in the annals of California history.

"I have been looking up the law in regards to rewards that may be offered by the State and find that the Governor is limited to $2500 each two years," declared Gov. Young. "But when I reach the office tomorrow I shall immediately get in touch with the State Controller and other officials to find if I cannot obtain additional funds and offer a substantial reward."

Of the $2500 allowed each two years $500 already has been paid in one case and $300 is posted in another criminal case, leaving $1700 available.

LOEB-LEOPOLD CASE RECALLED

Girl Murder Here Similar to That of Frank Bo

"Perfect Crime" Planned by Students Fails

Work of Newspaper Reporter Uncovers Clue

CHICAGO, Dec. 18. (AP)—The kidnaping and killing of Marian Parker, 12-year-old Los Angeles girl, recalls the kidnaping and killing of Robert Franks, 14, here in 1924. Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb, in an attempt to commit a "perfect crime."

Leopold and Loeb, university students, specializing in psychology, tempted to violate the law, and to evade detection, for a third time all but successful. Had it not been for a pair of spectacles, they would have been successful.

As in the Parker case, Leopold and Loeb, cruising in an automobile, sought a victim, and picked up the boy by Franks, Loeb's cousin, who was on his way to school. The car was reported missing, and it was when letters demanding ransom were received by the parents that the entire police force of Chicago and other near-by cities went into action.

DEMAND USED AS TRAP

Unlike the Parker case, the ransom was not delivered for the kidnap money, for neither Leopold nor Loeb made a serious effort to collect the money that was demanded, but used to throw the police on a false trail.

Bobby's body was found stuffed into a culvert near a culvert of South Chicago. He had been killed by blows on the head and his body had been poured on the face, nose and the clothing stripped from the body to prevent identification. Without a clue to the slayer, newspaper men searched the area near the place where the body was found and picked up a pair of spectacles. Two newspaper men had spectacles from their pockets, one with the other, and after virtually every optician in Chicago had been visited, the man was found who had sold lenses to these prescriptions than Leopold.

Confronted with the evidence, Leopold told of having lost his spectacles while studying birds in the vicinity of the culvert. This failed to shake the theory of the police until Loeb was told that Leopold's alibi had been broken down. Loeb told that Leopold had used the often-used police trick and Loeb told the entire story which was affirmed by Leopold.

When brought to trial the attorney, Clarence Darrow, saved the court by pleading guilty with the extenuating circumstance of insanity. Judge Crowe sentenced them to life imprisonment. They are inmates of the Joliet penitentiary.

Mental Experts Lay Foul Crime to Sadist

SEX PERVERSION HELD TO BLAME

Psychiatrists Say Condition Forms No Excuse

Marian Parker Declared to Be Victim of Lust

Obtain Emotional Reaction by Inflicting Pain

The kidnaping and slaying of Marian Parker were the work of a Sadist.

This is the belief expressed by Dr. Paul E. Bowers, for seven years superintendent of the Indiana Hospital for the Insane and at present professor of legal medicine at Loyola College, and Dr. Victor Parkin, consulting psychiatrist with offices in the Subway Terminal Building.

A perverted sexual lust, gratified only by the inflicting of physical torture, led the kidnaper of Marian to carry out his fiendish attack, is the contention of these two experts.

It is their belief that the obtaining of the ransom was only a secondary and concomitant motive for the crime. It was planned and carried out, they contend, for the gratification of the abnormal sexual impulse. Realizing that he would need money to effect his escape after carrying out his crime, he selected a family which he believed would be in position to pay a moderate ransom and pay it quickly, they point out.

LIMITED DEMAND

"The ransom of $1500, the man figured, would just about cover his expenses in making his escape," said Dr. Parkin, "and he limited his demand to that amount."

Dr. Parkin is of the opinion that had the kidnaper obtained the ransom on the first night he would have sped away, as he did Saturday, and would have carried out his planned attack on the child.

The attack, both Dr. Parkin and Dr. Bowers declare, was not the work of a man seized with maniacal madness but that of one mentally aware of what he was doing but driven on by a degenerate impulse of which he was a victim.

This is not a form of insanity in which the mind is affected, it is a case of a constitutional anomaly, a degeneracy of the germ protoplasm governing his physical reactions, the psychiatrists state.

GREAT CUNNING

Dr. Bowers said that the man is not a moron.

"I judge that he is more or less conventionally well educated," declared Dr. Bowers. "He is likely to prove to have been a trusted employee, a clerk or office worker of some kind, possibly well thought of by those who did not judge him from the standpoint of the expert. This type of man is usually meticulous in the care of his person and fastidious in his dress. His degeneracy is not apparent on the surface to the untrained eye."

One of the traits of a sadist, Dr. Parkin explained, is the display of a high degree of cunning and egotism. This is shown in the way the kidnaper planned and carried out the crime, Dr. Parkin declares.

Both physicians believe the kidnaper was experiencing a high degree of exultation when he returned with the child's body in the car and that he made certain to get the ransom money to aid in his escape.

REASON FOR DARING

"It was the extreme egotism of the sadist that made the kidnaper believe he was too smart to be captured and made him take the desperate chance to collect the money," said Dr. Parkin.

While both physicians say that the kidnaper is suffering from a constitutional degeneracy for which he is not responsible, they declare that he is not legally insane or mentally deranged and that he cannot plead his condition as a defense for his act if captured.

"He knows morally the difference between right and wrong and cannot plead insanity," asserted Dr. Bowers. "The man is a menace to society and must be permanently removed from it. He cannot be cured by a term in prison."

BAY CITY EXPERT CONCURS IN OPINION

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 18. (AP)—Dr. Joseph Catton, San Francisco psychiatrist, declared today that he believes alienists should "hesitate" to depict the slayer of Marian Parker, in Los Angeles, as mentally abnormal to an extent which would "excuse or even mitigate" the crime. He declared the slayer, sane or insane, should be "done away with."

Dr. Catton said he believes the murderer a cold-blooded, egotistical, antisocial type, "with an emotional disturbance which probably affects his sex life."

The physician said he thinks some sadistic element is involved in the case, that the slayer is of the type which takes pleasure in inflicting pain. Unless some such mental disease caused the crime, Dr. Catton believes, the slayer is a narcotic addict.

"Society's impulse to do away with this type of offender, sane or insane, should be acted on," said Dr. Catton. "In this Christian age we are inclined to want to remove from our reactions to such offenses as these all elements of vengeance. But I feel that this case cries out for vengeance."

THIRTEEN-YEAR CASE FOR DAMAGE ENDED

PARIS, Dec. 18. (AP)—Thirteen years of solemn reflection has convinced the Council of State that small flags are dangerous for small children.

The government has been condemned to pay a pension of 750 francs a year from 1914 onward to Robert Collas for the loss of an eye a few days before the war. Robert, it seems, then only 5, poked out his own eye with a flag stick at school where the teacher, from highly patriotic motives, had distributed little tricolors to all the pupils. This, it was held by the Council of State, the high judicial body that passes on administrative acts in France, was "highly imprudent," although it was admitted to be a common practice.

CYCLE RIDER SHOT DURING POLICE HUNT

Pasadenan Who Failed to Halt When Ordered Hit by Bullet in Chase

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Dec. 18.—Joe Montgomery, 21-year-old mechanic of 521 Montana street, Pasadena, was shot in the heel early this morning by Los Angeles police who chased him from the north city limits of Los Angeles on Avenue 64 after he failed to heed their commands to halt.

The police were stationed at the city limits on the watch for the murderer of Marian Parker in case he tried to leave the city by that route. Montgomery sped through the barricade on a motorcycle, headed for Pasadena, with a girl sitting behind him on the machine.

Instead of stopping he put on more speed when the officers shouted at him to halt. The police said they chased him at sixty-eight miles an hour, but Montgomery got away.

About 2:30 a.m. he came into the Pasadena Emergency Hospital for treatment after he had gone home. Los Angeles police were notified and took him to the General Hospital for questioning. The wound is not serious.

Pasadena police are co-operating with Los Angeles authorities in the hunt for the kidnaper-murderer, and are watching all entrances to this city. Four suspects answering the general description of the slayer were questioned here today and were released after establishing their identity.

MEXICO AND AMERICA ON EASY TERMS

Informality of Relations Seen for First Time in Nation's Intercourse

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 18. (Exclusive) Since the advent of Morrow and the growing intimacy between the Ambassador and President Calles, the diplomats are beginning to scratch their heads and wonder about the upsets in precedents.

First came Morrow, who then got Will Rogers, and the two of them set up intimacy with the Mexican President never before paralleled. Now comes Lindbergh, who is an equal idol with Calles.

Calles accompanied Morrow and Lindbergh back to the Embassy today from the National Stadium after the school exercises, making three Presidential visits to the Embassy in ten days, something unequalled in history.

Undoubtedly important business matters are being discussed and matters of international interest as there has been ample time at the meetings.

Even Lindbergh is growing to be at home in this era of remarkably good relationship for he has announced that Tuesday he will take Calles, Morrow and Gen. Obregon up on a flight.

The situation two months ago when relations were somewhat strained now is completely reversed.

Invent Device to Detect Crime

PORTLAND (Or.) Dec. 18. (Exclusive)—A "crime detector" claimed by its inventor to be an improvement over the device now in use by the Los Angeles and Berkeley police departments has been perfected by Dr. Harold Crosland of the University of Oregon psychology department.

The new instrument operates without pain to the subject, and makes a more accurate record, according to Dr. Crosland.

DRAMA OF DEATH ENACTED

Dingy Squad Room of Police Throbs With Desire for Vengeance as Child Murder News Comes

With one of the greatest man hunts ever launched in Southern California progressing in a systematic and determined manner for the fiendish slayer of Marian Parker, the pulse of Los Angeles yesterday throbbed with dual emotions—pity for the slain girl and her family and a desire for the vengeance of justice on the brutal killer.

As hour after hour passed and squads of heavily armed men swept through the city searching relentlessly, running down every clew, no matter how meager, the thirst for news on the developments in the sensational case was unquenchable. The dual emotions evoked an interest in the kidnaping-murder which is unsurpassed in the crime annals of the police department.

DRAMATIC MOMENT

The center of the feverish activity, where swollen-eyed men, who have not slept for many, many hours, received orders which spurred their jagged nerves to new action, in a fresh tip or clew is a dingy squad room at Central police headquarters.

Within those walls, where crime discussion and the criminal hunt is a profession, grim and determined men spoke in whispers, some sitting about in groups fondling revolvers and sawed-off shotguns and others pacing the floors nervously.

It was in this room Saturday night where the most dramatic moment in the history of the department raised high hopes for a fleeting instant and dashed them to speechless despair when the flash came.

Shortly before that memorable moment came the scores of detectives who had been concentrated there, moved restlessly about the room. The hour was fast approaching when all hoped that Marian would be delivered safe and sound to her father's arms by the kidnaper.

TRAGIC CLIMAX

High tension was apparent, cigarettes were smoked incessantly, a thick haze of smoke floated in the room, shuffling of feet, whispers of serious conversation, officers tugging at their gun belts, a flash and breathless silence!

Chief of Detectives Cline threw open the door of his private office and began barking orders. Officers sprang at his commands. All snapped into action for the word which would send them against the kidnaper.

Cline, a veteran officer, stood in the door of his private office bombarded by questions. The calm of the grizzled officer almost deserted him as he ordered the flying squadrons into action.

"Captain, has she——?"

"Yes," he said slowly, with narrowed eyes, "the girl has been delivered, but—she is dead!"

INCREASE IN SECRET SERVICE PROPOSED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18. (AP)—An increase in the field personnel of the secret service has been recommended to Secretary Mellon by Chief Moran. More men are needed, he said today, because of the increasing volume of secret service work due to enforcement of the soldier bonus and the Federal farm loan act and investigation of counterfeiting and forging of government transportation vouchers.

Slain Girl's Funeral May be Tomorrow

Funeral services for Marian Parker, victim of the heinous murderer who sold her mutilated body to her father for $1500, probably will be conducted tomorrow, according to the slain girl's brother, William Parker.

Young Parker told last night of tentative plans to hold services for his sister from Emanuel Presbyterian Church, Plymouth street and Wilshire Boulevard, where she attended Sunday-school. Rev. Herbert Booth Smith, pastor of the church, will conduct the services.

After the funeral the Parker family plans to leave the city for a few days and go into seclusion.

An apple tree at Glen Cove, N. Y., subject of many grafting operations, is now bearing thirty-five varieties of apples, according to the assertion of James Holloway, in whose orchard it stands.

CLIMAX DUE IN OKLAHOMA ROW

Court Scheduled to Decide Injunction Question

Most of Legislators Spend Week-end at Home

Governor and Forces Await Judicial Ruling

OKLAHOMA CITY (Okla.) Dec. 18. (AP)—While a half-dozen National Guardsmen patroled before the chambers of the Senate and House of Representatives at the State Capitol today to prevent any assembly of the House, most of the members were at their homes in various parts of the State.

The special session leaders who remained in Oklahoma City over the week-end declare that tomorrow probably will bring a climax in court action when the District Court of Oklahoma county hands down its decision as to whether it will issue a permanent injunction to Gov. Johnston, preventing the House or Senate from meeting, hearing evidence or taking further testimony.

The members of the self-convened House have disregarded the temporary restraining order issued by the court and during the last week voted seven charges against the Governor.

DECISION AWAITED

Gov. Johnston, his confidential secretary, Mrs. O. O. Hammonds, who has been involved by one of the charges against the Governor, and attorneys for the chief executive are marking time today, awaiting the decision of the three District Court judges who heard arguments on the application of the Governor for an injunction.

Should the court rule tomorrow that the injunction is to be granted, the Guardsmen will aid the Sheriff of Oklahoma county in enforcing it, if such a request is made by Gov. Johnston, Adjt.-Gen. Barrett has announced.

Representative E. P. Hill, speaker of the purported House of Representatives, states that the members of that body will be called back to Oklahoma City early this week to consider the charges of moral turpitude against the Governor, which were reported out of the investigating committee Friday night.

SENATE MOVEMENT

A movement is said to be under way today among some Senators to attempt to call the purported Senate impeachment court into session early in the week to suspend the Governor from office, create a dual government in Oklahoma and attempt by some means to get the question of the legality of the Senate impeachment court into the Federal courts.

The Senate adjourned Thursday until the 28th inst., after voting to issue writs of summons to the Governor, F. P. Branson, Chief Justice of the State Supreme Court, and Harry B. Cordell, president of the State Board of Agriculture, asking them to appear and enter pleas when the asserted court returned.

House investigating committees will convene again tomorrow and will begin further investigations into the departments of the State government. Representative Kight, chairman of the general investigation committee of the House, says that it is the plan of the sessionists to inquire into the affairs of every office at the Capitol.

ZOO POPULATION

VIENNA (Austria) Dec. 18. (AP)—The Vienna zoo has regained its prewar population. In celebrating the zoo's one hundred and seventy-fifth anniversary, it was announced that the number of animals had reached 3000—the same figure as in 1914.

SCHWAB LOOKS FAR AHEAD

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 18. (AP)—Charles M. Schwab, steel magnate, hopes to live twenty years longer to see his dreams of great industrial progress come true.

"I have enjoyed every day of my life," he said, speaking at the fiftieth anniversary celebration of the Engineers' Club, "and I wouldn't change a minute of it if I had to live it over again.

"I believe the world is going on with ever accelerating speed and progressiveness. I want to live twenty years longer and see the great advancement that is surely coming within that time."

Early in the day Mr. Schwab, John Hays Hammond, engineer, and Howard Elliott, chairman of the board of the Northern Pacific Railways, were awarded the honorary degree of doctor of science at special exercises in College Hall, University of Pennsylvania. The degrees were conferred by Provost Josiah H. Penniman.

RUMANIA NEARS FINAL UPHEAVAL

Fall of Government Within Two Months Expected

Leader of Opposition Likely to Become Premier

Carol's Return Then May Be Put Up to Vote

[Copyright, 1927, by Chicago Tribune.]

GROSSWARDEIN (Rumania) Dec. 18. (Exclusive)—The fall of the Rumanian government within a couple of months seem certain.

Discredited by the trial of Manoilescu, former Crown Prince Carol's agent, shaken by the internal and external reaction against the student riots at Grosswardein, lacking the leadership of the late Premier Jon Bratiano, who alone is credited with directing the Rumanian nation and dynasty in the last sixteen years, and divided by differences between the members of the Cabinet itself, suffusing throughout the country economic paralysis, the government already is showing signs of disintegration.

This means the dissolution of Parliament and new elections as demanded by the leader of the opposition, M. Maniu, generally regarded as the logical successor to the Premiership.

M. Maniu has pledged himself to allow the people of Rumania if Prince Carol demands, to settle the question for all time whether the black sheep Crown Prince returns as regent or King.

Embarrassed by the bad impression from the student riots, and especially by the Keller case, at home and abroad, M. Manoilescu, who, for years has been working to create good will between Rumania, England and America, is threatening to resign.

The opposition openly is making capital of the disturbances, as M. Maniu bitterly condemns the policy of the government, from the economic program, returning private debts of foreigners under foreign control to Rumanian enterprises, down to the treatment of minorities.

MOSCOW REDS OUST ENEMIES

Forty-eight Opposition Leaders Expelled

Communist Congress Makes Clean Sweep

Trotsky Denied to Express Opposition Views

MOSCOW, Dec. 18. (AP)—The Communist party Congress today unanimously voted to expel ninety-eight of the most prominent opposition leaders from the party.

Those expelled today are Leon Trotsky, former Ambassador to France; Leon B. Kamenoff, former Vice-Premier who has held various other important positions in the soviet government; Karl Radek, journalist; George Piatakoff, former vice-president of the Supreme Council of National Economy; Ivan Smirnoff, former vice-commissar of war, and Sapronoff, former secretary of the Central Executive Committee.

ORDERS ENMITY

Announcement of expulsion charges in connection with openly adhering to the views of proletarian dictatorship declares that the Central Executive Committee must take measures to sever the rank and file supporters of the Trotsky opposition movement and to expel incorrigible leaders.

The oppositionists addressed to the congress two petitions, one embodying the views of Leon Trotsky, the former Commissar for War, and Rakovsky, Radek and Trotsky's chief followers. The other put the views of Gregory Zinoviev, who was expelled from the party recently with Trotsky. The second petition was signed by Kamenoff, Evdokimoff and a number of prominent oppositionists.

FIGHT ON RIGHTS

Trotsky followers, in arguing their case, insisted on the right to express their views, while the Zinovievites pleaded the right to retain their views while expressing their readiness to desist from propaganda.

The congress insisted on complete surrender, holding that Zinoviev's pledge involved a refusal to abandon ideologic weapons.

Along with the ousted leaders the congress liquidated the old Sapronoff opposition party group, which was active for years before the Trotsky faction assumed concrete form.

DETROIT, Dec. 18. (Exclusive)—"Lizzie" and "Elizabeth," otherwise Model T and Model A of the Ford family, crashed on West Fort street, and though the only results were crumpled fenders and considerable sizzling conversation, the incident is real news, for, so far as is known, it was the first collision of its kind.

Hawaii Seeks Record Influx

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 18. (Exclusive)—With Hawaiian travel agencies planning the most extensive advertising campaigns in their history, the Paradise Islands seem destined for a record tourist influx during the coming season, in the belief of Roy V. Crowder, passenger traffic manager of the Los Angeles Steamship Company. He has returned from a survey of the situation conducted with S. F. Trood, advertising manager of the Lasco line.

The people of the islands, Crowder learned, plan to make the business of attracting tourists second only to that of sugar and pineapple production, at present the principal industries. Hotel accommodations, restaurants, pleasure resorts and travel facilities already compare favorably with any in the United States and Europe, he said.

DOCTOR DENIES IDEA OF COLDS

English Physician Ridicules Draught Theory

Takes Exception to List of So-called Causes

Cites Open-Air Sanatorium to Prove Fallacy

PLYMOUTH (Eng.) Dec. 18. (AP)—Dr. Leonard Hill, president of the Sanitary Inspectors' Associations of England, has exploded a ton of dynamite under the old Victorian bugaboos of wet feet and draughts.

His motto is: "Enjoy the cold and keep healthy."

"Colds are ascribed popularly," he said, "to draughts from an open window, to wet footgear, to cutting the hair in winter, and to saying good bye at an open door after coming from a warm room.

CITES PROOF

"But in an open-air sanatorium where patients are exposed to cold all the time they don't catch cold. Patients get their feet wet in the garden and do not change all day, and yet suffer no bad effect.

"While it has been the custom of the Victorian age to fear the cold wind, to muffle up the throat, to put on overalls, etc., the lessons learned at the open-air sanatorium are to the opposite effect.

"Flying men, Alpine climbers, street-corner men, fishermen, ploughmen, shepherds, bakers going from hot ovens to cold streets, doctors going from warm beds to drive in cars to patients, winter bathers, Russians, who after a steam bath role in the snow, are not subject to catarrh or rheumatism through exposure to cold.

SOLDIERS EXPERIENCE

"The soldiers at the front in the great war, exposed in the trenches, and the sailors exposed in the North Sea to the severest winter conditions, were singularly free from catarrhal complaints and pneumonia.

"A man engaged in business severely suffered each winter from chilblains, and was fearful of the effect of exposure when called up to serve in the war. At the front he had no chilblains at all.

"The view has been commonly held that pneumonia results from exposure to cold, and the lownecked blouses of women, when first introduced were called 'pneumonia blouses.' There is little or no evidence in favor of this view."

Vienna Plans to Honor Strauss

VIENNA, Dec. 18. (AP)—Richard Strauss, noted composer, will be given a large plot of government land in Vienna in return for his conducting gratuitiously twenty operas each season for the next five years and as a tribute to his genius.

Special act of Parliament to this effect has been adopted, making the composer the first individual to acquire government-owned property in Vienna in Austria's history.

The plot of land is that on which Strauss already has built a beautiful villa. Hitherto he had been unable to acquire the site which is valued at $77,000.

HEALTH MENACE FOUND IN MILK

Small Town Supply Declared Danger to Millions

Study Indicates Immediate Need for Control

American Child Association Completes Survey

NEW YORK, Dec. 18. (AP)—Unpasteurized, dirty milk constitutes a menace to the health of the 25,000,000 people living in the so-called small towns of the United States, a survey completed by the American Child Association indicates.

"If we may use milk supply control as an indication of sanitary development," says Dr. Samuel J. Crumbine, general executive of the association, "health department practice of the small town is still in its infancy. Its milk supply is little better in sanitary quality than it would have been if the process of pasteurization had never been discovered.

"The initial high bacterial count of the milk is increased by failure to ice the supply, and protection of danger from infection by men and cattle is not prevented by pasteurization."

REPRESENTATIVE SURVEY

Dr. Crumbine and Dr. Dorothy F. Holland, a staff associate, obtained information on the milk supplies of 142 small towns and cities regarded as representative of the entire country. Ninety-seven of the 117 communities giving data on the extent of pasteurization reported that they were taking no such precaution. None had 40 per cent or more of its milk supply pasteurized.

"The results of the bacteriological analyses indicate immediate need for effective milk control," Dr. Crumbine asserts. "An average of 25 per cent of the supplies examined contained 200,000 or more bacteria per cubic centimeter; an average of 40 per cent of the supplies examined contained 100,000 or more bacteria per cubic centimeter. Fifty-one cities gave a positive test for the bacteria present in cow manure in 50 per cent or more; twenty-one cities a positive test in 75 per cent or more of their supplies examined.

"The milk supplies were on the whole dirty, according to physical standards. In only two of the towns and cities tested were 75 per cent or more of the supplies subjected to the sediment test found to be clean or fairly clean.

DANGER REAL ONE

"In 109 of the towns and cities surveyed none of the supplies examined were iced. Only nine cities had 50 per cent or more of their supplies iced, and in seventy-one cities more than half of the milk was being delivered at temperatures of over 55 deg. Fahr.

"The condition in large cities presents a striking contrast. Thirty of sixty-one cities of over 100,000 population reported 90 per cent or more of their supplies pasteurized. But even the large city falls short of the goal, 100 per cent pasteurization, which must be attained if we are to have a safe milk supply.

"The danger of infection of consumers by tubercular cattle is a real one in the places covered by the survey," Dr. Crumbine declares. "Only 43 per cent of the cities reported that the cattle supplying their milk had been tuberculin tested within a year."

SANTA FE TRAIN ESCAPES ATTACK OF BUTTING AUTO

CLEMENTS (Kan.) Dec. 18. (Exclusive)—Ben Wetherholt, retired farmer, was trying out a new car today. He approached the railroad crossing. Up the track a short distance he saw a Santa Fe passenger train coming at a high rate of speed.

Wetherholt became confused, and gave the car more gas, according to railroad officials. His car struck the first coach at a forty-mile clip.

The impact broke the steps on the coach and caused the car to rebound, but did not put it out of the commission. Instead it made a second charge at the train, hitting another coach near the rear, slightly damaging the steps.

Before the motor could charge again the train was safely out of the way.

Damage to the motor car consisted of a flat tire and bent fenders and radiator. Peter Schimpf, riding with Wetherholt, was slightly bruised and both men were unnerved by their thrilling experience.

Bay City Likes to Eat--and How

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 18. (Exclusive)—More than one visitor to the Golden Gate has remarked about the obvious fact that San Franciscans like to eat—and how. The figures now are available to show that the observations were not taken in vain.

During the year 1926, according to compilations of the Department of Commerce, residents of this city spent $123,385,900 for food and drink (nonintoxicating, of course.) During the same period, $55,007,700 was spent for automobiles.

ILLINOIS TO TRY GANGSTER TRIO

Case Sequel to Williamson County Crime Feud

Information Furnished by Rival's Adherents

Three Brothers Face Charge of Robbing Bank

TAYLORVILLE (Ill.) Dec. 18. (AP)—The sequel to the Shelton-Birger feud, waged in Williamson county to the raking rat-a-tat of machine guns, will be enacted in Circuit Court here tomorrow.

Carl, Earl and Bernie Shelton will be tried for bank robbery as a result of accusations made by adherents of Charles Birger, rival gang leader. It will be the second time they have been brought to court on information furnished by their sworn enemies.

Last February the Sheltons were convicted of a $15,000 mail robbery at Collinsville, Ill., largely on testimony of Birger and Art Newman, his lieutenant, but they were released from Leavenworth penitentiary after Harvey Dungy, Birger gangster, admitted he gave perjured testimony.

They now face trial on a charge of robbing the bank of Kincaid, Ill., in 1924, and they were indicted principally on testimony of Newman, who said he heard them plan the attack.

Birger sits in the shadow of the noose. He has been sentenced to death for the murder of Mayor Joe Adams of West City and now awaits a Supreme Court appeal. Newman was given life on the same charge.

Williamson county lately has seen most of its gangsters drop out of the picture, either through prosecution, the quick bullet of an enemy or unsolved disappearances.

SIX MEN ALIVE ON SUBMARINE

Divers Talk to Survivors by Code Rapping

Rest of Crew in Other Rooms Feared Victims

Every Effort Being Made to Float Wreck

of the S-51, sunk off Block Island two years ago, arrived here today by seaplane to perform a similar service, while a fast navy destroyer went to Boston tonight to meet Commander Edward Ellsberg, who came out of retirement to volunteer his services as director of diving operations. Commander Ellsberg filled this role also in the case of the S-51.

Before the S-8 sent the message which electrified the officers and men aboard the rescue fleet, Navy and Coast Guard vessels had been vying with one another all forenoon to do something to help the men imprisoned in the submarine. Early in the morning a small Coast Guard boat had dropped an anchor and this had taken hold of what appeared to be a sunken boat.

In the rather rough sea it was impossible to confirm this for several hours. When it was definitely established that the S-4 had been located the first thought was to try to find out whether any one aboard her was still alive. The submarine S-8, equipped with submarine signals was the boat best fitted for this task.

SHIPS TIED TOGETHER

Her early efforts, made with the submarine bell, were successful. Then it was determined to get divers to work as soon as possible. This was a slow process, as the ships had to be maneuvered into just the right positions and elaborate preparations made.

The mine-layers Falcon, Lark and Mallard finally were tied together over the spot where the S-4 went down.

The Lark, with Rear-Admiral Brumby aboard, was in the center. She had fifteen expert navy divers aboard and is fully equipped for diving operations.

When the word came from the S-8 that the S-4 had answered signals the work of getting divers down was hastened. They were put on a platform and lowered into the water while air was pumped down to them from the Falcon. The Lark and the Mallard served the purpose of holding the Falcon steady for the operations.

Thomas Eadie and W J. Carr were the first navy divers sent down. What should be done next depended upon the report of their inspection of the S-4.

DETAILS OF CRASH

Just how the collision occurred was more fully described today by Coast Guard officers. It was 3:37 p.m. yesterday, when the periscope of the S-4 suddenly appeared in front of the destroyer as the Paulding was rounding a buoy to enter Provincetown Harbor.

"The visibility was good and the weather was good," said a statement issued by the officers of the Coast Guard cutter Tampa through Capt. Molloy, senior Coast Guard officer. "The first intimation of the presence of a submarine was when her periscope emerged from the water directly in front too close to avoid. Then the helm of the Paulding was shifted and full speed given.

"The Paulding struck the submarine forward of the conning tower, ripping a long hole in the underwater body of the submarine, which rolled over and sank within a few minutes. No one on board the Paulding saw anyone on the submarine at any time before or after the collision.

"The Paulding lowered a lifeboat, which searched for any survivors from the submarine, but found none. The Paulding then dropped a buoy to mark the spot where the submarine sank. The Paulding was then filling with water, but managed to get into Provincetown Harbor."

BEACHED IN HARBOR

The Paulding was beached in the harbor and today the destroyer Tucker was pumping oil from her. Only one man aboard the Paulding was injured. He was Joseph MacMillan, ship's cook, who was scalded when a steam pipe burst. He was sent to the Marine Hospital in Chelsea. Immediately upon receipt of the first word of the collision the Navy Department at Washington and every Navy Yard and Coast Guard base along the Atlantic Coast began to spring into activity. Destroyers, mine layers, tugs and other vessels were ordered to proceed with all speed to the scene. By morning a good-sized fleet was assembled in and near Provincetown.

Provincetown Village was greatly excited over the disaster, in the churches this morning. All the pastors referred to it in their sermons and prayers were offered for the safety of the men trapped in the submarine.

All day long the water front was crowded. A steady stream of automobiles poured over the winding roads of the cape bringing newspaper men, photographers, motion-picture cameramen and hundreds of the curious. Eyes were strained to watch the work of the rescue fleet which could be seen from the vicinity of the Wood End Coast Guard station. Those who came ashore in small boats from the fleet occasionally were overwhelmed with questions.

RECALL OTHER DISASTER

In every mind was the recollection of the disaster to the submarine S-51 off Block Island in September, 1925. That boat, of the same class as the S-4 but somewhat larger was sunk after collision with the steamer City of Rome. For days hope persisted that some of the men trapped in the submarine might be alive, but the only ones rescued were some of the crew who had managed to get out through the conning tower. Thirty-three lives were lost.

Every section of the country was represented on the crew list of the S-4. There was even one native of the Philippines aboard. Their relatives are scattered all over the United States and some live in Canada.

The rescue workers today were favored with one of the finest days of the season. The air was frosty, but the sun shone from a clear sky all day. Last night's high wind had subsided considerably, but the sea became rather rough.

Just how many men were trapped in the vessel is uncertain. A revised list of the supposed crew given out by the Navy Department at Washington contained the names of four officers and thirty-four men, but the department emphasized that it is possible that some of these might not have been aboard and that additional men might have been shipped before the S-4 left on her last run.

TWO VISITORS

It was established that Lieutenant-Commander Roy K. Jones of Hennessy, Okla., was in command of the submarine and that two men not directly connected with the ship were aboard. These were Lieutenant-Commander W. F. Callaway of the naval board of inspection and survey stationed at Washington, and Charles A. Ford of Washington, a civilian, who had been chief draughtsman for the board. This would make a total of forty men on the craft.

The other officers believed to have been on the S-4 are Lieuts. J. A. McGinley of Norristown, Pa.; Graham Newell Fitch of Washington and Donald Weller of Los Angeles, all attached to the submarine base at New London, Ct.

Built at the Portsmouth Navy Yard, the S-4 was commissioned on November 19, 1919. She is 231 feet long and has a deadweight of 900 tons. The Paulding is of 740 tons..

CONVERSATION WITH TRAPPED MEN REPORTED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18. (AP) — A message from Rear-Admiral Brumby to the Navy Department tonight says that divers have found six men alive in the torpedo room of the sunken submarine S-4 off Provincetown, Mass.

The message adds that air is being pumped to the submarine tanks and that a conversation by means of hammer knocks on the submarine's hull, has taken place between the divers and the men inside the torpedo room.

The men drew from the entrapped sailors that the air is bad inside the S-4, but that no gas is being encountered. Pleas to hurry with the rescue work were sent back to the divers through the crude medium of constant knocks of the hammers.

Thus far there has been no evidence that any one else is alive on the sunken craft, Admiral Brumby says.

BRUMBY'S REPORT

Admiral Brumby's message in full follows:

"Blowing from Falcon (mine layer) to tanks. Air now being hooked up to compartment.

"Following messages sent and received from S-4:

"'Is gas bad?'"

"'No, but the air. How long will you be now?'"

"'How many are there?'

"'Six, please hurry.'

"'Will you be long now?'

"'We are doing everything possible.'

"Messages from S-4 were by means of hammer knocks on hull. No evidence so far anyone is alive anywhere but torpedo room."

No further details are given in the message, which was sent at 7:55 p.m. This indicates that the rescue work is proceeding despite heavy seas and darkness.

WORD SENT TO COOLIDGE

Navy officials are jubilant over the Brumby message and immediately after its receipt Secretary Wilbur telephoned President Coolidge.

Three torpedo men listed in the navy records as members of the crew of the S-4 when she went down after colliding with the Coast Guard destroyer Paulding are Russell Archibald Crabb of San Diego, Frank Snizek of Ridgefield Park, N. J., and Roger Leslie Short of Boonville, Mo.

These three, navy officials believe, undoubtedly are among the six men found alive in the torpedo room of the craft.

Officers here claim a record for the feat of establishing contact with the S-4. In less than thirty hours, they point out, the spot of the accident had been marked, divers let down, air lines attached and means employed to communicate with the men inside.

While waiting further word as to the progress of the Falcon's work, officials express the belief that some of the electricians, battery men and possibly an officer are among the torpedo room's complement of six with whom the divers carried on conversation.

Belief that it would be two or three days before rescuers lift the S-4 from her stranded position on the bottom of the sea was indicated tonight by officers in commenting on the fact that one of the pontoons en route from the Brooklyn Navy Yard to the scene of the disaster had broken loose from its carrier.

Admiral Charles F. Hughes, chief of naval operation, said this made little difference because it probably will not be needed for two or three days. Ten pontoons in all were being carried to the S-4's assistance.

The Weather Bureau said tonight that bad conditions for rescue operations exist tonight at Provincetown, where a barometric reading of 29.50 and an eighteen to twenty-eight-mile wind was reported. There is a low-pressure area over New Foundland and the weather is expected to continue adverse tomorrow near the rescue scene.

S-4 INTERIOR DESCRIBED

Experts Piece Together Accident Reports, With Theories of Conditions Aboard

NEW YORK, Dec. 18. (AP)—The design of the interior of the submarine S-4 is informative as to some of the possible activities of the crew at the moment of the collision.

Submarines of the S class are divided into five compartments. Beginning aft and going forward they are:

First, the motor room, or aft torpedo room.

Next, the engine room, wherein are situated in the S-4 type two Diesel engines of 700 horsepower each. Above the engine room is a hatch, through which air is drawn when the submarine is running on the surface.

Third, the control room. This room is directly under the conning tower. When the submarine is under way, whether cruising above or below water or diving or ascending, a dozen men are stationed in the control room. At such times these men usually include the officers.

Fourth, the battery compartment. Here are the men's bunks, their tiny wardroom tucked to one side like a breakfast nook, and the galleys. Here most of the men would be found when off duty, but with the submarine diving or about to break the surface, this compartment probably would be vacant, with the crew at stations elsewhere.

Fifth, the forward torpedo compartment, where on an availability run it is likely three or four men would be stationed.

Of such a crew as the S-4 carried, half a dozen probably would be in the engine-room watch. Several more would be in the motor room. In the control room would be a full complement standing at valves, ready to let the compressed air into the tanks which had been filled with water when the craft was submerged.

An expert of the New York Times, putting together the reports of the accident, says:

"Reports from Provincetown indicate that the S-4 was "breeching" (coming up) in which case the crew were at the valves blowing the ballast tanks. In the conning tower below the top hatch a quartermaster stood, and almost directly beneath him, with an eye glued to the periscope, was the officer in command at the time.

"Naval officers here believe that whoever was acting in command of the submarine probably saw the destroyer bearing down when it was too late to avert the collision, but in time to order a 'crash dive.'

"The crash dive is a quick submerging maneuver. When the boat is entirely on the surface it takes about a minute to submerge with a crash dive, when every compartment—almost the whole bottom of the boat—is opened and the water is allowed to rush in. At the same time the officer on duty in the control room orders the two diving rudders placed in diving position and the boat submerges, both vertically and laterally, at once.

"Officers here recalled the submarine several years ago in Asiatic waters that was rising from a dive and crashed right through the hull of a destroyer overhead. The commander of the submarine at once ordered a dive.

"He had lost most of his conning tower, but he came to rest on the bottom, took account of stock and found the boat not only dry, but apparently uninjured, and, except for being blind by reason of the destruction of the periscope, ready for maneuvers. After one or two trials of valves, he decided once again to try to ascend and he succeeded.

"Minus its conning tower, the submarine came to the surface. Hatches were opened and the crew climbed on deck safe and sound before the astonished eyes of the surface fleet.

"The compartments of the S-4 communicate with each other through heavy steel water-tight doors. If one of the compartments has caved in under the impact of the collision, it is possible the majority of the crew escaped into either end of the boat, closed the doors and have air to breathe without being able to help themselves. Rescue, therefore, must come from the outside."

Destroyer's Officers Assert Craft Sank Bow First

Coast Guardsmen Also Issue Statement on Accident

PROVINCETOWN (Mass.) Dec. 18. (AP)—The submarine S-4 rolled over and sank bow first when the destroyer Paulding hit the undersea craft, officers of the Paulding say today in describing the crash. Ensign George Phannemiller, who was on watch on the Paulding at the time, gives this version of the collision:

"I saw the periscope first, but thought it was a fish stick, a marker which fishermen use for their nets. I shifted the helm because I did not want to get this supposed stick jammed in our screw. Next, I saw a part of the submarine's conning tower. Then the crash came.

"The submarine turned over and sank bow first at an angle of 45 deg., within a few minutes."

A statement issued by the officers of the Coast Guard cutter Tampa, through Capt. Mallon, senior Coast Guard officer, also describes the accident.

COAST GUARD REPORT

"The Paulding was patrolling the vicinity of Cape Cod on the afternoon of the 17th inst.," the statement says. "The visibility was good and the weather was good. The first intimation of the presence of a submarine was when her periscope emerged from the water directly in front, too close to avoid. Then the helm of the Paulding was shifted, and full speed given.

"The Paulding struck the submarine forward of the conning tower, ripping a long hole in the underwater body of the submarine, which rolled over and sank within a few minutes.

"No one on board the Paulding saw anyone on the submarine at any time before or after the collision. The Paulding lowered a lifeboat, which searched for any survivors from the submarine, but found none.

"The Paulding then dropped a buoy to mark the spot where the submarine sank. The Paulding then was filling with water, but managed to get into Provincetown Harbor."

PRAISE FOR CREW

Lieutenant-Commander Bayliss, commanding officer on the Paulding, says the men of his crew acted "nobly."

When the collision occurred, the force of the crash was so great, according to Bayliss, that the bow of the Paulding was lifted completely out of water. Coast Guardsmen at the Land's End station reported to him that they saw the nose of the destroyer jump clear of the water, when it hit the submarine.

The Paulding is tied up alongside the destroyer Tucker and the Tucker is pumping oil out of the damaged destroyer in an effort to lighten her. When this work is completed, and the weather permits, the Paulding will be towed to Boston.

DEVICE GIVING FIRST SIGNS OF LIFE DESCRIBED

NEW YORK, Dec. 18. (AP)—The oscillator, through which first signs of life aboard the sunken submarine S-4 were heard, is a drum-like attachment on the shell of the submarine. This vibrates, a grating sound that can be heard about 200 yards.

The sound is detected by a microphone connected with the hull of another submarine or ship. This system of signaling is used only in emergencies, and was developed during the war.

CHIEF PETTY OFFICER REARED IN GLOBE, ARIZ.

GLOBE (Ariz.) Dec. 18. (AP)—Chief Petty Officer Walter C. Bishop, radio operator aboard the sunken submarine S-4, was born and reared in this city. He enlisted in the Navy at El Paso, Tex., in 1921. His family still lives here.

Bishop had been in the submarine service since his enlistment. For two years he has been on the S-4.

Besides members of his family here, he has a sister, Mrs. Perry Laity, in Pasadena, Cal.

About 12,000 Indians fought with the American forces in the recent war.

MANY DIE IN SUBMARINES

NEW YORK, Dec. 18. (AP)—Submersible fighting craft, while forming a comparatively small part of the world's great navies, have furnished some of the outstanding marine disasters of the past decade.

The last great submarine disaster was the loss of the S-51 off Block Island, R. I., when thirty-four men were killed in the sinking of the submarine in a collision with the City of Rome in September of 1925.

Other accidents to undersea craft, as shown by the Associated Press records were:

The American submarine O-5, in collision with a steamer at the Atlantic Ocean entrance to the Panama Canal in 1923; three men lost.

In 1915, at Honolulu, loss of twenty-two officers and men of the F-4.

CREW RESCUED

In December, 1923, forty-two men were trapped eight hours under water when the S-48 went to the bottom with an open hatch. All were rescued. The accident happened on a trial cruise off Bridgeport, Ct.

In August, 1923, a new unnamed Japanese undersea boat sank on its first trial trip at Kobe, with the largest recorded loss in submarine history. Eighty-five men were killed when the craft listed and sank.

March 19, 1924, forty-nine lives were lost on the Japanese submarine No. 43 in collision with the Japanese battleship Tatsuta off Susebo.

January 10, 1924, forty-three officers and men of the British submarine L-24 were lost off Portland, Eng., in a collision with the British dreadnaught Resolute.

In September, 1925, the Italian submarine Sebastiano Veniero was lost during maneuvers off Sicily, with fifty men aboard.

On March 23, 1922, during war games off Gibraltar, a British submarine with twenty-three men aboard, was rammed and sunk by a British destroyer.

MANY BOATS LOST

In 1918 a British submarine sank in the English Channel, and during the war numerous German underwater boats were lost and never recovered.

On January 30, 1925, the American S-48 grounded off Portsmouth, N. H., in a snowstorm, but was floated the next day, and during the same month the S-19 grounded for a short time off Cape Cod.

An accident at the Brooklyn Navy Yard in 1916 caused four deaths and many injuries to members of the crew on board the United States Navy E-2. The accident was caused by an explosion.

The explosion of gas in the storage battery compartment of the United States submarine S-49 at New London, Ct., killed three men and injured nine others April 4, 1926.

GUEST ABOARD SUBMARINE BROTHER-IN-LAW OF ANGELENO

Charles A. Ford, who was a guest on board the submarine S-4 sunk off Cape Cod, is a brother-in-law of Mrs. E. A. Pagin of 942 Kensington Road, Los Angeles. Mr. Ford was a guest of Lieutenant-Commander William F. Galloway at the time of the accident. He is a civilian and employed as chief draughtsman in the Bureau of Naval Inspection in Washington.

HEARST INQUIRY SCOPE WIDENS

Investigation May Reach Into Files at Mexico City

Quest for Official Documents Cited as Possibility

Papers in Question May Be Used for Checking

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18. (AP)—Papers from files of the offices in Mexico City may be sought by the special Senate investigating committee to check against documents supposed to have been taken from there purporting to show that a $1,215,000 slush fund was provided by Mexico for four United States Senators.

This possible move is given today as one reason for the postponement of further hearings by the committee until the 27th inst. After a long conference yesterday, with Undersecretary Olds of the State Department, the committee sent out for additional papers declining to give details of its quest.

Opening a widespread secret inquiry after three days of open hearings, Senator Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, chairman of the special committee, announced last night that the committee has reached no conclusions as to the genuineness of the documents, which were published in Hearst papers.

SENATORS ABSOLVED

Absolution of the four Senators named in the Hearst documents—Borah, Norris, Heflin and La Follette—already has been given by committee members, who are determined to find out how the documents came into existence.

To this end, careful check is being made on the story of Miguel Avila, American-born son of a Mexican father and Italian mother, who told the committee he purchased all the documents with money provided by Hearst and saw most of them extracted from files in the Mexican archives in Mexico City and from the files of Arturo M. Elias, Mexican Consul-General in New York City, the supposed intermediary in this country for transmittal of the huge fund.

TYPEWRITING SAMPLES

Yesterday the committee obtained samples of Avila's typewriting and of the typewriting of John Page, Hearst reporter, who said he employed Avila to get the Mexican documents. Avila also was questioned closely about a ledger sheet which he said he saw extracted from the files in Mexico City.

Meeting in executive session late yesterday the committee also heard Dr. L. S. Rowe, director-general of the Pan-American Union, and a mysterious stranger who was not identified.

Informed by representatives of all telegraph and cable companies doing business between Mexico and this country that their records show no money to have been transferred to Elias by his government, the committee also now is seeking to determine how, if at all, the money was transmitted from Mexico.

MALONE OFFERS REWARD IN STATEMENT

BUFFALO, Dec. 18. (AP) — Dudley Field Malone of New York tonight announced that he will pay a reward of $5000 for evidence to show who is responsible for the charges that a large sum of money had been received from Mexico for distribution among United States Senators and "expose the motive behind the conspiracy."

Mr. Malone, who is on a visit here, said that although he already has appeared before the Senate investigating committee he has waited until all the important testimony has been laid before the committee before making a public statement.

"The uncontradicted estimony of Senator Borah, Senator Norris, Senator La Follette and Senator Heflin," his statement said, "shows that until I went to Washington last Thursday I had not seen or had any contact with any of these Senators for periods ranging from five to thirteen years. Mr. Hearst testified that he did not believe any money had been received by me or paid to these Senators. The Mexican Consul-General, Arturo Elias, confirmed my testimony that neither of us ever had known or even seen each other. Moreover, I was in Europe continuously through the spring and summer of 1926 and on the day I am asserted to have received the money in New York and paid it to the Senators I was at my villa in the south of France."

ACTOR GETS FILM STAR'S LOWEST PAY

Favorite of European Circus-Goers Receives $15 Per Week for Principal Role

NICE, Dec. 18. (AP)—The world's lowest-salaried movie star is at work on the lots of the Riviera studios at St. Andre de Nice. He is Louis Germain, favorite of European circus goers at Aeros, tumbling slackrope walker. He gets board and quarters and $16 a week for starring in "Soup and Fish," the scenario written for him by Nina Wilcox Putnam, and he says he is just twice as happy at his present salary as he was when he made $8 a week in circus.

Aeros was an acrobat with the Barnum and Bailey circus in 1900, but lately he has been in a one-horse circus where he was billed in the triple role of juggler, acrobat and clown.

Aeros has other advantages to the company in addition to the low cost of his services. He is a skilled carpenter and blacksmith and insists on spending his spare time working at the trades he picked up in the circus.

Bank Charges by Angeleno Flatly Denied

PORTLAND (Or.) Dec. 18. (AP) General denial of the charges upon which Fred A. Ballin, Los Angeles, and Charles A. Burckhardt, Seattle, base their suits against the Northwestern National Bank, defunct, its officers and directors, and the recital of certain affirmative facts and a plea for dismissal of the actions, are contained in answers filed in Federal District Court in behalf of the defendants.

Ballin and Burckhardt charged mismanagement of the bank by its directors, or with their knowledge, with attending loss to minority stockholders. Domination of the bank's action by specified associated interests was also charged, as was violation of the National Banking Act.

Specific denial of every material assertion was made in the reply filed yesterday.

Charges that the directors of the institution were responsible, and caused to be lost to the bank more than $2,000,000 between July 2, 1922, and December 31, 1926, through unliquidated loans, were denied.

PORTLAND (Ore.) Dec. 18. (Exclusive)—Rev. A. F. Huckenbecker, when arrested for speeding on the Pacific Highway, told the officer that he must hurry on to Salem where he was scheduled to deliver a sermon. He was charged with making fifty miles an hour and paid a $15 fine under protest.

COAST CITIES' COSTS SHOWN

Pasadena's Expenses Highest, Tacoma's Lowest

Los Angeles Not Figured Up; Grows Too Fast

Census Bureau's Tabulation Just Released

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18. (Exclusive)—Pasadena and Tacoma represent the two extremes on the West Coast in the expense of municipal government among cities of 30,000 population or over as reported by the Census Bureau, which has just finished its annual compilation.

Pasadena has the highest cost per capita for maintenance and operation of the municipal government; the highest per capita property taxes and the highest per capita debt of any city in this class on the West Coast. It cost the people of Pasadena $59.96 per capita for the operation of their municipal government last year and the property taxes per capita for that year amounted to $61.46. Pasadena per capita debt is $191.87.

TACOMA COST LOW

At the other end of the scale is Tacoma, where the per capita cost of maintenance and operation amounts to only $27.24, and where the property tax last year was only $22.17.

Per capita figures on Los Angeles, Portland and Seattle are not given by the bureau because of its inability to estimate the population of these cities. Los Angeles, however, has the highest debt of any West Coast city, amounting in all to $107,000,000. The San Francisco debt amounts to $80,000,000 and Seattle's $72,000,000. Portland's is $40,000,000 and Tacoma's $12,000,000.

The lowest per capita debt on the West Coast is the distinction held by the city of San Jose, where it is $55.25. Of the California cities, Oakland has the lowest per capita cost of maintenance in operation with $34.88 and San Jose is a close second with a cost of $35.53.

DEBT HIGHEST HERE

The San Francisco per capita cost of maintenance and operation is given at $43.72 and the per capita property taxes at $52.85. If the population of Los Angeles is estimated to be 1,000,000, the per capita cost of maintenance and operation last year was $52.06, or $8.34 per capita more than San Francisco.

The tabulation of the West Coast cities shows the following:

	Maintenance and operation per capita	Property taxes per capita	Debt per capita
Sacramento	$45.58	$37.37	$143.49
San Diego	38.56	27.39	126.27
San Francisco	43.72	52.85	145.60
San Jose	35.53	20.49	55.25
Stockton	37.80	30.44	84.84
Berkeley	37.04	34.76	98.97
Fresno	39.64	27.61	98.10
Long Beach	51.38	49.49	165.29
Oakland	34.88	23.90	72.46
Pasadena	59.96	61.46	191.87
Tacoma	27.24	22.17	113.69

PEACE-MIND WORLD NEED, SAYS BRITISH PROTESTOR

Viscount Cecil Believes Good Will Between America and Britain Essential to Security

BY VISCOUNT CECIL

[Copyright, 1927, in North America by North American Newspaper Alliance]

LONDON, Dec. 18. (Exclusive)—Telegrams from the United States inform us that a certain type of American politician is considering whether he will gain electoral advantage by fomenting discord between this country and his own. That is, of course, the old game of twisting the lion's tail. It used to be very popular and very successful on the other side of the Atlantic fifty years ago. But I believe that even then we were apt to exaggerate its importance. Now I am confident it will fail dismally. You cannot revive a dead cry any more than you can resuscitate a ghost once laid.

But, though I am not afraid that party maneuvers are likely to make serious difficulties between the countries, it is still disquieting to find that there should be an opinion seriously held in America that an anti-British attitude would be popular with the electors.

How much truth, if any, is there in that idea? It is difficult for anyone on this side to say. Some observers certainly declare that there has been in recent months a considerable revival of anti-British sentiment.

The celebrated "Big Bill" probably was elected Mayor of Chicago for many better reasons than his silly tirades against King George. He is understood to be a very astute machine politician, or, as we should say, wire-puller. That is a great asset, particularly in elections for local office.

Then, the population of Chicago is very largely non-British. I have been told that not more than 8 per cent of them are of Anglo-Saxon origin. Still, Chicago is a big city. It has a certain special importance from its geographical position, and the Mayor stood and was elected on a vehemently anti-British platform. The very extravagances of his campaign make the result all the more remarkable. If such tactics succeed in Chicago, would they be quite useless in any other part of the country? The doubt is disquieting. Are we without blame in the matter?

BRITISH ATTITUDE

The other day an American friend of mine asked me why the Americans are so unpopular in England just now. I asked him what he meant. He replied by quoting the constantly derogatory terms in which his country is referred to. He told me he had begun a collection of newspaper clippings in which some unfavorable allusions to the United States and her people were made, and that in a very few days he had got quite a pile of them.

All I could say was that I am quite sure that fundamentally the English are friendly to the Americans, that in such things there is a certain amount of fashion, and that he must not take too seriously the criticisms of the creditor by the debtor.

In frankness I had to add that there were one or two recent incidents in their foreign policy which we had found it difficult to understand. In particular, we had attended the Three-Power Conference at Geneva on the invitation of President Coolidge. But, nevertheless, a large section of their press had treated us as though we were trying to inveigle the American delegation into an agreement solely for our own benefit. That was part of the atmosphere which had made agreement so difficult.

On both sides, but especially on that of the Americans, there had seemed to be a nervous fear lest the result of the negotiations should leave one of us with a little more cruiser strength than the other. That is a reasonable attitude if the two countries were preparing for war; but in a negotiation to reduce armaments it was fatuous.

MORAL DISARMAMENT

That is the truth, and it is a curious commentary on the assertions continually and rigidly made by responsible statesmen that war between the two countries is unthinkable.

If they are sincere, as I am sure they are, and if they represent the opinions of their fellow-countrymen, as I believe they do, a naval agreement about auxiliary ships ought to be perfectly easy to arrive at.

All that is required is a working arrangement by which each party can build up to a standard of strength approximately equal to the other. Elaborate inquiries as to "maritime equality"—if any such metaphysical conception can be translated into reality—become as unnecessary as they are mischievous.

In other words, there must be a measure of moral disarmament before an agreement on material disarmament can be hoped for.

It is for reasons of this kind that I welcome heartily an article by "Scrutator" in a recent London Sunday Times. It is a contribution—and an important contribution—to the moral disarmament, that restoration of complete friendliness and understanding between England and America, which is as essential for us both as it is for the civilized world.

"Scrutator" thinks that a great part of the difficulty lies in the difference between our two countries on the freedom of the seas. He may be right. If so, the difficulty should not be insurmountable.

SAFE SEA TRANSPORT

Our interest unquestionably lies in making sea transport as safe as possible. No one who heard or read Lord Jellicoe's speech at the Geneva Conference can doubt that for a moment.

He described the tremendous damage a very small number of German raiders did to our commerce in the late war. He told us that it took about twenty-five cruisers to catch each raider, and even so many hundreds of thousands of tons of our shipping were sunk before they were caught.

It is clear that if the raiders had been five or ten times as many—as they might easily be—no number of cruisers that has ever been suggested as possible for us to build and maintain could possibly make our food supplies safe.

For that, world peace is the only real security, and if that be impossible, then, as next best, we should aim at such a change in belligerent rights at sea as will enable us to feed our people in wartime without risk of hostile capture.

It is quite true that any such change would run counter to a considerable body of naval opinion in this country. But is not that because it has been misled partly by old tradition and partly by the very special conditions of the late war?

Up to 1914 we had been engaged in no serious naval war for a century or more. In that period not only had the conditions of sea fighting been revolutionized, but the economic position of these islands had been completely changed.

The alteration from sails to steam, with all which that implied both in tactics and armaments, has meant an immense accession to the offensive power of ships of war as against merchant vessels.

CHANGES SINCE OLD DAYS

In the old days the only superiority consisted of her guns. In construction of the hull, speed, skill in navigation, the two vessels were equal. Now in addition to actual armaments the attacking ship is faster, heavily armored with elaborate fighting machinery, and with a crew highly skilled in its management.

Once a merchant vessel is sighted by a cruiser, or even a destroyer, in clear weather, she has practically no hope of escape. In the old days escape was common. And besides all this there are the aircraft and submarines to increase enormously the danger of sea transport in war time.

These new conditions might be of minor importance if our economic position was the same as in the Napoleonic wars. Then we were substantially self-supporting in food and raw materials. Now we import four-fifths of our breadstuffs and the most part of our meat, besides all our cotton and almost all our wool.

In the late war we were very fortunately placed. We were able to bottle up the fleet of the enemy and she did not apparently realize how much more formidable were surface raiders with a large radius of action than submarines. At any rate, she concentrated on the latter.

DANGER OF MISTAKE

But we should make a profound mistake if we thought that in future wars those conditions are likely to be repeated. On the contrary, we might well have to meet a large number of commerce destroyers, and then it is more than doubtful whether any number of cruisers could save us, remembering Lord Jellicoe's figure already quoted, that it took twenty-five cruisers to catch one raider.

So far, then, I am in agreement with "Scrutator" that it would be nationally for our advantage, if we have to face war, to make the seas as safe as possible for commerce.

Where I confess to considerable doubt is whether his proposals would accomplish that object. He wishes to make "noncontraband commerce exempt from molestation by belligerent craft."

Does that go far enough? To take an instance—Is corn contraband? Under the old conditions it was conditional contraband at most. That is to say, it was only contraband if it was intended for the armed forces of the enemy. But in the late war any distinction of that kind was felt to be unreal.

The whole of the nation on each side was engaged in the war and anything essential for their sustenance was just as much contraband as if it had been intended for those who were actually fighting. The results was that first the Germans and then we seized corn ships.

In other words, to make "Scrutator's" formula effective, it would be necessary to exclude from contraband all foodstuffs and raw material. Any such proposal would, I fear, provoke the whole controversy which raged round the Declaration of London.

THE PEACE MIND

I do not wish to be understood as being against "Scrutator's" proposal. On the contrary, I think we should let it be known that if the Americans desire it, we should be quite ready to discuss the whole question of belligerent rights at sea, just as we should be equally prepared to discuss schemes of international arbitration and the outlawry of war.

But, to my mind, the chief value of all these plans is that they lead to the peace mind and not to the war mind. They are like the limitation of armaments itself, steps toward peace—and peace is the only real security for the progress and prosperity of all nations, especially of ourselves.

Unless and until that proposition is accepted ex animo, as the theologians say, I see little hope. If we are going to approach every suggestion for increasing the probability of world peace, not with a desire to be convinced, but with a meticulous examination of all conceivable risks and sacrifices, however unlikely, which might be incurred, then nothing will be done.

Depend upon it, peace, like every other earthly blessing, can only be obtained at a price.

Are we prepared to pay it?

Or are we to be forever frightened back from its pursuits by the bogies constructed by the bureaucracy and the vast war interests, material and moral, which dominate now as ever the government machine.

PRISONER REHEARSES FOR TRIAL

Remus in Cell Tries Out Arguments for Final Plea to Jurors Today

CINCINNATI, Dec. 18. (AP)—George Remus, former "king of bootleggers," sat in his jail cell today and in his mind's eye visualized a score or more of court appearances when in happier days as a promising young Illinois lawyer he pleaded for others in a position paralleling his—the closing phase of a first-degree murder trial with his life at stake.

With numerous arguments blocked out, Remus said he would have to wait for tomorrow's developments to determine his final plea to the two women and ten men sitting in judgment upon him.

Whether he can beg the jurors for outright acquittal for slaying his estranged wife, Imogene, here last October 6, depends upon a decision tomorrow by Judge Shook, who spent the day working upon his charge to the jury and determining whether it would include instructions to consider a verdict of acquittal.

With court opening at 9:30 tomorrow morning the prospects are that Remus's fate will be delivered into the jury's hands late in the day.

AIR COMPANY FORMED

Fokker Aircraft Corporation Will Have Capital of More Than $1,000,000

NEW YORK, Dec. 18. (Exclusive) The formation of an airplane company with a capital in excess of $1,000,000 to be known as the Fokker Aircraft Corporation of America, was announced today. Headquarters of the new corporation will be in Wheeling, W. Va.

In 1924 American associates of the Dutch designer, Anthony H. G. Fokker, formed the Atlantic Aircraft Corporation at Teterboro, N. J. The new company, financed largely by Wheeling and Ohio Valley interests, will make this corporation a subsidiary.

The Teterboro factory, which built such famous ships as Byrd's Josephine Ford and America, will be retained for experimental and repair work. A new factory will be built at Glendale, near Wheeling.

RARE COLLECTION OBTAINED

Smithsonian Institution Acquires Eight Skulls of Female Gorillas From Paris Dealer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18. (Exclusive)—Like the female of the human species, the female gorilla leaves the fighting to the male. This is why female gorilla skulls are so rare in museums, and why the Smithsonian is so proud of its recent acquisition of eight of them.

It is doubtful, according to Dr. Ales Hardlicka, the anthropologist of the National Museum, who obtained the skulls in Paris, whether a comparable collection of female gorilla skulls in as good state of preservation exists anywhere else. The reason for this scarcity is that the female gorilla with its youngsters retreats to the jungle at the first sign of danger, while the mate stays behind to protect her retreat and to fight for the family. In consequence hunters generally shoot only the male. In the Smithsonian collection of forty-two gorilla skulls previous to the arrival of this new series, only two are females.

STROKE OF LUCK

The acquisition of the skulls by the Smithsonian was a pure stroke of luck. In his recent tour of anthropological museums in Europe, Dr. Hrdlicka happened to see a female gorilla skull in the Prague museum. From the curator he learned that it had come recently from a dealer in Paris, who had several more which the poverty of the Prague Museum prevented it from buying. In a few days this dealer was visited, just as he was sending a lot of male gorilla skulls, which, as with those of most other animals, he regarded as the more valuable, to an English dealer. Then he pulled out, almost with an excuse, the eight females. And so the Smithsonian got eight rare female gorilla skulls, all in splendid condition, and invaluable for study and reference purposes.

OF GREAT VALUE

The collection has an added value in that all the skulls came from one small district in French West Central Africa, so that all the animals belong probably to one species. Notwithstanding this, even a superficial view shows that the skulls present in almost every feature a remarkable range of individual variation. This may help to determine whether some gorilla specimens hitherto described as distinct species were not merely individuals of other species marked by personal variations which misled students.

KRESGE FACES FELONY QUIZZES

Wife Asking Divorce Accuses Him Under Mann Act

Grand Jury May Get Case of Chain-Store Chief

Interest in 16-Year-Old Girl to Be Investigated

NEW YORK, Dec. 18. (Exclusive) Mrs. Doris Mercer Kresge, who is suing her husband, Sebastian S. Kresge, the 5-and-10-cent-stroe magnate, for divorce, plans to bring criminal proceedings against him, also, it was learned today.

Evidence has been accumulated, it is said, to charge the 61-year-old multimillionaire Lothario with violation of the Mann Act. It was stated efforts also will be made to bring Kresge before the county grand jury on charges based on his interest in a girl of 16 he is charged by his wife with keeping in a private school.

It is understood that the girl's parents have become incensed over information which has reached them and that Mrs. Kresge and her attorney will co-operate with them in placing the matter in the hands of Dist.-Atty Banton.

FISH WOMAN INVOLVED

The Mann Act charges, it was explained, will be based, according to Mrs. Kresge's attorneys, on evidence gathered to show that Kresge and Miss Gladys Ardele Fish, 25, named as co-respondent by Mrs. Kresge, traveled together through seven States, Kresge paying the bills.

The statements on which the criminal actions will be sought are embodied in affidavits filed with the divorce complaint.

Miss Fish, it was disclosed today, was the woman of mystery figuring in the bankruptcy action last Friday of Mark Temple Dowling, Boston and New York real-estate dealer. It is learned Dowling indicated Gladys Fish as the secretary who had the power of attorney to sign checks and who handled all his business accounts in many particulars of which he professed total ignorance. He said at the hearing that she had disappeared. With no assets stated, Dowling's liabilities total $260,000.

At the Barizone, an exclusive hotel for women, Miss Fish today refused to discuss either the Kresge case or Dowling's affairs. The fair Natick stenographer, it is learned at the Barizone, expects soon to be employed by the management of the hotel in a secretarial capacity.

MET AT CHURCH AFFAIRS

She remained incommunicado all day, refusing to make any comment on Mrs. Kresge's charges. A friend there who met all inquiries, declared "it is all nothing but a pack of lies. Gladys is very much wrought up over everything. There isn't a particle of truth to anything Mrs. Kresge said. She is just a gold digger, that's all, and blaming this poor, innocent girl. Gladys will make a clean breast of everything very soon."

From Natick, it was learned today that she first met Kresge through a letter of introduction from a hometown minister. That was two years ago. At the time she was working for Dowling in his Boston real-estate office. She was transferred to his New York branch. The letter of introduction was addressed to the pastor of the Madison-avenue Methodist Episcopal Church. Kresge was one of the church pillars and a warm friend of the pastor.

Their reported romance is supposed to have bloomed from meetings at the Wednesday-night social suppers at the church. Sometimes Gladys took her place at Kresge's table, it is said.

Jail Christmas Woman's Choice

NEW YORK, Dec. 18. (Exclusive) For the fifth consecutive year, Marie Allen, 37 years of age, will spend Christmas in the workhouse on Welfare Island. She received a six-months' sentence on the usual charge, refusing to pay a taxi-fare, from Magistrate Douras today.

This conviction is her twenty-third on the same charge.

SANTA TO FILL DIVIDEND SOX

American Businesses Will Give $400,000,000

Large Corporations to Cut Yuletide Melons

Approximately 5,000,000 to Share in Presents

NEW YORK, Dec. 18. (AP)—American business and industry will play Santa Claus to the extent of thrusting into the public's Christmas stocking an estimated $400,000,000 in extra dividends. Possibly the total will exceed that sum—it will not be much less—and it will be distributed among approximately 5,000,000 holders of common and preferred stock.

General Motors Corporation alone is dividing among its 57,000 stockholders a Christmas present of $63,500,000. The Du Pont Corporation is distributing $11,312,047 among 14,000 stockholders. The Michigan Central Railroad and Western Electric are splitting more than $9,000,000 each.

There are many corporations, such as Loew's, Inc., People's Gas, Prophylatic Brush, Ingersoll-Rand, Eastman Kodak and others, which are dividing in excess of $1,000,000 each with their stockholders. Not quite so numerous, but still plentiful, are concerns like Vacuum Oil, Standard Oil (N. J.) Fleischmann, Singer and others, which have declared extra dividends ranging from $2,000,000 to $4,000,000. And there are thousands of companies and corporations, large and small, which have declared extras running from $5000 to slightly less than $1,000,000.

Large as the total of extras may seem, it includes only the Christmas gifts to stockholders of leading industrial concerns. It does not take into account the extras, large and small, paid by hundreds of banks and trust companies, insurance, finance and security companies and other organizations obtaining capital from public investment nor are regular dividends included.

OUSTING DUE FOR CHICAGO GANGSTERS

Detective Chief Asserts They Must Leave City; Al Capone Trapped

CHICAGO, Dec. 18. (AP)—A forced exodus of Chicago's most active gangsters and bootleggers, headed by Al Capone, former New York gunman and now self-styled liquor baron of Chicago, will be under way within a few days, Chief of Detective O'Connor promised tonight.

"And if they, like Capone, insist on staying here," O'Connor threatened, "we will make jails of their homes, making things so hot for them they will be more than glad to leave for other climes."

Meanwhile Capone, who has been hounded by the police since he returned from Los Angeles, where he was forced to leave by authorities there, remains sequestered in his mother's home while police form a cordon about the house with orders to arrest him the minute he attempts to leave. Joseph Martin, a friend of Capone, and Mrs. Capone attempted to enter the home today but were stopped by the vigilant police. Martin was arrested but Mrs. Capone was allowed to return to another section of Cicero, a suburb.

Simultaneously the police followed every movement of other gangsters and threw a guard about the home of Joseph Aiello, a rival and enemy of Capone's. Aiello also will not be allowed to leave his home unless he leaves Chicago, Chief O'Connor said.

KERN TREND OF MUSIC TOLD

Pioneer Says It Needs No Boosts or Apology

Calls It Natural Outgrowth of Present Age

Noted Leader Discusses Future of Art

PARIS BUREAU (France.) Dec. 18. "The new school in music needs neither agents nor apologists. It is the legitimate outgrowth of the present age and will be the salvation of art."

Thus Igor Stravinsky, composer of the Red Ballet and one of the recognized leaders of the modernists, speaks of his critics.

The famous composer has hidden himself away in a large villa near Paris where he is working day and night on a new ballet which will have its first production in Washington, D. C., next year.

Surrounded by sheets and sets with music on it, nearly every room in his villa contains a musical instrument and there is no member of his large family who can not play them all. Music is played in the salon, the dining room and the violin and piano in the bedroom and the violin in the bathroom.

Stravinsky himself seems to care little for either praise or criticism of his work. "This new music, as you call it, must speak for itself," he said. "Realize that it was only recently that music was reborn. Development must naturally be slow. Though I am proud to be called one of the leaders of the modernists, I am so busy doing my work that I find no time to view the movement in its entirety. There is a Russian saying that it is difficult to see the top of a mountain when you stand at its base. That seems to be my case.

"Music must grow within itself. By that I mean that it should have no recourse to resources outside the world of pure music. Music is outside of its sphere when it attempts to teach philosophy or morality or tries to tell an anecdote. The composers of the new school know this to be true, and the gradual evolution along these lines will produce the great music of the future."

Stravinsky's earnestness and his tremendous capacity for work have won him many followers on the Riviera. His presentations in the Monte Carlo Casino opera draw audiences from all of Europe. Following the completion of the ballet he is now writing he plans to start work on his fourth opera, which probably will be presented first at Monte Carlo.

KANSAS WOULD KEEP LAKE PLACED ON MAP BY RAINS

GREAT BEND (Kan.) Dec. 18. (AP)—Heavy rains last summer created near here a lake thirteen miles long and ten miles wide, and sportsmen are hoping to make it a permanent refuge for wild ducks while owners of the inundated land are wondering whether their farms can be drained.

The flooded area, known as Cheyenne Bottoms, is lower than the bed of the Arkansas River, which flows through a flat country a few miles south. Those who want the lake to be a permanent body of water plan to confiect Cheyenne Bottoms with the river, the heavy flow from which after spring rains would keep the lake filled.

Cheyenne Bottoms was under water twenty-four years ago, but all the water evaporated from the 25,000-acre basin after a season of normal rainfall following the floods of 1903.

Kansas Congressmen plan to urge an appropriation for providing an outlet from the Kansas River to make possible the perpetuation of the lake, now the largest body of water in Kansas. They will recommend the plan as a flood-control measure.

The land under water is valued at $15 to $20 an acre, though some of it is too marshy for agricultural purposes.

Farmers have found a way to recover some of their flood loss. They have built blinds for duck hunters, renting each for 50 cents to $1 a day to sportsmen. Millions of wild ducks and geese have come to the region.

Electricity in Los Angeles

No. 14.
[The Club]

The Jonathan Club

More than $3,500,000 is invested in the land, building and furnishings of the new Jonathan Club, at Sixth and Figueroa Streets.

The building is of Italian Renaissance design, height limit, and of Class A construction. It is recognized as one of the finest club buildings anywhere.

It is said to be the first social club in the West to have all the features of an athletic club, including plunge, gymnasium, handball courts, etc.

The usual club features of Game Room, Grill, Billiard Room, Library, Lounge, Barber Shop, etc., are all adequately provided for.

The Main Dining Room of the Club seats 500 and there are seven private dining rooms.

The Kitchen is fully equipped, and the Club has its own Bakery, Laundry and Ice Plant.

A Solarium, entirely glassed in, is located on the roof.

From the sixth floor up are some 250 living rooms for members.

A 500-car garage, located directly back of the main club building, solves parking problems for members of the Club.

"The service of Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation is completely satisfactory."

—The Jonathan Club.

The Ladies' Department is entirely separate with its own entrance and elevator.

All water used is filtered and softened. The air entering the ventilating system is purified by air washers, and a complete change of air throughout the whole building can be made in ten minutes.

Such an institution as the Jonathan Club, catering constantly to the social and recreational needs of hundreds of members and guests, uses considerable electric equipment and electric energy.

Approximately 650 horsepower of electric energy is used by the Jonathan Club, through dozens of motors ranging from ¼ horsepower to 75 horsepower, to operate such equipment as:

8 elevators, 2 ice machines, 16 fans, 2 house pumps, 2 swimming pool circulating pumps, 2 brine pumps, 2 ice water pumps, 4 air washers, 2 washers, 1 dry tumble, 1 flat work ironer, 2 Eagle presses, 4 adding machines, 3 sewerage disposal pumps, vacuum cleaner, standby oil pump, kitchen equipment, drills, grinders, lathes, valve grinder, elevator flash annunciators, electric time clock system, electric water level alarm, time stamps, control board.

The extensive electric service requirements of the Jonathan Club are supplied by Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation.

RAIL-WAGE AWARD MAY GO TO COURT

Agreement on Rise for Firemen and Enginemen Tentatively Reached

DENVER, Dec. 18. (AP)—Due to become the subject of court action, an award in the case of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen vs. the rail carriers operating west of Chicago has been made by four of the six members of the board appointed to arbitrate the dispute.

The two railroad representatives did not participate in the decision.

The award amounts to an increase of 30 cents a day for firemen and 35 cents a day for other employees or "yardmen." The brotherhood had asked for an increase of $1 a day. This, the arbitration board denied.

Meeting Saturday after failing to agree among themselves during a week's negotiations which ended on the 5th inst., the board, with the exception of the two railroad members, R. V. Fletcher and John W. Higgins—made the award, and Chairman H. P. Burke, chief justice of the Colorado Supreme Court, said it would be filed with the United States District Court at Chicago to determine its legality. In his opinion, he said, the board having once adjourned, it cannot meet legally again.

The brotherhood representatives on the arbitration board were Albert Phillips and S. A. Boone. Chairman Burke and Paul A. Sinsheimer were neutral members.

The meeting was reconvened at the request of President D. B. Robertson of the brotherhood, and of Arbitrators Boone, Sinsheimer and Phillips, acting on the suggestion of the United States Board of Mediation. Fifty-four railroads would be affected by the decision if it were held to be binding on the two parties to the controversy. While Chairman Burke estimated that the award would cost the railroads $5,000,000 in increased wages annually, the two brotherhood members of the board believed the cost would be about only $4,000,000.

The principal reason for the decrease, Dr. Harrington believes, is the fact that 13,000 children were immunized at clinics conducted in the schools from November, 1926, to March, 1927.

COLONY OF AMERICANS PROPOSED

Project Estimated to Cost $22,000,000 Planned in Yaqui Valley, Sonora

HOUSTON (Tex.) Dec. 18. (AP)—Plans for a gigantic colonization project in which Americans will cooperate with the Mexican government were made known here today by E. H. Phreaner of Cajeme, Son., Mex.

The project, which was said to be sponsored by Gen. Alvaro Obregon, outlined a $22,000,000 improvement program for certain sections of the Yaqui Valley wherein the colonists will be Americans.

Phreaner declared that the southern republic "frowns upon European or Asiatic immigrants."

"Mexico wants Americans," he said.

Phreaner added that the Mexican government recently purchased 1,500,000 acres of land in the valley and plans to build a dam costing $5,000,000 across Yaqui River in the near future as the ground work for the proposed colonization district.

LONDON, Dec. 18. (AP)—An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Rangoon says that widespread damage was caused by the most severe earthquake in Burma in many years. It is feared there is loss of life in the outlying districts.

The shock was of ten seconds' duration and was accompanied by a loud roar, which threw the inhabitants of the congested districts of Rangoon into panic. Most of the population abandoned their homes and sought the streets and parks, where they remained for the night.

Many large buildings were damaged and Rangoon's central pagoda, the object of great veneration by thousands of Buddhists, was badly cracked. Many small Indian dwellings were destroyed.

stocks of crude. Cement production increased in 1927 as did stocks. Manufacturing activities as reflected by employment has been slightly less in 1927 than 1926."

Lafayette Hanchett, head of Utah Power and Light, sees his intermountain district largely in terms of crop insurances through water supply.

"Farmers," says Mr. Hanchett, "are reporting large crops tending toward material reduction of outstanding farm paper, held by banks. Live-stock and wool industries are in healthy condition, with good earnings. Our principal metal mines are very active, keeping output up to normal and all are now employing full forces of labor. Our iron ore industry is maintaining capacity output. Our coal industry is below normal and its prospect for betterment in the immediate future is somewhat doubtful.

"The State of Idaho is especially blessed through having now in storage in the new American Falls dam a completely filled reservoir of water which insures ample irrigation supply for 1928, and thereby makes certain a heavy crop for next year. Work has just started by United States Reclamation Service upon the Echo dam project on Weber River in Utah, which means when completed a reliable water insurance for Utah farms comparable with Idaho's great American Falls reservoir."

For Arizona and the Southwest Dwight B. Heard answers:

"Arizona enters the year 1928 with even more promising conditions than in 1927. A general revival of mining throughout the State and a more optimistic outlook for the copper market is supported by increased agricultural acreage and better farm prospects. Cotton production in Arizona this year will bring $10,000,000. Live-stock conditions are better than at any time in the last eight years.

"The Santa Fe and Southern Pacific railroads are planning to expend large sums in Arizona in 1928 and the Salt River Valley Water Users' Association will start work on another large storage and power reservoir the coming year. Work on the $5,500,000 San Carlos reservoir is progressing, according to schedule and water should be delivered for 1929 crop. Lake Pleasant Dam was completed during the past year and the development of 40,000 acres in this project will begin the coming year. Banks in Arizona show consistent stable growth."

NATIONAL PHONE QUIZ PROPOSED

Bell System Investigation Being Sought

Move Outgrowth of Plea for Rate Rise

New Complaint Presented in Bay City Case

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 18. (Exclusive)—With the filing of a new complaint in the bay cities' telephone rate case last Saturday bringing in the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, the parent company of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company and the Western Electric Company, manufacturing concern supplying the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, it was revealed today that a concerted move is under way to get the Interstate Commerce Commission to investigate the entire structure of the Bell Telephone system of the United States. And at the same time a move has been started to have a Congressional inquiry into the relations between the parent telephone corporation and all of its numerous subsidies, both operating, manufacturing and financing.

The complaint filed with the California State Railroad Commission last Saturday was one of the first steps in the nation-wide campaign for laying bare all of the secrets of the relationships in the telephone situation.

INCREASES OPPOSED

When the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company last summer filed its application with the California commission asking for a heavy increase in rates, the California League of Municipalities at its summer session adopted a resolution for the appointment of a State committee of city attorneys to investigate the telephone situation and co-operate with the defending cities fighting the increased rates.

It was suggested at the time that inquiries be made on what actions were being taken in other States. Commenting upon this inquiry, City Attorney Locke, who on Saturday named the committee of five city attorneys, today said:

"We have information that there are pending twenty-six or twenty-seven applications for increases in rates. These cover many States, and affect perhaps several million telephone users.

"Accordingly we have suggested that California get in touch with the other States and through our Railroad Commission, which handles public utility matters get these States together in a joint petition to the Interstate Commerce Commission to investigate the entire Bell system structure.

NATION-WIDE SCOPE

"The League of Municipalities, the committee of five and the conference of city attorneys of the bay district are likewise in favor of asking Congress to conduct an inquiry We are preparing to place the matter before our United States Senators and Representatives."

Thus the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company's plan for higher rates in the Bay District, affecting San Francisco, South San Francisco, Oakland, Berkeley, Alameda, Albany, Emeryville, Piedmont, San Leandro and Hayward, has taken on a momentum that promises to make the case nation-wide in scope, and bring in the aid in the defense of the telephone users, the public utility commissions of half the States of the union, the Federal government and Congress.

It was revealed today by attorneys connected with the public's defense that when Dion Holm, Assistant City Attorney of San Francisco who was named special counsel to handle the defense, with his assistants made a trip of investigation to Portland, Seattle, Tacoma and Spokane early in the fall it was discovered that scores of cities were preparing to fight against increased telephone rates. Out of the conferences held at the time the move to make the nation-wide inquiry developed.

"Examination of the data submitted by the telephone company, has convinced us that instead of higher rates we are entitled to substantial relief through a reduction in rates," said City Attorney Locke. "We believe that it is a matter for the Federal government to investigate. Under the license agreement between the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and its subsidies, the latter are required to procure all their equipment from the parent company's manufacturing department, the Western Electric Company. When any new financing is to be done, the same thing takes place, the parent company controlling the money bags. Upon this face of things, it looks to us that it is a proper subject for a thorough searching Federal investigation."

The first hearing on the Pacific company's application is set to be held tomorrow before the Railroad Commission. At that time the defense attorneys, headed by Dion Holm, will ask a continuance to give time to prepare the answer.

Honor for King Albert Closes Foch Quarrel

BRUSSELS, Dec. 18. (Exclusive)—Wearing a full-dress uniform Marshal Foch today presented King Albert of Belgium, the newly elected member of the Academy of Political and Moral Sciences, the sword of honor at the Laeken Castle. The ceremony was simple, the King and Marshal exchanging only stereotyped compliments.

The appearance of Marshal Foch is considered to mark the end of the personal squabble arising between the two a year ago following an interview with the editor of Le Matin in which Marshal Foch charged that the Belgians on one occasion desired to drop out of the war. King Albert vigorously protested. A scandal was evaded when Marshal Foch denied he gave the interview.

most attractive places in North America.

This valley has a romantic history, and the remains of the old Aztec and Toltec civilizations, which are the oldest north of the isthmus. The Toltecs and Mayas were a cultured people, whose remains are among the most interesting in the world. I am looking forward to a visit to the famous pyramids, where I may see what is believed to be the remains of the Toltec city.

VALLEY ONCE LAKE

It is hard to believe now that this whole valley was originally a huge lake with little islands in it on which the ancient cities were built. It must have been a beautiful spot in those days, even more so than now, although Mexico City is one of the most delightful I have ever visited.

If tourists did come to Mexico more it should be possible to build up air lines which would make it much more accessible. The United States is now two days away by railroad, but it would be only a few hours by airplane.

Flying multi-motored planes is as safe as traveling by railroad, and in the next few years there should be developed a series of air lines which will connect all this part of the continent, and extend to South America.

LINDBERGH ATTENDS TWO BULL FIGHTS

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 18. (AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh today saw not only one but two bull fights, despite some fifty protests from individuals and humane societies in the United States against his thus giving countenance to the Mexican national sport.

The finest that Mexico can produce in the way of bullfighting, horsemanship, lassoing, cowboy stunts, native dances and labor parades, were marshalled for the delectation of the popular idol.

Rodolfo Gaona, considered by Mexicans the greatest bullfighter that ever lived, returned to the ring after two years' retirement especially to fight a bull for Lindbergh. He performed at a "charro," or lassoing and riding exhibition, in the morning. In the afternoon the flyer attended one of the regular Sunday afternoon bullfights which always draw great crowds, but which broke a record today by attracting more than 20,000 fans, packing the grandstands to utmost capacity.

WORKMEN PARADE

Sandwiched in between these two performances was a review of more than 100,000 workmen who paraded in the central section of the Mexican capital to show their affection and admiration for the flying colonel. The young aviator watched the processions from a balcony of the Presidential palace. With him were Ambassador Dwight Morrow, Luis Morones, Secretary of Industry and Commerce, and other high government officials.

The parade was organized by the Regional Federation of Labor, Mexico's foremost labor organization, which was created and is still dominated by Morones. The parade was one of the largest labor demonstrations ever seen in Mexico and the only one ever given for any foreigner.

GRACIOUS GUEST

In regard to his attendance at the bullfight Col. Lindbergh said that it was impossible for him, while a national guest of Mexico, to decline an invitation to see one of the country's favorite sports, even though that invitation was not part of his official program. The Mexicans carefully had kept the bullfight invitation from the official program in order to avoid placing him in an embarrassing position, but had left the time open so that he might accept the bull-ring management's invitation if he chose.

Ambassador Morrow, who also received a number of protests against Lindbergh's acceptance, took the position that it was Lindbergh's personal affair and not to be construed as either approval or disapproval of bullfighting, but as courteous conduct on the part of the nation's guest. Lindbergh's decision to see the fight seem a to have pleased the Mexican people considerably judging by comments heard in all circles.

The charro exhibition arranged by the National Association of Charros was a picturesque demonstration of skillfull horsemanship. The cavaliers were headed by Gen. Roberto Cruz, Chief of Police of Mexico City, who is one of the most noted horsemen in the nation.

PRESIDENT CALLES ABSENT

Neither Ambassador Morrow nor President Calles attended the charro, or bull fight, although the President was a spectator at the bullfight in the afternoon and former President Obregon was at both performances, but not in the box with Lindbergh. Gaona's brief return to the bull ring is viewed by Mexicans as one of the greatest tributes that could possibly have been paid to Lindbergh. He is idolized by the bull-fight fans and since his retirement two years ago, when he said he would never fight again under any circumstances, has refused an offer of 150,000 pesos for three performances.

Gaona amassed a fortune in the ring. He owns some rows of apartment-houses in Mexico City as well as some valuable ranches. He is one of the few bull fighters to retire with both a sound body and a fortune.

His exhibition took place at a private ranch of the National Association of Charros. Lindbergh, some members of the United States Embassy staff and a number of prominent Mexicans observed it from a private box. After exhibitions by famous horsemen, Will Rogers went into the ring and displayed a number of his roping tricks. Then, unexpectedly Gaona entered the ring and the crowd of about 1000 became frantic in its applause.

Gaona advanced toward Lindbergh's box, bowed to the flyer and told him that, although he had vowed never to perform again, he intended to do so for the greatest American hero.

A bull then was turned into the ring and Gaona, with what bull-fighting experts declared was marvelous grace and skill, played with the bull. He waved the regulation bull-fighter's crimson cloak before the charging animal and stepped aside just in time to escape its horns. At each lunge he trust two "banderillas," or short bedagged metal pointed spears, into the beast's neck. He withdrew without killing the animal, leaving that task to Jen. Antonio Velasco, chief of the Mexico City traffic department, who assumed the role of matador.

HUNDRED THOUSAND IN PARADE FOR LINDBERGH

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 18. (AP)—The labor union parade viewed by Col. Lindbergh today was one of the greatest in a country much given to labor parades.

More than 100,000 workers, mostly in overalls and including many women workers, trudged under a hot mid-day sun to carry banners in praise of Lindbergh. The American aviator stood for two hours under the same sun watching the procession file past. With him on a balcony of the National Presidential Palace were Ambassador Morrow, Secretary of Labor Morones, Acting Foreign Minister Estrada, Secretary of Education Puig y Casaurane, and other notables.

PRESENTED PARCHMENT

On behalf of 180,000 organized Mexican workers, Secretary Morones presented Lindbergh with a parchment expressing congratulations for the success of his latest flight, belief that it would contribute to better comprehension between two peoples, and increase true union between his laboring classes of two nations.

The balcony on which the reviewers stood is one to which the Mexican President goes on September 16 each year to ring the nations' historic liberty bell, first sounded in 1810 by the priest Hidalgo, is celebration of the nation's independence. Lindbergh smiled and waved frequently to the paraders, and munched sandwiches but did not drink any of the champagne served to others in the party.

The paraders carried banners, some of them reading:

BANNERS CARRIED

"Mexico workers send by the wings of the Spirit of St. Louis a message of friendship to their brothers across the river."

"Finally the United States has understood President Calles and his work."

"Mexican workers require for prosperity only peace."

"War perfected aviation, but in peace it will be a vehicle of solid friendship."

"The most terrible arm of war is converted into a dove of peace in Lindbergh's hand."

"Viva Calles! Representative of the bronze race which today clasps the hand of a great hero."

"Calles and Lindbergh are symbols of two races which are beginning to understand each other and united for eternal peace."

"Morrow is the friend of the Mexican people," and "the Mexican people are not Bolshevists; we work and respect friendship."

MRS. FISKE ISSUES BULLFIGHT STATEMENT

CLEVELAND, Dec. 18. (AP) — Mrs. Minnie Madden Fiske, noted actress, issued the following statement here tonight when informed that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh had attended two bull fights in Mexico City.

"As a director of the American Humane Association, I regret, of course, that Col. Lindbergh attended bull fights in Mexico City

"It is too bad, because everyone who knew Col. Lindbergh can feel sure that he did not enjoy it. Leaders of our cause appreciate his having been placed in a difficult position.

"His friend, Will Rogers, was not inhibited from expressing his emotions at the spectacle.'

MANAGUA (Nicaragua) Dec. 18. (AP) President Diaz today received a cablegram from the Nicaraguan Minister in Washington, saying the State Department and informed him that Col. Lindbergh had been authorized in the name of the aviation service of the United States to visit Guatemala, Salvador, Honduras, Nicaragua, Costa Rica and Panama.

The government is preparing to give Lindbergh the greatest reception in the country's history and has named a committee to take charge.

WOMAN DRIVER HAS DEFENDERS

Aspersions Cast on Abilities of Men Refuted

Statistics on Crashes Are Cited to Prove Point

Males Have More Accidents Proportionately

BY FREDERICK J. HASKIN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—One of the best things women drivers do—or one of the worst things the most of—is to question the ability of women as drivers. In the aggregate they seem to have the requisite nerve and skill to operate motor cars without undue danger to themselves or others. In a number of ways because of a physical handicap, they go to pieces in the face of danger.

In an effort to determine this belief is justified, Fred Haskin, managing director of the National safety committee of the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce has made what he terms a complete survey of the entire subject which is of interest to the public through the Washington Council.

He says that with 32,000 possible fatalities in the United States last year, the ratio was 1 to 1000 fatalities involving women to each fatality involving a woman driver.

HE HAS HIS FACTS

This seems to invite a spirited comeback that the women drivers have their defenders, but Haskin says that there are no more women drivers than females, just as there are no more women than men," he says, "and only one-sixth of our motor vehicle drivers, were involved in accidents in the twentieth of the country during the twenties last year.

"It is true that men are driving millions more miles than women, and therefore have more opportunities for accidents, but even allowing for this fact, men are involved in accidents in proportion to the number of miles they drive under all conditions and during all hours of the day and night. Even when the traffic is the heaviest and the conditions are the most difficult, the accident record of women drivers is the best.

"Against this, however, must be set the fact that occasional driving by women handicap, that frequently improves technique in other tasks, that the person who drives regularly is a more careful performer, and that men are subject to the same physical disabilities to which women are liable.

MEN LOSE HEADS

Mr. Johnson says that statistics who insist that the driver who loses his head on the highway are generally men, and that men lose their heads in an emergency more frequently than women. He contends that male drivers are responsible for a greater number of accidents because of nervous letdown after long periods of tension, and because of loss of head. The fact, he says, that the man driver is involved in more accidents than the woman driver, and that he is responsible for a greater number of fatalities than she, is due to the fact that he drives more and under more hazardous conditions and during periods of greater tension. He says that the woman driver is more careful to obey traffic signals, to observe speed limits and to keep to the right of the road, and that she is more likely to be found driving during periods of relatively light traffic, when the tension is lowest

Quickshank and Homer Smith Tie for Second Place; Burke Third in Chula Vista Tourney

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 18. (Exclusive)—Leo Diegel, former national of Fenimore Country Club of New York, and one of the most consistent golfers in the country, opened the winter campaign on the Pacific Coast today by taking first honors in the first annual San Diego $2500 open golf tournament over the Chula Vista links. Diegel had a total of 214 strokes for the 72 holes leading Bobby Cruickshank, last year's Los Angeles $10,000 champion, and Horton Smith, Springfield (Mo.) pro, by two strokes.

By his victory, Diegel took first prize money of $1000, while Cruickshank and Smith divided the $600 second prize. Billy Burke, Blindcreek, N. Lightweights to Clash in Garden Tourney on Friday Night

NEW YORK, Dec. 18. (AP)—Topping the week's boxing activities, Sid Terris of New York's East Side will battle Phil McGraw of Detroit in a ten-round match at Madison Square Garden Friday night in a lightweight elimination bout.

The principals have clashed twice previously. In the first encounter, Terris was knocked down four times, but rallied sufficiently to take the judges' decision, although there was a storm of protest at the verdict. Terris lost on a foul to McGraw in their second meeting and was suspended by the boxing fathers here.

Pitt Players Believe That Stanford Has Been Watching Sutherland's Team

PITTSBURGH (Pa.) Dec. 18. (Exclusive)—As the time draws near for the game between the Pittsburgh Panthers and the Stanford Cardinals on January 2, the curiosity of Coach Sutherland's players to learn information on the play of the Coast team becomes more evident.

When it was suggested that Pitt officials might have a scout watching the Cardinals at Palo Alto Sutherland states that he did not believe any such arrangement had been made and that he hoped to play straight football from end to end as he had coached his boys to do all the season.

One player, a star in his position, declared that he had good reason to believe that the Panther team was being watched during practice. Other players felt the same way but none had any objections to voice as all felt that the game would be a repetition of Warner's methods as Sutherland was one of Pop's great pupils and both are trained in the same kind of football play.

RABBIT PUNCHES

by PAUL LOWRY

WONDER who'll be the favorite in the Los Angeles open this year? Will it be wee Bobby Cruickshank, who captured the event last year by scoring a dazzling 67 on the final round for a grand total of 282, six strokes ahead of the field?

Or will it be Lighthorse Harry Cooper, who won the classic at the Los Angeles Country Club by staging a brilliant fight with George Von Elm in 1926? Or will it be Tommy Armour, who captured the national open championship last summer? Or will it be Al Watrous, who led Cruickshank up to the final nine holes last year? Or will it be Leo Diegel, a superbrilliant golfer when he is right; Eddie Loos, the fine young stylist; Charley Guest, who tied for second with Charley Dudley last year, or any one of a dozen other splendid possibilities?

With the Chula Vista results already in, La Jolla to be heard from today, and with the Palos Verdes tourney in the offing, we'll all soon be able to guess more soundly about the winner of this great Southern California golf classic.

If Walter Hagen plays, as promised, he's a cinch to be rated ahead of anybody in the field, champion or no champion playing. His reputation of being the toughest money player in the world no doubt will make him the highest bid player in the annual Calcutta.

CONGRESSMEN SHED NO TEARS OVER ARMY-NAVY GRID BREAK

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18. (AP)—Few tears have been shed on Capitol Hill over the break in football relations between the Army and the Navy.

Whatever their official views may be, many members of Congress personally breathed a sigh of relief at the immediate prospect that there will be no more demands made upon them for tickets to the annual service battle.

Each fall, weeks in advance of the game, Senators and House members have been harassed by an avalance of requests for the coveted pasteboards, and quite a little of their time and that of their secretaries has been spent in chasing down elusive rumors that so and so might get them a ticket.

Local Youngsters Cop Clash From Wyoming Team

Green River Players Lose by 12-0 Margin

Invaders Put Up Stiff Fight at Wrigley Field

Coach Harold Piper's all-star gridders gave the Green River Panthers from Wyoming a sample of southern California high school football yesterday afternoon at Wrigley Field, when they defeated the Rocky Mountain aggregation by a 12-to-0 score. The prep youngsters who were recruited from local high school teams showed a flashy brand of football yesterday in whipping the Wyoming players. The Panthers held the local boys on even terms during the first half but the preps pushed over two touchdowns in the last section of the game for a victory.

"Papa" Post, former Poly star, made the first touchdown of the tilt in the third quarter from the 3-yard line on a straight buck through center. "Barbara" Fritchie, another Poly man, failed to kick the goal for the extra point. Post and Ed Griffiths did most of the work in pushing the ball down the field before the touchdown. The Panthers fought savagely during the rest of the period in a desperate attempt to even the score, but the local youngsters managed to hold them away from their goal line.

In the last period Fritchie made a touchdown from the 10-yard line after Ed Griffiths had raced the ball down the field on an intercepted pass of Gogerty's. Fritchie bucked the ball across left tackle for a touchdown. Fritchie failed to kick goal. The Panthers opened up a desperate passing attack in the last few minutes of play but the preps ameared most of them before they were completed. The game ended with the ball in the All-Stars' possession.

NEW YORK, Dec. 18. (AP)—For the second time within a year, Welker Cochran, world's 18.2 balkline billiard champion, this week is called upon to defend the title he won at Washington last December.

Having successfully hurdled the challenge of Eric Hagenlacher, German star, in a match at Chicago some months ago, Cochran finds youthful Jake Schaefer, former titleholder and son of the "old wizard," contesting his claim to supremacy at the 18.2 game.

The opening block of 300 points of the 1500-point match, will be played at the Pennsylvania Hotel here tomorrow night. Blocks of 300 points each will follow Tuesday afternoon and night and Wednesday afternoon and night.

MANY BOXING BOUTS ON CHICAGO BENEFIT CARD

CHICAGO, Dec. 18. (AP)—The most heavily endowed Christmas benefit boxing show Chicago has seen in a long time offers fifty rounds of boxing tomorrow night at the Coliseum. The main bout, allotted by lot, brings together Ray Miller and Mike Dundee, local lightweights.

Harry Forbes of Columbus, and George Rivers, Mexican bantam, meet in the fourth eight-rounder.

A. J. Cermak, president of the Cook County Commissioners, is organizer of the show. E. J. Kelly, president of the South Park board, which controls Soldier Field, handled the ticket sale. At Gene Tunney's recent banquet here, Cermak auctioned off nearly $20,000 worth of tickets in a few minutes.

AMERICAN-CANADIAN PUCKS BEAT GERMANS

BERLIN (Ger.) Dec. 18. (AP)—Somewhat of a surprise occurred today in the opening games of the Berlin international ice hockey tournament at the Berlin Sport Palace when the Oxford University team composed of Canadian and American players was defeated by the Berlin Skating Club, 7 goals to 1.

In the other international match, the Vienna Hockey Club defeated Cambridge University, three goals to one.

PURPLE FOUR COP TILT

In the first practice game of the polo season, the Midwick Purple Riders defeated the Midwick White team yesterday by a 9-to-5 count. Teddy Miller led the Purple four to victory with his fast riding and accurate hitting. Miller scored four goals for the winning team. Capstick and Bodrero played a nice game for the losers.

BY AL PARMENTER

Ralph De Palma, imported along with George Souders and Leon Duray for the occasion, was defeated yesterday in his first appearance made this season on the Ascot track in the feature race. Duray was the victor, Fred Frame of local dirt-track fame took second and De Palma brought down third money. Souders was in none of the competition, his motor going wrong early in the afternoon in the time trials.

This was the second race of the season on the Ascot dirt track.

About 10,000 were gathered in the stands and infield despite the cooler weather and were rewarded by seeing Leon Duray, sluggish in his earlier afternoon appearances, come to life and dash madly after Ralph De Palma for thirty-seven of the fifty laps in the feature race when with a wilder burst of speed he stole the lead from the famed De Palma and was first to take the finish flag. Duray had driven the distance at an average speed of seventy-three miles per hour in 28m. 27.6s. Frame was second and De Palma third.

HOT ARGUMENT

The final event started with an argument and continued on to the finish. As the cars lined up for the start Glenn Hertt, in a Ford, sought to start in the race with the larger cars and the management was allowing him to do so when Leon Duray protested his entrance. His

Southern Squad Slated to Get Here Tomorrow

Just what the West is to offer the South in the way of opposition for the Christmas Day game here will be determined this afternoon, when Coaches Howard Jones, Bill Spaulding and Enoch Bagshaw gather their players together at Bovard Field. The initial turnout of the Pacific Coast stars is slated for 3:30 o'clock.

Bagshaw is slated to arrive here this morning with thirteen players from the great Northwest. The men accompanying the Washington coach are Robbins, Oregon State, and Douglas, Washington, ends; Diehl, Idaho; Hutchinson, Idaho, and Vierhus, Montana, tackles, Dudley, Oregon State, Shaw, Washington; Baier, Gonzaga, and Hodgens, Oregon, guards; Bonamy, Washington, and Lauson, Washington, centers; Luby, Oregon State, and Tsereau, Washington, backs.

Pittsburgh Football Team Picked as National Champions by Veteran Athletes Bo

PANTHERS MAY SLIP IN NEW YEAR'S DAY GAME

Pickers Evidently Failed to Take Cards Seriously, Says Gallagher; Critics Praise Morley Drury

BY JOHN P. GALLAGHER
"Times" Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, Dec. 17. (Exclusive)—A recent event that does not seem to be generally known, and that should be of paramount interest to followers of football in Southern California is that Jock Sutherland's Golden Panthers, who meet Leland Stanford in the Rose Bowl, Pasadena, January 2, have been picked as the football champions of the United States.

The Veteran Athletes' Association did the picking and the association's trophy, emblematic of the mythical national football championship, will be presented to the University of Pittsburgh players by Judge Eugene C. Bonniwell of Philadelphia, president of the V.A.A. at the annual "all-sports" dinner to be held in the City of Brotherly Love, February 4.

"POP" WARNER

Just why the association picked the Pittites as the gridiron champions of the country is not quite clear; therefore, speculation is the only alternate, and your guess is as good as anyone else's. There is no question, however, that the Golden Panthers rank with the best elevens of the year. They went through their schedule unbeaten, but were tied by W. & J. At home they played one intersectional game with the Nebraska Cornhuskers, and won it easily.

But the fact that the Panthers have yet to meet Pop Warner's cocky Cardinals in the Tournament of Roses contest, seems somehow to have been overlooked; or, perhaps it is the belief of the Veteran Athletes' Association officials that Stanford will not be able to offer Jock Sutherland's gridders much opposition!

One conversant with football conditions on the Coast is compelled to say that it takes no little amount of courage to carry the "national title" onto a gridiron in Pasadena with the expectation of romping away with it. "Pop" Warner, who taught Jock Sutherland all he knows about football, certainly knows the style of game Pitt will play, and it is only reasonable to assume that the wily Stanford coach will have a defense to check it. Stanford also has some sterling players who can be relied upon to cross the chalk marks with regularity.

But to get back to the picking. It seems to this writer that the selection of a national gridiron champion, for very obvious reasons, is—well, let us say the height of nonchalance or something like that.

There are two football teams in the country, according to the records, which have not been beaten—Tufts College and Centenary; and there are several other teams, including Texas A. & M., and Tennessee, whose season's record is as good as that of Pitt if Pitt should win from Stanford. It might be added that if the character of opposition were a primary requisite, a review of the season might incline one to favor U.S.C., Stanford or Notre Dame, especially if Pitt should lose to the Cardinals.

One might continue with "ifs" until St. Tim's eve, which is neither before nor after Christmas, and not get anywhere. But the Veteran Athletes' Association, which has been called upon to make fine distinctions in other years—Navy was its choice in 1926, Dartmouth in 1925 and Notre Dame in 1924—and which showed tremendous courage in naming little Boston College as the big team of 1922, has picked Pitt, and a trophy hailing the Panthers as the greatest eleven of 1927 will find a place in Pitts' trophy room a few weeks hence.

It will probably be of interest to Southern California fans to know what one eastern writer who, in picking one of the all-American teams, had to say about our Morley Drury. Says he:

"Drury can run like Grange; he can kick like Brickley; he can hit the line like Joesting; he can pass like Oosterbaan, and he's another Oliphant on defense. He's a wonder."

"But," as one New York writer says in commenting upon the foregoing, "don't get excited over Morley Drury. If you think he's a wonder, a wow or a whiz, ponder what this entranced reporter, who also picked an all-American team, has to say of Mr. Mann, quarterback of the Southern Methodists." Here it is:

"Mann of the line we have in Mann a great field general, a runner of most unusual ability, a forward passer with either hand, a kicker of rare ability, a blocker, tackler and interferer the like of whom is seldom seen in football togs. Here is a youth who is 160 pounds of speed, drive, power, brain and elusiveness and who has been so consistent that he has attracted nation-wide attention. He is a little bit of Aubrey Devine, Bo McMillien, Pfann, Jim Thorpe, Stubldreher, Friedman and Kipke rolled objections were overruled by De Palma and the other drivers who said, "Let him in." Fengler then agreed with Duray that should Hiett finish ahead of him and so cut him out of part of the prize money that Fengler would reimburse Duray. The race started with Hiett and his Ford in the competition but his car was too slow for the little 122 cubic-inch speedway cars and he was soon forced to trail the field.

De Palma from the post position took the lead with Duray and Atha trailing. Glen Heitt from his position as tailender, passed Fred Frame's Miller shortly after the start. Frame evidently was slow in getting away, but regained his position, passing Hiett in the third. At the tenth lap De Palma had opened up a considerable lead with Atha and Duray supplying the thrills in a battle for second place with the laurels finally resting with Duray in the eleventh lap. In the fourteenth lap De Palma lapped Hiett. Babe Stapp in his Miller began to hit up the pace, passing Atha in the sixteenth and closing in on Duray running in second place. Stapp was close in the eighteenth and in the nineteenth ineffectually challenged Duray. De Palma's time at the twenty-lap mark was given as 10m. 3s., twenty-three seconds faster than the mark set in the former race under Fengler's management at Ascot.

WILD TO GO

The turn in the race came in the thirty-seventh lap, when Duray, having outsputted Frame in his green car a couple of laps previously, stepped madly on the throttle of his black-bodied Miller front-drive and gained the lead over De Palma and the field. He held this advantage to the finish but had a narrow escape when Frame moved up from third place and took second position from De Palma and cut down the lead of Duray until on the far stretch in his forty-seventh lap he lost his challenge for the lead, when he was boxed by Duray and Hiett, the latter in his forty-fifth lap. Duray can be glad his objections to the presence of Hiett were overruled for had Frame gained the lead but two and a half laps would have remained for Frame to stave off the rushes from Duray and the Frenchman would have had to take second place instead of the winner's purse.

In the preliminary races there were two events for the Fords or other small cars and two for the larger machines. Each class had a ten and twenty-lap event in addition to the time trials.

George Sauders, winner of the last Indianapolis race and winner of most of the races in the first of Fengler's programs, was out of the competition when his motor went wrong in the time trials. As Souder's himself put it, "Looks as though I might have lost some hickels, doesn't it?"

In the time trials, De Palma and Frame turned the fastest laps in 28.8s., but this failed to equal the mark made last week by Souders when he made 28.2 for a new track record. For the small cars the fastest time was by Ted Simpson in a Ford, making 30.8s.

THRILLING EVENT

The first competitive event furnished a thrill when Harry Tombs in a small Duesenberg, nearly collided with Gardner trying to pass him on the turn coming into the stretch. He consistently challenged for a lead over Gardner in second place but none of them again came as close to disaster as the first. The race was won by Hiett in 5m. 25s., but he was about 100 yards in the lead and the race as far as the stands were concerned, was between Gardner and Tombs.

De Palma registered his only win of the day when he took first place in the ten-lap event with Frame and Berger second and third. Babe Stapp who was a threat in the first races, finished fourth in this race and moved up from second place in the twenty-lap event to take first place and hold it when De Palma dropped out of the lead to make a tire change. He returned to the race to finish third. His pit men took nearly a minute to make this change and by the time he was back he lost two laps of which he regained a partial lap, but could not have hoped to regain his lead unless the other two, Schneider and Stapp, should meet with trouble. De Palma's performance in the feature race has already been recounted.

Time trials—Fastest small car, Ted Simpson (Ford.) Time, 30.8s.

Large cars, Ralph De Palma and Fred Frame tied at 28.8s.

Ten-lap small cars—Won by Hiett; Gardner, second; Tombs, third. Time, 5m. 25s.

Ten-lap large cars—Won by De Palma; Frame, second; Bergere, third. Time, 4m. 49.8s.

Twenty-lap small cars—Won by Hiett; Tombs, second; Gardner, third. Time, 11m. 6.6s.

Twenty-lap large cars — Won by Stapp; Schneider, second; De Palma, third. Time, 10m. 25.4s.

OBSERVATIONS

BILL HENRY

YOUNG America gets its chance from now on as far as international tennis is concerned. That much is certain from the attitude taken by the U.S.L.T.A. in connection with the challenge for the Davis Cup in 1928. Bill Tilden's suggestion, which called for a tour by himself and his playmate, Frank Hunter, all over Europe accompanied by four young players, was unanimously turned down and the tennis association by its action not only intimated that Bill Tilden couldn't hand pick his own tennis team, but to all intents and purposes also intimated that it didn't care whether Tilden carried out his threat to leave the American Davis Cup team flat or not.

Tilden proposed to take one of his well-known "semipro" tennis tours of Europe with his side-kick Hunter and a team of youngsters whom he selected himself, namely, Johnny Doeg, Cranston Holman, George Lott and Lewis White, also a couple of juniors, Warren Coen and Frank Shields. His scheme was to spend about three months in Europe with his team, playing in the European Davis Cup play-off and generally getting the youngsters accustomed to conditions over there on the other side where they would play the final round, if they got that far.

THE U.S.L.T.A. thinks that Tilden's idea is the bunk for a lot of reasons, among others because his plan omits such youthful proteges as John Van Ryn of Princeton; John Hennessy and Lucien Williams of the Middle West; Wilmer Allison and Berkeley Bell of Texas; Ben Gorchakoff and Bobby Sellars of California, and a few others of equally promise with those whom he chose for his own personal bodyguard. Evidently, since Tilden is slipping, it is up to the United States to pick out the very best to be had from the entire country to represent us in the future.

Frankly, there isn't much chance of our winning the Davis Cup back for a few years, although such miracles have happened. That being the case the U.S.L.T.A. has decided to forget Tilden, who will be passe by the time they can find others of equal caliber, and concentrate on building up an entirely new outfit with the able assistance of former internationalists like Bill Johnston and Dick Williams as coaches.

LONDOS DATE PROMISED

Daviscourt to Meet Greek Strangler if Winner in Bout With Pete Sauer at Olympic

A match with Jim Londos, the Greek "strangler," was promised Dick Daviscourt, the Wichita head-squeezer, if he can defeat Peter Sauer of Los Angeles at the Olympic Wednesday night when they clash in a finish bout in Lou Daro's final wrestling show of the year.

The only condition on which Daviscourt would wrestle Sauer, it was reported, was that he be given another chance at Londos should he win. He beat Londos here once and two weeks later, in another wild battle, Londos cracked Daviscourt on the chin and the 225-pounder dropped to the mat with the Greek on top for the third and deciding fall.

Should Sauer beat Daviscourt, which seems the more likely possibility at the present time, the local heavyweight will make another demand to get Londos in the ring with him. The Greek turned down an offer of a return match a week ago, despite the big offer Daro made him. Should Londos again refuse Sauer will try to get a match with Joe Stecher.

Sauer believes that if he can beat Daviscourt, he stands a very good chance of doing more to the champion than the Wichita headcrusher did, and that was plenty. Daviscourt wrestled Stecher twice, and at the end of both bouts he had the title-holder as close to the mat, that there was no doubt in the minds of any of those present that if the bouts had been fifteen minutes longer, only sleeping sickness would have kept the 225-pounder from winning.

Wednesday night's match means as much to Sauer as it does to Daviscourt. The latter saw Sauer wrestle Londos here two weeks ago and did not care for another bout with him unless the promoter made him an attractive offer. He got everything he asked for, and unless Sauer breaks three or four legs or something before Wednesday night, the Wichita grappler will get about twice as much as he expected. Sauer has reached the point in his come-back where, if he wins, he will be in the same place he was before he wrestled Londos, and if he loses, he will be in the same spot in the heavyweight division that he was two months ago.

The other two bouts on the same card will see Y. Fujita and Robert Williams, jiu-jitsu experts, in the one-hour special event; Alex Aberg and Al Baffert in the opener.

H.A.C. FIVE FACES BRUINS

Varsity Basketeers to Meet Clubmen Tomorrow at Movie City Gymnasium

Fresh from a victory over Occidental and seven other basketball fives, Coach Chuck Kearney's Hollywood Athletic Club basketball squad face another tough assignment tomorrow night when they clash with the University of California at Los Angeles, at the Hollywood club.

Looming up as one of the most powerful cage teams in the history of the Coast, Hollywood Athletic Club members are already counting on the local A.A.U. championship, and are also confident that the circle H five will go a long way toward winning the national title.

The movie city club has in Chuck Kearney, Bud George and George Millinard a great scoring trio. With Jimmy Armstrong and Gene Dorsey looking after the defense, the Hollywood club for the first time in three years shows no sign of weakness. In former years the club always had enough scoring power with Kearney as one of the forwards, but their defense was always just a little weak. Not this year, as Armstrong, former U.C.L.A. captain, and Dorsey, the former U.S.C. captain loom up like the Rock of Gibraltar.

Tomorrow night's game should be the stiffest for the Hollywood club to date, as Coach Cady Works of the Bruins has a squad, which also looks like the best the local college has had in years. The California five is also undefeated this year, and their game with Hollywood Tuesday should be one of the greatest games of the year.

Here is the probable starting line-up:

Hollywood		California
Kearney	Forward	Williams
Millinard	Forward	Ketchum
George	Center	Woodruff
Dorsey	Guard	Balter
Armstrong	Guard	Baker

game is something of a puzzle. It has been reported that Howard Elliott of the Trojans is to play although Elliott is said to have stated that he does not intend to take part in the festivities. Likewise it is rumored that Tesreau is in no condition to play, the knee he injured in the Southern California game still being very much on the blink. This afternoon's turnout at Bovard Field will therefore settle a number of things and we should have something definite to report tomorrow morning.

The Southern squad left Tuscaloosa, Ala., Saturday night and is due here tomorrow evening at 5:30. Coaches Dan McGugin, Wallace Wade and Bill Alexander have a great outfit, everybody being en route here but Shiver and Nash, the two Georgia ends. Creson and Crowley, two high-powered wingmen, are to handle the flank positions for the Southerners and both are rated among the best below the Mason-Dixon line.

The Western team will be quartered at the Beverly Hills Hotel, while the Southerners will take their food and shut-eye at the Biltmore.

A new block of 10,000 choice tickets will be placed on sale at the B. H Dyas store this morning. Phone reservations may be made through this channel. Ducats are selling at $2.50.

he gave away ten pounds to Rosenbloom, who weighed 168, but that Joe won handily by his speed and punching.

The other source was rely-poly Joe Levy himself, who dropped down from Portland for a few days, and said he had Anderson, who became a big favorite in the Northwestern city by beating Eddie Roberts and Leo Lomski there over a year ago, signed up for the holiday bill. Joe showed up at the Hollywood fights the other night, looking as chipper as ever, and said things were moving along pretty well in the Rose City.

Saw Washington's favorite play—a forward pass from the goal line—pulled in the Fullerton-Santa Maria game at Wrigley Field Saturday, and it worked the way it generally works—in a score for the other fellow.

Quarterback Gill of Santa Maria tried it instead of kicking the ball out of danger, and the ensuing fumble resulted in a Fullerton touchdown. However, the play brought up that perplexing point, possession and control of the ball. I sat on the goal line and saw the play distinctly, but the back of the player for whom the pass was intended was toward me, so I don't know whether he had the ball tight or not. The Santa Maria players thought the play should have been a safety, but a Fullerton player fell on the rolling ball back of the line and the officials promptly ruled a touchdown. Oddly, Pinky Griffith, who officiated in that famous Chicago gridiron fray of recent date, was one of the officials Saturday.

Paddock Due Home Today

Charley Paddock, runner, actor, author and lecturer, will return to Los Angeles today following a tour of the country which carried him into thirty-five States. The Pasadena sprinter has been on the Chautauqua circuit for the past ten weeks. He is due home at 8:30 this morning. Paddock plans to start active training soon for the Olympic Games and intends to challenge Chet Bowman, national A.A.U. 100-yard champion, to a race to be held before the Olympic Games tryouts at Boston during the first week in July. It was Bowman who took a disputed decision over Charley Borah in the 1927 nationals at Lincoln, Neb.

morning, and like Diegel, tumbled to a 75 today.

Tommy Armour, national open champion, contributed a fine 71 in his final round, but two disastrous efforts previously had eliminated him from contention, and he had to be content with a 223 total. Larry Nabholtz and Leo Schmutte of Lincoln, had the same total.

All the golfers experienced trouble with their putts on the somewhat damp greens.

E. G. (Speed) Martin, well-known Coast League hurler, led the amateurs with a fine 230 low-gross aggregate. Alan Moser, youthful Wilshire and S. C. star, took low-net cup. George Von Elm, ex-national amateur champion, was in San Diego over the week-end, but did not compete in the tournament. Von Elm had a narrow escape from death in the quicksands near Sweetwater dam. He was submerged nearly to his armpits before he could extricate himself. He was reported today to be none the worse for his trying experience of the previous afternoon.

The pros will invade La Jolla Tuesday, where they will negotiate the seaside course for thirty-six holes in quest of a $1500 purse.

San Diego's first major professional event proved intensely popular with the local golf fans. Huge galleries followed the paid-to-play performers over the picturesque San Diego Country Club course at Chula Vista. Diegel and Cruickshank proved the most popular, although Armour, the national champion, drew a big following despite his poor start.

In Toronto tomorrow night, Frenchy Belanger, conqueror of Frankie Genero and Newsboy Brown, will struggle against Ernie Jarvis of London for the flyweight championship of the National Boxing Association, which has a following in twenty-four States of the Union.

According to plans announced by Tex Rickard, New York promoter, the winner of the Toronto bout will be matched with Izzy Schwarts of this city, who became the recognized title-holder of the flyweight division in this State by virtue of a victory over Newsboy Brown in Madison Square Garden last Friday night.

Proctor Hug Wins Feature

TIA JUANA RACE TRACK, Dec. 18. Proctor Hug, one of the speediest 3-year-olds training here, stuck it out six furlongs here this afternoon to win the Hot Heels Handicap from a field of twelve, which included some of the best sprint artists in training here. Proctor Hug led from start to finish. Sergeant Seth, fresh here from the East, was second, and Shasta Gold, third. Rip Rap, which races for the powerful string of Mrs. Louise Viau, failed to come in in the money. Rip Rap was making his first start here, and ran an excellent race after being off behind the entire field.

JOE SALAS AND FIELDS IN SPOT

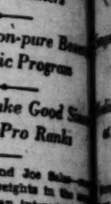
Fistic Fans to Compare Old Rivals as Feathers

One-time Simon-pure Boxer on Olympic Program

Both Boys Make Good Since Entering Pro Ranks

Jackie Fields and Joe Salas, rivals as featherweights in the same stable—will offer an interesting comparison Tuesday night at the Olympic.

Although both boys have made progress as professionals perhaps their most sensational battles were back in the days at the Los Angeles Athletic Club when they fought three rounds on a fifty-fifty basis and a fourth round was necessary to decide the shade.



Even in Paris at the Olympic Games in 1924 coincidence both went into the ring and had to fight each other for amateur championship of the world. Fields won as he usually did at the L.A.A.C.

In those days many believed Salas would set the boxing world on fire when professional days arrived. But Salas never grew much bigger. He weighed 122 three years ago and can still make it, although he is boxing Davis Kaplan at 130.

Fields has taken on the pounds and in the last few months has bloomed from a lightweight to a welter. Sometime in 1928 he will likely be a full-fledged 147-pounder.

BOTH FEATURED

Both Fields and Salas are featured Tuesday night in two-round bouts. Fields boxes a Pasadena boy named Buddy Saunders, whom he recommendation is that he has a decision over Sergt. Sammy Salas.

Saunders may or may not be able to extend the flashy Fields who has defeated Baby Joe Gans and Eddie Callahan in a row. Fields is a comfortable favorite.

Salas is no better than even money against Barron. There is no doubt about Barron's capacity. He is a hitter. He has class. He is rated as the "coming" class and going to stay.

Another thing against Salas is that he has been idle for nearly a year and is not keyed up. Joe laid off because of growing into a full-fledged welter weight, but the extra weight has come.

Since Fidel La Barba has not been able to George Blake is making a strong drive with Salas. He is trying to prepare him for a title fight with Ted Morgan. Barron is aiming at the same goal.

In fact Barron has already been offered a Morgan fight in Chicago later in the first of the year. If he can decisively over Salas Matchmaker Wadhams can get the Morgan match here.

DARK HORSE ENTERED

Saunders is the "dark horse" on the card. If he is as good now as he was when he reached the low score in the second and final day of qualifying in the first annual Los Angeles Junior championship golf tourney. While this was two years ago when he chalked up Fritz Dunlap of Girard, Saunders' 73 was a brilliant one since it was accomplished on a course swept by a fifty-mile gale. Sangster was the only one to equal the course par of 73 in the hard second nine.

Saunders played in a foursome with Charles Seaver, California junior champion, Richelberger and Burt Hall. The first three all drove the first hole, followed by a following the ball. Saunders drew the fifth green and won three putts. Seaver and Burt were both off form and Julian Cahn, Frank-laddie Hellman, Burt Honeycutt, Barney Lucas, Cliff Little and Ned Kerter, were to put up a strong match play, which starts eight matches will be un-with defeated eights Tuesday along with the of the title bracket. for first-round matches medal scores, follow:

BY BILL WISE

Tommy Von Elm, former national champion, and U. S. (Scotty) Armstrong of Lakeside, the toughest amateur match play golf team on the West Coast, will tackle Tommy Armour and Bobby Cruickshank in a special eighteen-hole best-ball foursome exhibition at Rancho Wednesday.

The present national open champ and his diminutive Scotch partner, have not lost an exhibition tilt this season, but Armstrong will just about meet the internationally famous professional duo over the Rancho layout, Wednesday.

Bobby Cruickshank, one of the most colorful members of the golfing clan—in addition to his national, Canadian, Oregon, Long Beach and other representative titles, won highest honors as an amateur, while playing as a lass for Englishman in Great Britain. Tommy is probably the most dispositioned — the most popular professional golfer today. Tommy never has an opportunity to help a partner out of his troubles but Tommy is one of the great players in the world.

Bobby Cruickshank needs no introduction to local fans. The husky Scot has crashed through the best to vest coast has ever known to the tune of $10,000 Los Angeles Open and came within two strokes of cheating Leo Diegel out of first money at Chula Vista yesterday. He will be a prime favorite in both events and the Rancho will be the first public competitive appearance of the greatest professional team in golf.

Armstrong is one of the most colorful play golfers on the west coast. "Scotty" will offer Tom Elm and Armstrong will just about meet the internationally famous professional duo over the Rancho layout, Wednesday.

The Rancho exhibition, indorsed by a number clubs of the Southern California Golf Association, is for the benefit local golfers and friends. Starting time 13:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

Lakeside Club May Hold Pro Golf Tourney

The Lakeside Golf Club may stage the second annual California open golf team championship, it was learned yesterday. Tommy Armour, present national open champ, and Al Watrous, won the West Coast team title at the Los Angeles Country Club last year. The sixteen low scorers in the $10,000 Los Angeles open event next January, will be eligible to choose partners for the team play and if the new fifteenth hole at Lakeside is completed in time, the affair will probably be staged by club officials.

84-6—78, won low-net trophies in the affair that drew a fine entry to the sponsoring club yesterday.

DUDLEY HOST TO GOLF SCRIBES AT HOLLYWOOD

Ed Dudley, Hollywood Country Club professional, will play host to local golf and sporting writers at a special luncheon and eighteen-hole medal tournament, scheduled for his home layout Wednesday. Prizes will be awarded the winners of low gross and low net in the invitation affair.

KILLEFER WINS AT PALOS VERDES

Wade Killefer, 2 down with an 87, won the semimonthly invitational feature at Palos Verdes yesterday. I. H. Sample, 1 down with a 77, was second. T. Peterson and G. A. Wise tied for first prize in the blind bogey event.

SPARKS WINS FROM INDIAN AT FOX HILLS

Wallie Sparks, one of Chick Fraser's Fox Hills assistants, defeated Little Bison, Indian exponent of bow and arrow golf, two down, at Fox Hills yesterday. The defeat of yesterday was the first time this season Little Bison has "bit the dust," according to Freddie Tongue, club caddy master.

DIXIE PLAYERS HIT HIGH PITCH

Southerners Emote During Tuscaloosa Feast

Invaders Determined to Mop Up Western Men

Formidable Foe to Take on Coast Squad Here

BEAUMONT (Tex.) Dec. 18. — At Tuscaloosa Saturday night the all-southern football squad attended a football banquet given in their honor. Inspirational speeches from noted men of the old South keyed the boys to a high pitch. Players from this section are probably more emotional than those from other sections and they can be worked to a higher pitch. It was the inspired playing of the 1925 Alabama team that enabled it to come from behind and beat Washington and to come from behind and tie Stanford last year. The players from the South play with a fiery enthusiasm that makes them hard to down.

GAME FIGHTERS

It has been Bill Spears's unconquerable spirit that has made him the player that he is. One hundred and fifty-eight pounds of dynamite that is liable to explode through the line or off tackle in a twisting, turning, dodging run that takes the combined effort of all the opposing team to stop. Dropping back, he will zipp a pass just across the line of scrimmage or sail it fifty yards down the field into the arms of a racing end. Completing 60 per cent of his passes for the season, he is the greatest passer the South has ever seen. He is a great defensive football player, being a good tackler and a good defender against forward passes. Add to this his ability to punt, drop-kick and place-kick and you have one of the most finished football players in the country.

Long, lanky Jack McDowell of North Carolina State is not far behind Spears as a triple-threat back. He excels in passing and running with the ball. His work all the season has marked him as one of the outstanding backs of the country.

Estes of the University of Georgia was one of the main factors in his team's defeat of Yale. He is another triple man on the southerners' roster and his long, beautifully placed kicks will be worth going out to see alone. Estes is a great running back and passes with unusual accuracy. Middlekauf of Florida is the giant fullback of the South, being six feet two inches tall and weighing over 200 pounds.

Solly Cohen of the University of Mississippi is another big boy, weighing 220 pounds. He is also a fullback. Dick Dodson of the University of Tennessee is six feet tall and weighs 189 pounds. He is the third fullback of the squad and is probably faster and more versatile than the other two. He comes from a team that has only been defeated once in two years. Thomas of Maryland is probably the fastest back on the team. He has run the quarter-mile in 49s. twice on the same day.

Menville of Tulane is a good line-plunger and kicker. Capt. Crowley of Georgia Tech, who led his team to victory over the University of Georgia, thus blasting that team's national championship hopes, will be stationed at one end. He is a fine defensive football player, a good catcher of passes, and fine at blocking an end. Larry Creson of Vanderbilt, who will be at the other end, was selected along with Nash of Georgia as an all-Southern end. He beat out Shiver of Georgia for the position after Shiver had been picked by a number of critics for their all-American teams. He is the best receiver of passes that the South has seen in years. He blocks a tackle with a great deal of skill and is down the field very fast under punts. Add to this the fact that he is a deadly tackler you have all of the requisites of a great end.

GREAT RECEIVER

Spotts of Washington and Lee is a great receiver of passes and a good defensive player. He will be used part of the game at end. Capt. Pickard of Alabama is making his third trip to California to play in a football game. He played right tackle against Washington and against Stanford and will be at the same position on the 26th inst. He weighs 215 pounds and is six feet, three inches tall.

Capt. Barnhill of the University of Tennessee will be at right guard. He is the lightest lineman on the squad, weighing only 170, but makes up for his lack of weight by his fast charging and deadly blocking. Bowdoin of the University of Alabama will also be playing in his third California game. He has been one of the outstanding linemen in the South for the past three years and he should be able to continue his good work in his last game. Capt. Vernon Sharpe of Vanderbilt is one of the smartest players in the United States, Coach McGugin of Vanderbilt rates him as one of the best centers Vanderbilt has had in twenty years.

Elvin Butcher of Tennessee rates right along with Sharpe as a great center. He is a very strong, rugged defensive football player. Thompson of Mississippi A. & M. can be used either at guard or tackle. Cardwell is a 195-pound tackle from the University of Virginia. This rounds out the squad of twenty players that will make it extremely interesting for the all-California seniors on the 26th inst.

FLEET SET FOR ORPHANS' FETE

Thousand Youngsters to Be Holiday Guests

Parties Will Be Held Aboard Fighting Ships

Oil Company Plans for New Tanker Service

A thousand orphaned youngsters from Southern California institutions this Christmas again will be guests of the officers and men of the battle fleet at parties to be held aboard the nine battleships and other fleet units in port on the day after Christmas.

Complete outfits of clothing, toys and candy already have been purchased by committees from the various ships, while preceding the afternoon's festivities the boys and girls will partake of a genuine navy Christmas dinner. On most ships, Santa Claus will arrive from the North Pole via seaplane and in addition to his job of presenting the gifts ships' companies will present vaudeville and musical programs.

OPEN-HOUSE VESSELS

Ships of the battleship divisions which will hold open house for the children include the flagship California, and the Pennsylvania, Tennessee, West Virginia, Colorado, New Mexico, Idaho, Mississippi and Arizona.

The fleet's fortnight of Christmas liberty starts this morning, when the first section of officers and men will depart on holiday leave, many of them going home to distant points. All units will remain at anchor during the period, with all training activities suspended.

Next Thursday the U.S.S. New York, which left the local base three years ago as a coal-burning battleship, will return to Battleship Division Three, now a modernized oil-burning dreadnaught, rebuilt to post-Jutland standards at a cost of $3,500,000.

GUNNERY RESUMPTION

On January 2, next, the fleet will resume the year's gunnery schedule while on that date the dreadnaughts West Virginia and Tennessee will sail for San Francisco for a fortnight's visit, rejoining the fleet on January 15.

On the 27th inst., the battleship Colorado will sail for the Puget Sound Navy Yard for her annual overhaul and on January 3 the battleship California, fleet flagship, will go to San Francisco for drydocking, returning here January 10.

NEW ARRAY OF TANKERS PLANNED

The Western Oil and Refining Company, youngest of established California oil producers, is planning the establishment of its own tanker fleet and Richard Florian, president, now is in New York purchasing suitable vessels, it was announced yesterday by A. A. G. Scherbel, secretary-treasurer and sales manager of the company. The new ships, nucleus of a larger fleet, will be operated in coast-wise service but the company also plans its ultimate expansion for foreign transport.

Although the Western Oil and Refining Company's refinery at Los Angeles Harbor has been in operation but little more than a year, its present daily output is 6000 barrels, while in early spring this daily business will exceed 8000 barrels, Mr. Scherbel said.

Mr. Scherbel confirmed reports that the company is to establish a terminal at Oleum, to serve the San Francisco Bay district, and that similar terminals later will be built at Portland and Seattle, thus enabling the concern to supply the entire Pacific Coast.

For approximately a year, through its foreign marketing subsidiary, the Western Refining and Marketing Company, Ltd., of London, the company has been developing an export trade in fuel oil, kerosene and light oil; so that 150,000 barrels monthly now are shipped from its West Basin terminal to the United Kingdom, the Orient and South America. The company's gasoline output will be marketed almost exclusively, for the present, on this coast, Mr. Scherbel said.

The company also plans the immediate construction of a cracking plant, for gasoline and light oil reduction, at its local refinery, for the building of which a contract already has been signed with the Gasoline Process Company.

Capt. Cliff Curtis, widely known Pacific mariner, is to command the Los Angeles Steamship Company's new freighter Diamond Head, formerly West Erral, it was announced yesterday by Ralph J. Chandler, general manager. Her chief engineer will be Henry Cave.

Both Capt. Curtis and Mr. Cave have been associated with the Lasso organization for several years. Capt. Curtis brought the liner City of Honolulu here from the Atlantic Coast two years ago when she was purchased from the Shipping Board and also delivered the Diamond Head from the east coast.

The Diamond Head, of 8600 tons deadweight, now is undergoing reconditioning at a San Francisco shipyard and will enter the Lasso service when she sails from this port for Honolulu on February 4, 1928. She was built at this port in 1918 by the Los Angeles Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Corporation.

The sixty-foot schooner-yacht Bonnie Doon, which was blown ashore at Point Fermin by the northeaster Saturday night, was floated at high tide yesterday morning by the aid of a kedge anchor after a salvage tug had failed to pull her off the rocks. She will be raised on dock this week for survey, but it is not believed that she was badly damaged by the pounding. The Bonnie Doon, owned by William Lacy of this city, was formerly the Uncas, owned by John Bowers, and later the Walgar. A thirty-two-foot yawl, blown ashore at Cabrillo Beach, is the only other harbor casualty of the blow.

The Japanese tanker Koyo Maru, which was thought aground on the reef off Point Fermin Saturday night, later was found only to have anchored in the dangerous spot on account of engine trouble. Repairs were effected and she sailed for Tokoyama shortly before daylight yesterday.

Three hundred and fifty travelers will sail for New York, via the canal and Havana, at noon today aboard the 30,000-ton liner Mongolia, completing her twelfth round voyage in the intercoastal service of the Panama-Pacific Line.

Delayed twenty-four hours by northerly gales, the Lassco liner Calawaii arrived at daylight yesterday from Honolulu with 110 passengers and a cargo of island products.

Prominent among her passengers was Ralph N. Begien, vice-president of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, accompanied by Mrs. Begien.

Mr. Begien declared himself highly optimistic over national business prospects for 1928 and said that the Chesapeake and Ohio's gross earning total for 1927 of more than $155,000,000 is indicative of the good health of the American industrial situation. Mr. and Mrs. Begien departed for their home in Richmond, Va., at 11 o'clock yesterday morning.

Others arriving on the Calawaii included John Hodge, president of the Atlas Milling Company of this city, accompanied by his mother; Joseph W. Hodgson, Honolulu attorney, en route to Ann Arbor for a reunion of his alma mater, the University of Michigan, and Dr. George Broadrup, Hilo surgeon.

The football team of Pasadena Junior College returned on the steamer, fresh from their 13-to-7 defeat of the St. Louis School of Honolulu.

Seven passenger steamers were among yesterday's arrivals: The Calawaii, from Hawaii; the Dollar liner President Lincoln, from the Orient; the Mongolia, from San Francisco to load for New York, and the coastwise liners Yale, from San Francisco, Harvard from San Diego; Emma Alexander, from San Diego, and the Admiral Benson, from Portland.

This morning the Panama Mail liner Venezuela will come in from the north to load passengers and cargo for Central American ports and New York, sailing tonight. Tomorrow at daylight, the Panama Mail motor liner City of San Francisco will arrive from canal ports and Central America with passengers and a cargo of coffee and sugar.

TROUBLE JINX AT SEACLIFF

Pan American's Hobson-State No. 1 Sands Up Again After Flowing at 700-Barrel Rate One Day

Production is at a standstill again in the Seacliff Field, west of Ventura. The Pan American Petroleum Company's Hobson-State No. 1 well, which was placed on production a second time Thursday, sanded up again on Friday, after having flowed at the rate of 700 barrels a day, with as little as a 4 per cent cut of water. Yesterday the crew was pumping mud into the hole, which was barefooted, and six and one-quarter inch perforated casing will be set to stop the sanding. The company believed that, after several trials, it has finally obtained a water shut-off and will soon have the well back on production.

Pan American's Hobson Fee No. 3 is standing cemented in twenty-one feet of oil sand at 2600 feet, and will probably be drilled out early in the week, for a combination water and oil test. If a shut-off is obtained the crew will immediately begin drilling on down into the oil zone. Operators who have been watching these two wells appear to be of the belief that the shallow zone will be a profitable one if many of the wells show 700 and 800 barrel class, as is indicated by the Hobson-State No. 1. It is asserted that such a well can be completed for about $30,000, and might be expected to pay for itself in a little over a month.

The Chanslor-Canfield Midway Oil Company and E. J. Miley have announced that they will each begin operations at once on another well. Miley will have his third well spudded in today and will start work at once on his fourth. The C.C.M.O. is reported to be ready to drill out the plug in its Hobson No. 1-B well on the hill and attempt to place it on production. When it is placed on production, the proved area of the new field will be extended some distance to the northeast.

The General Petroleum Corporation has the stovepipe cemented in its Hobson No. 1 at 408 feet, and is down 945 feet in its Tomson No. 1. Both of these wells are moving ahead slowly, the delay being caused by numerous boulders which the drills strike. The leases lie adjacent to the mouth of a little mountain stream, and the ground appears to be full of big rocks down to a depth of 500 to 600 feet.

Mill of Silver Mines Company Reconditioned

The Silver Mines Consolidated Company of Los Angeles has completely overhauled its 100-ton milling plant at its mine in Yuma county, Ariz., and has added a number of new and modern methods to its milling practice. Displacing the redwood leaching tanks at the mill, Manager J. M. Shiner has installed two 175-ton daily capacity boiler steel leaching tanks, besides other needed equipment calculated to increase capacity operation upon a more economical scale. In ore treatment, Manager Shiner says 70 per cent of the mill heads are reduced to slimes and 30 per cent to sands, which are treated by the cyanide process in the recovery of the silver content of the ore.

At present the plant is being run one eight-hour shift daily, but it will soon be running at capacity, twenty-four hours daily, treating heads averaging twenty-two ounces silver to the ton.

During the past six months the mine has been extensively developed by using the shrinkage system in ore extraction, and the management, after careful measurements, figures sufficient ore tonnages are in sight and available to keep the mill in constant operation until the first of June, pending which time additional ore reserves will be blocked out.

New Cinnabar Mine Opened in Texas Big Bend

MARATHON (Tex.) Dec. 18. (Exclusive)—Another quicksilver camp has been established in the Big Bend region seventy-five miles south of here and that distance from the railroad. The new mine is being operated by W. D. Burcham, who has a store at Glenn Springs on the Rio Grande, in a remote part of the upper border region of Texas. He is mining considerable quantities of cinnibar ore that runs high in quick silver and he plans to keep the furnace at the mine in constant operation.

The location of this mine is approximately fifty miles east of the Terlingua quicksilver district where production of the metal has been going on for many years, placing Texas next to California in the list of quicksilver production.

At Terlingua the Chisos Mining Company, which operates the largest mine, is producing and shipping approximately 600 seventy-five-pound flasks of quicksilver per month. The heavy metal is hauled from Terlingua to Marathon, ninety miles, in wagons drawn by mules, there being twelve mules to each wagon.

Chalk Mountain Mining Planning to Erect Mill

FALLON (Nev.) Dec. 18. (Exclusive)—Manager E. A. Dawes of the Chalk Mountain Silver-Lead Company, operating near Fallon, states that plans have been practically completed for the erection of a seventy-five-ton mill. All leases have been canceled and all future work will be on company account. The 800-foot shaft is to be sent to the sulphide zone, where more persistent deposits are anticipated.

President F. L. Torres of the Eureka Smelting Company reports that a syndicate has been formed by New York capitalists to operate the silver-lead mines of that corporation, erect a modern smelter between Eureka and Palisade, and improve the Eureka-Nevada railroad. Early commencement of mining is planned. President Torres says that all litigation affecting the corporation has been adjusted, and that plans for work on a large scale are going forward.

FOOTHILLS MINES AREA ORGANIZES

Action Taken Because of Geological Conditions in Immediate Field

KINGMAN (Ariz.) Dec. 18. (Exclusive)—Formal organization has been made of the Foothills mining district, in the western part of the old Maynard district, east of Kingman. This action has been considered advisable because of local geological conditions, different from those known elsewhere in the county. Much work is being done on a score of prospects, with development of a number of promising veins.

Five miles south of McCracken, renewed activity is noted in the Centennial Wash section. Tom Rogers is shipping high-grade lead-silver ore from his Red Top mine to the Kingman sampler, after developing his ore body by means of a long tunnel. In the same section, the Silver Leaf Mining Company, managed by N. L. Goulding, has started extensive operations on a silver-lead group. The cost is being borne by Oklahoma and New York capital.

The Dixie Queen mill has been running two shifts a day, with report of good recovery by cyaniding. Lack of fine grinding is stated to be leaving about $7 a ton in the tailings.

Peter Vykoye is pushing a shaft on the Pyramid vein, which lies west of the Esthezine, on the Colorado River. Drifting will be started on the 300-foot level.

NEW PRODUCER IN EDDY FIELD

Getty Project Brought In at 521 Barrels Daily

Well Regarded as One of Best Completed in County

Near-by Tract Reported Taken by Company for Cash

ARTESIA (N. M.) Dec. 18. (Exclusive)—Producing 521 barrels of high gravity oil in a three-day swabbing test, the Hinkle No. 1 of George F. Getty, Inc., is regarded by local operators as one of the best oil wells ever drilled in Eddy county. It went into the sand at 1363 feet.

The confidence of the Getty interests in this territory is indicated by the report of a deal during the week involving 2240 acres for a reported consideration of $229,600. The land lies in the vicinity of the Hinkle No. 1, although some of it runs back from the well for more than two miles.

The Hinkle No. 1 is said to be in the first sand, which was encountered at about 1500 feet in an earlier well located 500 feet to the north. The same sand in the original well made one barrel per day, the second sand found in the original test is believed to have been capable of twenty-five to thirty barrels of production. A number of operators estimate that if the second sand found in the Hinkle increases in proportion to the first the well should do nearly 1000 barrels per day.

The Getty interests plan to start three more tests in this territory at once. The first location was made on the Ada Nicholas permit on Sec. 23, 20-29. All of the local geological work for the Getty has been done by Samuel H. Marshall of Los Angeles.

TUNNEL FOR LUCKY SLIM NEARS GOAL

Good Progress Reported Since Installation of Compressor and Drills

Since the installation of air compressor and machine drills at the Lucky Slim mine near Owenyo in Inyo county, rapid progress is being made in the extension of the main cross-cut tunnel which now has reached a length of 240 feet, with about twenty-five feet more to go to reach its objective.

This is the first of a series of paralleling ledges whose huge outcrop measures from twenty-five to thirty feet in width. In the driving of this tunnel a blind vein was uncovered at a point 200 feet in from its portal. This was found to be nearly three feet in width, and carrying good milling values in silver-lead ore.

Upon reaching the nearest of the series of ledges in tunnel advancement, upraises will be made to connect with the bottom of the forty-five-foot shaft, which was sunk on a good grade of shipping ore. Stopes will be opened on the ore body and it is planned to place the mine upon a regular producing basis during the spring.

The Lucky Slim mine adjoins the property of the Mt. Whitney Union Mining Company, recently equipped with a fine milling plant, electrical power and mining machinery. It is also in the near vicinity of the Cerro Gordo mine, noted as one of the richest silver producers in Southern California.

OLD MINE REVIVING

Famous Mollie Gibson Opening Up at Chloride

CHLORIDE (Ariz.) Dec. 18. (Exclusive)—The famous old Mollie Gibson property, with a great production record of silver and lead, again is being opened and will be worked by W. S. Jennings.

Arrangements are being made in Los Angeles for purchase of a mill for the Payroll property, largely with supply from shallow workings, though with stopping gradually dropped to the 600-foot level.

GETTY TAKING LONG CHANCE

Organization to Drill Wildcat in Residence Area of Seal Beach and Far from Proven Field

George F. Getty, Inc., is going to take a long shot at Seal Beach proper by drilling a wildcat well in the residence district. Geographically the new project is reported to be at least one mile from the nearest production in what is commonly known as the Seal Beach field.

On Saturday the Getty interests laid down $100 for a permit to erect a derrick in the town of Seal Beach and began hauling derrick and rig materials to the site. The well is to be drilled on the south side of Ocean avenue, between Third and Fourth streets, and almost opposite the residence of Mrs. A. L. Havens.

The Getty organization is said to have considerable land leased as town lots in the southwesterly platted portion of the town, it being asserted that the leases are sufficient to afford twenty drilling sites if oil is found there. The first well will be drilled on a sort of bluff, adjacent to the ocean.

According to reports, the "lid is off" at Seal Beach so far as drilling within the city limits is concerned. Property owners are said to welcome a thorough test of the town-lot district. Until now there is said to have been considerable reluctance on the part of investors to buy property and erect buildings of any sort for fear that the value of the improvements might be sharply affected by an oil discovery in the town.

Pioneer Gold Held Promising Mine Property

Gordon M. Bettles, manager and secretary of the Yellow Tiger Consolidated Mining Company, operating the Pioneer gold mine near Pine Grove, Amador county, in a letter to a Los Angeles friend, states the company has a most promising mine with three ore shoots well exposed, all of which are in excess of 100 feet in length, with more than 200 feet of backs above the tunnel level.

All of these ore measures, he says, are going down strong, and the company has in contemplation a sinking program which should double or treble the known ore reserves of the mine. The ore is virtually a free-milling product, although in milling practice a valuable concentrate is recovered.

A thirty-day trial run of the new mill, Mr. Bettles states, resulted in a return of approximately $10,000 in gold bullion. As the mill feed during this experimental run was drawn from various ore exposures, the mine was given the best possible sampling, at the same time further developing the ore areas in a most satisfactory and complete manner.

United Eastern Not Owner of Yellow Jacket

In correcting an erroneous impression to the effect that the financial backing for the recent purchase of the Yellow Jacket group of mines came from United Eastern investors, Charles E. Tresona of this city made known that the Alleghany El Dorado Gold Mining Company is owned by more than 125 prominent attorneys, most of whom reside in Southern California.

The Yellow Jacket group of properties was recently purchased from the Gillespie Estate of Pittsburgh, Pa., by the Alleghany organization. The holdings lie near Alleghany in this State, and Frank C. Jordan, Secretary of State, is managing director of the company. The Yellow Jacket is regarded by many as one of the best gold properties in Sierra county.

MINE REORGANIZED

Tornado at Winkleman Will be Worked Systematically

WINKLEMAN (Ariz.) Dec. 18. (Exclusive)—A hoist and compressor have been installed on the Tornado property, which came into the public eye last winter with discovery of rich surface drift.

The company has been reorganized, with E. T. Hazelett of Phoenix as president and with Dan H. McCrew in charge. "Gophering" has been abandoned and the vein will be explored in workman-like style.

WILDCAT WELL ABANDONED

BAKERSFIELD, Dec. 18. (Exclusive) After striking what is believed to be a Mariposa slate formation at 8460 feet, the Superior Oil Company is reported to have abandoned its wildcat well on the Smith lease in Sec. 11, 26-27, about ten miles east of McFarland.

Oil showings were encountered while the well was being drilled, but the test is said to have been complete.

G. Bruce Frame of Los Angeles is drilling a wildcat well on Sec. 7, 26-28, three miles east of the abandoned Superior well, but has a fishing job in progress now. Much of the extensive leasing for oil development that was done in the East McFarland area followed the spudding in of the Superior and Frame tests. With other large oil companies and independent operators, the Standard Oil Company was a leader in the McFarland leasing program.

Another well reported to be slated for abandonment is the Kinsella wildcat of the Federal Exploration Company east of Pixley, a short distance north of the Kern county boundary. This well was drilled to 5761 feet, and a string of six and one-quarter-inch casing was set at 5300 feet to make tests for production, according to field reports.

If the oil production tests do not prove satisfactory, the Federal company, in which E. C. Johnson of Tulare holds a major interest, plans to interest a gas company in the development of what is believed to be a potential gas field near Pixley. Some oil showings and strong gas pressure were encountered during drilling in the Kinsella well.

EDISON WILDCAT HOLDS PROMISE

General Petroleum Project at Critical Stage

Production Test Slated for Early Part of Week

Success of Well to Prove Up Entirely New Field

EDISON, Dec. 18. (Exclusive)—Indications in the Kerwin No. 1 wildcat well of the General Petroleum Corporation make it appear probable that a new oil field may shortly be opened up here.

The company is making preparations to run six and one-quarter inch casing into the hole and make a production test early in the week. Bottom of the hole is 4008 feet. The well was cemented off at 3780 feet. It has something like seventy-five feet of shale and oil sand, and before the drill stopped there was enough gas pressure to threw drilling mud over the crown block.

If the General Petroleum Corporation succeeds in making a commercial producer of this well it will have opened up an entirely new oil field out on the floor of the San Joaquin Valley. The nearest oil production at present is the Kern River field, about five miles to the northwest.

The Kerwin No. 1 is situated close to the State highway, between Bakersfield and the Tehachapi Mountains, and not far from the substation of the Southern California Edison Company. General Petroleum has several hundred acres of leases in the vicinity of its well, and many other oil companies hold large blocks of protection acreage. It is reported that there is but little land in that vicinity which has not been leased.

PROPERTIES OF BIG JIM DEVELOPING

Production Expected to Start Soon at Recently Acquired Holdings

That the two adjacent properties recently taken over by the Big Jim mine of Patagonia, Ariz., will begin production within a short time was learned yesterday from officials of the company. Increases in the working forces will be made, with the possibility of more than doubling the output from the mine.

A crew working on the lowest level of the main shaft at the Big Jim, which is at 350 feet, has encountered favorable showings. It is believed that these showings are an indication of new ore bodies just north of the present workings. Supt. Pickering states that when this ore is encountered on the 350-foot level it should be even wider than either of the upper levels.

Drifts and stopes are being prepared on the adjoining properties taken over by Big Jim. These properties are old mines, the surfaces of which have been developed and proven. It is estimated that 60,000 tons of $15 ore are available for immediate extraction, in addition to which samples from the lower levels are showing ore in places averaging better than $30. Shipments of this ore to the Big Jim mill will start at once. The activity at Big Jim has lately gained impetus because all metal mines seem to be in for a period of prosperity.

Hole on Rim of Ventura Field May be Deepest

The Dabney & Lloyd No. 1 well of the Associated Oil Company, over on the far east side of the Ventura-avenue field, upwards of half a mile beyond production, is drilling ahead below 6975 feet with a determination to reach the 7000-foot level before stopping to set the oil string and make a production test.

If completed at this depth the well will be one of the deepest, if not the deepest producer in the Ventura-avenue field. Two other holes in the field have gone beyond 7000 feet, but have failed to get production. The Dabney & Lloyd No. 1 is reported to have sufficient oil formation to make it at least a reasonably good producer.

MILL TO BE ENLARGED

Hollywood Gold Planning for Increased Output

George S. Surprenant, president and general manager of the Hollywood Gold Mines Company, operating in the Banner Mining District in San Diego county, has been in Los Angeles for a week examining milling machinery with which to increase the present fifty-ton mill to 200-ton daily capacity.

According to Mr. Surprenant, this increase has been made necessary by the large tonnage obtained in deep development.

ADDITION TO OIL FIELD FORECAST

Poso Creek Extension Seen in Union Project

Well Said to Have Forty-three Feet of Sand

Production Test at Present Depth Shortly

Extension of the Poso Creek field in Kern county is regarded as having been definitely proved by developments last week in the Union Oil Company's Tribe No. 1 well. The well is located two and one-half miles south of the present established Poso Creek field, and at a depth of 1782 feet forty-three feet of good oil sand have been penetrated.

The Tribe No. 1 is now standing cemented with ten-inch casing at 1727 feet. The oil sand was first struck at 1738 feet and the drill carried to 1781 feet without running out of the showings. A production test will be made at the present depth. If it proves to be commercial production, the Union will shut in the well.

The well nearest to the Tribe project is the General Petroleum Corporation's Glide No. 1, which made a production test of approximately 500 barrels daily and was immediately shut in. The Glide No. 1 is located less than a mile north of Tribe No. 1.

The Union has an entire section on which the Tribe is located. The structure is the same as that of the established Poso Creek field. The well is significant in that it extends the boundaries of this district two miles and establishes conclusively that, should the California production situation reach a point where the oil is needed, the Poso Creek field, which at present is almost entirely shut in, can be counted on for considerable production.

Last-Minute News From Petroleum Fields and Marts of Trade

RARE MINERALS, METALLURGY, CHEMISTRY

Qualitative analysis will be given in this department of The Times to correspondents on ores and minerals free of charge. Make each sample of an ounce or so in weight. Be sure to write a letter stating what tests are desired and give the approximate locality from which samples were taken. Do not pulverize the specimens. Give your name and address on paper wrapped with samples.

Volcanic Ash

LAWNDALE, Dec. 2. — Question: This sample was obtained near Virginia City, Nev. Please analyze it for meerschaum or anything of commercial value. H.

Answer: The specimen is not meerschaum. It is a very high-grade volcanic ash, somewhat resembling talc. The sample was whittled into the shape of a crayon pencil when received. It would require much work to make an exact determination of the sample, and mineral represented by the specimen would make a mighty fine polishing powder for silver, nickel, etc.

Dewelyite

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 2.—Q.: Please classify the inclosed sample herewith sent and oblige. Y.

A.: Dewelyite is an amorphous mineral bearing a slight resemblance to gum arabic. It is of greasy luster, brittle, near serpentine and in composition is one of the magnesium silicates. It carries 20 per cent water, fuses with difficulty, and with borax forms a transparent colorless glass. It is of whitish color and from near the surface of the ground. It is not often that dewelyite is found in mineral cabinets; it is salable for specimens, and of value to those seeking magnesium silicates in the industries.

Uranium Absent

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 3.—Q.: Under separate cover am sending to you three pieces of rock from the southern part of Inyo county, California. Could there be any chance for vanadium or pitchblende in ores represented by the samples? B.

A.: The samples are not radioactive and do not react for vanadium nor uranium. All of them carry iron oxides, including magnetite. The two greenish samples are altered epidote. The remaining one is altered magnetite and zinc is present in greater or lesser percentages in the specimens.

Ferruginous Quartz

TULARE, Dec. 3.—Q.: Please give me qualitative analyses on the four samples sent to your "In the Earth" department in separate package. Kindly test 1, 2 and 3 for platinum. I see flat, bright particles dragging behind the iron in specimen No. 1 with the cold. Please test No. 4 for silver. All of the samples come from the same ledge near Tehachapi. L.

A.: Samples 1 and 2 pan a little flour gold. Nos. 3 and 4 carry gold traces with traces of microscopal molybdenite. Flake platinum is not present in any specimen. The native gold found in the specimens calls for careful and not too close panning. For other gold and silver values you are politely referred to assayers.

Not Hornblende

WELLTON (Ariz.) Dec. 4.—Q.: I am sending you a sample of hornblende. We have a two-inch vein or better, and we would like to know if the quality of the sample is of any worth commercially. Would such a stringer be worth further prospecting or mining. M.

A.: The samples are brown calcite (crystallized lime carbonate,) and the stringer of mineral is a very doubtful one to mine at a profit.

Limonite

WISCONSIN RAPIDS (Wis.) Dec. 6.—Q.: I am sending under separate cover one ore specimen. Kindly advise, through your "In the Earth" department, what minerals are contained in the sample, and if it represents any commercial value. Thanking The Times for past favors, K.

A.: The sample is a good iron ore. It is yellowish-brown hydrous iron peroxide in part botryoidal limonite. Such mineral should also be of value in the paint industries.

"Mineral Paint"

POTTER VALLEY, Dec. 5.—Q.: I have sent you under separate cover some mineral matter and ask you the following questions: What is it? Is there a market for it? What would it probably be worth if marketable, laid down in Los Angeles or Oakland? I will appreciate your answer. F.

A.: Your first question is answered in the subheading. The specimen is medium-grade hematite (iron peroxide.) It is impure with more or less silica, aluminum silicate, and a little manganese. The market for "mineral paint" calls for high grades of mixed iron and manganese minerals, and for high-grade hematite and limonite. The supply of low grades far exceeds the demand, and it is questionable if mineral such as is the sample would be worth the freight charges to the shipping points named by you. Most of the paint manufacturers own properties from which their supplies are obtained.

Iron and Copper

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 5.—Q.: The inclosed sample was found in the Tehachapi Mountains in gravel. Some prospectors tell me it is tungsten. Are they right? Since there are quite a few of these specimens among the gravel in the locality where this was found, do you think it worth while for further exploration? Will appreciate all informatiou you are able to give through your "In the Earth" column of The Times. Yours with many a thought. X.

A.: We wrote you about the first sample having "flown the coop" and was lost and thank you for a duplicate specimen. The last received semimetallic substance was easily broken in a four-gallon mortar with one blow of the pestle. It reacts in high percentage for iron and a little copper. It is lifted easily with the magnet and carries no nickel. It seems to be on the order of matte obtained from a prospector's forge or assaying furnace.

Native Gold Absent

AUBURN, Dec. 6.—Q.: Am sending you a lot of samples for classification and qualitative analyses. Locality not far from Auburn, Cal. W. L. D.

A.: Correspondents are respectfully notified that there is no necessity to send large lots of ores and minerals for analyses. At the same time when specimens weigh but a gram or so satisfactory work cannot be obtained. An ounce or two is sufficient.

Your lot of samples consist of shales and slates containing graphite in low percentage, with pyrite traces; traces of manganese; iron oxides and iron sulphate. The pyrite content in similar rock might give gold returns by fire assays.

Seventeen Specimens

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 7.—Q.: All of the samples are from San Bernardino county. Analyze Nos. 1, 2, 3 and 4 for gold and silver; Nos. 5 and 6 for copper, gold and silver; Nos. 7 to 12, inclusive, for lead, silver, gold and zinc; No. 13 for lead, zinc and gold; No. 14 is what? Nos. 15, 16 and 17 for lead, zinc and gold, and, particularly, what is the large greenish strata attached to No. 17.? M.

A.: It is not possible to give full results as by you requested, and for gold-silver values you will please consult assayers. Sample No. 1, carries traces of microscopical pyrite; iron oxides and zinc-lead traces; No. 2 is yellowish, altered pegmatite, traces of pyrite and yellow mica, each, sparingly found. No 3 is spongiform, ferruginous quartz; pyrite in low percentage and one microscopic color of gold found. No. 4 ferruginous quartz and mica schist; traces of pyrite, and trace of native gold. No. 5, quartzitic rock, pyrite, chalcopyrite, arsenopyrite, copper silicate, malachite and traces of flour gold. No. 6 more or less copper found with lead-zinc traces. There is no No. 7 in the lot. No. 8 is fine-grained mica schist; zinc and lead traces. No. 9 is ferruginous quartz, and No. 10 is also ferruginous quartz. No. 11 is low-grade hematite. No. 12 gave quartz, limonite and manganese reactions. No. 13 comprises fourteen thumb specimens of rock carrying pyrite traces. No. 14 is quartzitic rock spotted with iron-manganese oxides; pyrite traces. Nos. 15 and 16 were wrapped together and are low-grade calcites, copper, zinc and lead in traces only. No. 17 is altered rock carrying copper traces: iron-manganese oxides and impure, greenish ferromagnesium silicate.

Late News of the Oil Wells and Their Products; What Basin Fields Are Doing

NEW OIL QUEST ON IN ARIZONA

Phoenix Group Will Explore Area Near Chandler

Derrick Built and Drilling Machinery on Way

Striking Water Well Spurs Company to Action

CHANDLER (Ariz.) Dec. 17. (Exclusive)—A test for oil is to be made at once five miles south of Chandler by the Nu-vo Oil and Land Company, which has leases on 15,000 acres around the site. The company is a closed corporation, organized in Phoenix. The derrick is up and ready for installation.

A. G. Head of the enterprise is in charge, with J. J. Rayburn in charge at the well. Mr. Rayburn is responsible for the new exploration following his discovery of oil and gas in a near-by water well sunk recently for the Southern Pacific railroad. He believes that an oil field several miles wide exists from below Chandler to Tempe, Ariz., to the northwest and possibly to Mesa. West of Tempe and south of Chandler is a red standstone formation in which several oil wells have been projected, but never sunk, despite favorable geological conditions.

Just what is to be done with the present well, seventeen miles north of Chandler, appears to be a problem for experts, who are confronted with the existence of a flood of artesian water that has temporarily been stopped by cement.

The paraffin base oil came with the water, and in fair quantity, is said to be declared. The main question is whether it would not be better and cheaper to drill a new well, guided by the knowledge of the oil found in the first well. Oil sand is over twenty-two feet thick, lying under conglomerate.

Gain in Bisbee Mine Value Set at High Figure

BISBEE (Ariz.) Dec. 18. (Exclusive) The Junior Curry in Calumet and Arizona mine, sending it to unprecedented heights, locally is considered good appreciation to a fuller extent than recent discoveries in two sections of the property. Whatever the Calumet and Arizona has had in production gain of $15,000,000 in less than three months.

The Curry presents new hope in sight with the possibilities of copper value, something that especially concerns the Junior New Cornelia subsidiary. Incidentally, New Cornelia has gone up from $30, to about $39. No rise is yet noted in another subsidiary—the Detroit-Arizona at Jerome, wherefrom have come reports of extensive extensions in promising ground, with fine chalcopyrite in greenstone and quartzite.

MANY TESTS IN GAS FIELD

MALJAMAR (N. M.) Dec. 18. (Exclusive)—Although the only oil-producing area so far discovered up on the altitudinous plains, known as the "cap-rock" which embrace parts of Eastern New Mexico and Northwestern Texas is at Maljamar, test wells are being drilled in many other parts of that region. The Maljamar Oil and Gas Corporation put down its test well here as a result of the discovery of a 10,000,000-foot gas well which is now and has been for more than a year, producing 150 barrels of oil per day. Today more than 2,000,000 acres are under lease in Lea county alone and recently three big gassers have been brought in in widely separated areas of Lea county.

The Texas Production Company has been one of the most prominent operators in Lea county, both in the Maljamar area and in other sections of the county. The Texas Production Company has a 35,000,000-cubic-foot gas well in the extreme southeastern corner of Lea county and another north of the Maljamar field which is making 12,000,000 cubic feet and spraying considerable oil.

As a result of the big gas discoveries in Lea county plans are being formulated to pipe gas from the Maljamar area to all sections of the Pecos Valley and to convey it from the Texas well in southeastern Lea county to El Paso and other points in the upper Rio Grande Valley. A franchise has already been granted to carry gas from the Artesia field into Artesia. Others interested are considering a plan which would mean the construction of a super power plant near the gas wells in Lea county and send electricity over high lines to El Paso and other points.

UNIQUE OIL FIELD GETS ATTENTION

New Producer Possible in Shallow District of Lone Star State

CUEVITAS (Tex.) Dec. 18. (Exclusive)—Impetus has been given to the drilling of wells in the shallow oil field upon the Charco Redondo land grant in Zapata county, near here, by the recent bringing in of five additional producers, each of an average daily capacity of twenty-five barrels.

The fact that the wells range in depth from 160 to 180 feet and that a hole a day may be drilled at nominal cost gives the operations in the field an uniqueness that has aroused much interest on the part of oil men. The Charco Redondo shallow field is fifteen years old and now has 110 producing wells. The older wells have an average daily production of about seven barrels. The pumping is done by one pump plant. The entire producing pool is owned by the Evangeline Oil Company.

The Humble Oil and Refining Company has constructed a 55,000-barrel tank in the field and is making a survey for an extension of its pipe line from the Alworth pool to the shallow wells. This company owns extensive leases in Starr county, four to six miles from the Charco Redondo pool, upon which it will drill test wells.

HOSTESS GOWN IN VOGUE

One of the newest fashions for the hostess, entertaining informally at home, is the hostess gown.

No woman's wardrobe is complete without it. It should "go with" or at least not conflict with your woodwork, your draperies, and whatever else contributes toward giving that room personality. If your hangings are of cerise, don't get your hostess dress of blue. If the walls are done in gold, do not preferably have your dress for receiving your guests in gray. Except for a few restrictions such as these, you can let yourself go and "be yourself" with a vengeance in your hostess gown.—[Mary B. Williams in Liberty.

BIG FIVE ON KERN RIVER TAKEN OVER

Group Headed by Local Operator New Owners of Silver-Lead Property

J. F. Erisman, veteran Los Angeles mining operator, with Buffalo, N. Y., associates, have taken over the Big Five silver-lead mine of 280 acres near Isabella in Kern county for the handling of which, with 100 acres of gold-bearing ground adjoining the old DeLamar mine in Lincoln county, Nevada, a close mining company will soon be incorporated, with headquarters in this city.

According to Mr. Erisman, a small force is employed at the Big Five in sacking high-grade silver-lead ore, and a carload shipment may soon be made, the sorted ore showing native silver in leaf and wire form.

The ore bodies of the Big Five occur as true fissures in a monzonite-granitic formation. Since September about 400 feet of old tunnel workings have been cleaned out and placed in shape for production, showing ore exposures of shipping and milling grade varying from three to five feet in width. To facilitate development and operation an engine, air compressor and machine drills have been added to the equipment of the property.

The Big Five mine is located near the south fork of Kern River, and only four or five miles from the Big Blue mine at Kernville, recently acquired by Charles V. Bob and Thomas F. Cole of New York.

SUIT TO CONFIRM OIL LEASES FILED

BAKERSFIELD, Dec. 18. (Exclusive)—In a friendly suit the General Petroleum Corporation will ask official confirmation of leases on oil lands from the Charles Sumner Young estate, valued at more than $1,000,000. The suits are simply to confirm the validity of the leases and will give the oil company legal assurance in its rights, according to attorneys representing the heirs in the estate.

MYSTERY STIRS MINING CAMPS

Tonopah, Mina District Agog Over Gold Story

Discoverers Silent Regarding Location of Bonanza

Rich Strikes Revive Interest in Two Divide Mines

TONOPAH (Nev.) Dec. 18. (Exclusive)—Considerable excitement prevails at Hawthorne, Mina, Tonopah and other camps over a mysterious gold discovery in the isolated mountain country ten miles east of Aurora. The find is said to have been made in the Wasuka mountains, but two prospectors displaying specimens of bonanza ore have refused to reveal its location, or furnish any details.

Several offers for their holdings have been rejected, and the owners have eluded numerous attempts of "desert rats" to trail them. It is generally believed by local mining men that the prospectors have found a famous "lost mine," which produced rich ore about thirty years ago before the owners are said to have been slain by Indians.

New interest has developed at Divide as a result of rich strikes by leasers on the Brougher and Tonopah Divide properties. The main leases on the Brougher, controled by W. E. Edwards and Los Angeles associates, have uncovered ore in the hanging-wall territory at a depth of 100 feet, with a twenty-inch shoot said to carry excellent shipping values. On the 500-foot level of the Tonopah Divide the Moran lease reports that high-grade ore is showing, with a substantial tonnage indicated.

Plans for resumption of work on the Florence mine at Goldfield have been practically completed by George J. Lockhart and W. H. O'Meara. Prospecting of new areas is to be vigorously conducted, and shipments made from old workings to the Mason Valley smelter. It is reported that core-drills may be used to test the holdings at depth.

The Goldfield Consolidated Mines Company has optioned the Armstrong-Williams quicksilver property, between Battle Mountain and Midas, for $35,000, according to reports received in Tonopah, with operations to start about January 1. The property has been developed sufficiently to indicate a large cinnabar deposit of fair grade. The bond runs for two years.

MAKING USE OF IT

An aspiring dramatist called upon the producer to whom he had sent his first work. Greeted with a curt nod and a few brief words, he addressed the theatrical "big noise."

"You've had my play for more than three weeks now," he said, "and the last time I called you said you hoped to find a suitable use for it."

The producer frowned. He was a very busy man.

"So I did," he began suavely. "And I'll use it as promised. We're starting a new play next week, and I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll tear up your play and we'll use it in the big snow scene."—[London Answers.

OIL GEOLOGY TALK GIVEN BY JOHNSON

Local Geologist Tells Relation of Occurrence to Earth's Structure

"The Relation of Oil Occurrence to Geologic Structure" is the title of an illustrated lecture delivered by Harry R. Johnson, Los Angeles geologist, at the Southwest Museum, Highland Park, yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Johnson was a member of the United States Geological Survey up to 1910, and the last three years of his service in this connection were given over to a detailed investigation of the present and future oil resources of California, particularly in the San Joaquin Valley and the Santa Maria and Ventura districts.

Photographs accumulated in connection with this work were used by Mr. Johnson as a basis for his lecture. The photographs showed clearly the relations between the origin of oil in the earth's crust and its accumulation under different structural conditions within the reach of the drill, as well as how certain fields were developed in favorable locations.

The effect of faulting in the earth's crust is an important factor in the accumulation of oil, and a group of Mr. Johnson's slides illustrated this action, among them being notable illustrations of the effect of the San Francisco earthquake upon buildings as well as showing the earth movement which took place along the San Andreas fault, upon which the earthquake of 1906 occurred.

HOW HE DID IT

NEW POTRERO HOLE STAKED

Action of Associated Viewed as Determination to Carry on Regardless of Cypress Outcome

Probably the most interesting development in the Potrero district last week was the staking of a location by the Associated Oil Company for another well, indicating that the follow-up campaign which usually occurs after the discovery of a productive oil zone, in this case will be conducted by the discovering company. Stakes have been set for a location about 600 feet southwest of Cypress No. 1, although it is understood that the location has yet to be approved by Associated operating heads.

The staking of the location is significant in that it indicates the intention of Associated to follow through in its development of this district, regardless of what may become of its Cypress No. 1. This well is still standing cemented and it is presumed that the company will not begin work on the new hole until another test is made in the discovery hole.

The Cypress No. 1 has gone through several hundred feet of oil formation of varying richness, but has picked up a few doubtful sands which, combined with the unsatisfactory state of the original water shut-off, make it possible that a good clean producing well may not be achieved in this instance.

The only other activity in the field is the Carpenter & Smith project, which originally was the old Julian Petroleum Corporation's Cypress No. 1. Carpenter & Smith have built a new derrick over the old hole, which was drilled to about 5300 feet, and abandoned, being plugged to the shoe of the fifteen-inch casing at about 1000 feet. The new owners are cleaning out the hole and have proceeded almost to the top of the plug. They expect to clean the hole out, to bottom, and then drill a few hundred feet further to see if they cannot pick up the Associate's Cypress sand.

M'FARLAND FARMS LEASED

McFARLAND, Dec. 18. (Exclusive) A group of ranches planted with cotton, grapes, fruits and dairy crops are included in an extensive tract lying on both sides of the Golden State highway one-half mile north of McFarland which has been leased for oil development purposes by the Elk Oil Products Company of Oklahoma, according to word received from there. Owners of the acreage will be paid $5 an acre per year for drilling rights, according to the terms of the lease agreements.

The land leased is situated in Secs. 1, 2 and 3, 26-25; Secs. 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 34, 35 and 36, 25-25, extending for four miles north and south, and three miles east and west. Farms owned by H. L. Heard, George Hoestettler and Roy Flower are included in the big tract. C. B. Wrightman negotiated the leases as agent for the Oklahoma company.

These transactions represent the first general leasing for oil purposes done in the floor of the valley near McFarland, the recent leasing activity in this district having centered east of here and toward the hills.

ORDER FOR TEST MILL ANNOUNCED

Minerals and Metals to Have Experimental Plant for Refractory Ores

TUCSON (Ariz.) Dec. 18. (Exclusive)—An experimental flotation mill has been ordered by the Minerals and Metals Corporation of Los Angeles to be placed on the former's Sahuarita property, south of Tucson. The ores are complex, carrying copper, lead and zinc.

The Hendy company is to erect a 100-ton mill on property near Tucson operated by the Helmet Peak Mining and Milling Company of this city. Pending completion of the plant much development work is to be pushed.

A mill is reported to have been purchased for the Mildred Peak tungsten mine in the Baboquivari district.

New machinery is being placed on the Selma group in Pinal county by the Pacific Lead-Silver Mines Company of Los Angeles, of which C. V. Plumb is superintendent. A 300-foot winze is to be sunk from a 200-foot tunnel.

Price 94.25 and Interest, Yielding 4.90%

The Company will agree to pay interest without deduction for any Federal Income Tax up to 2%

The following information is taken from official sources:

Associated Electric Company was incorporated in 1926 to provide for the senior financial requirements of a group of public utility properties formerly owned or controlled by Associated Gas and Electric Company. It is controlled by Associated Gas and Electric Company, one of the larger public utility enterprises in the United States.

It was apparent that if the usual restrictions and investment qualities found in senior obligations of operating public utility properties could be augmented by the stability inherent in the diversification in types of territory and business found in groups of large important utility properties, an investment security of unusual quality would result. Associated Electric Company was organized to create such a security. The junior financing for the group is accomplished through the medium of Associated Gas and Electric Company.

The Associated Electric Company group serves 725 communities with a population of 1,750,000 located in New York, Pennsylvania, Vermont, Connecticut, Kentucky, Tennessee, Indiana and the Philippine Islands. The wide diversity as to type of industry and character of population served, as well as to geographical location, is of great benefit in assuring stability and continuity in demands for service, while the many industrial centers served offer important possibilities for the development of additional large power business.

Capitalization of Associated Electric Company, including all stocks and bonds of subsidiary companies to be held by the public—

Minority common stocks are stated at book value, including any surplus applicable thereto, and other stocks at par or liquidation value if without par value.

†Segregation of this figure is not now possible but Company will retire 5½% Bonds due 1946 and/or bonds and/or preferred and/or preference stocks of subsidiaries aggregating $23,000,000.

Additional securities of subsidiaries shall not be sold to the public if the total amount of such securities held by the public be thereby increased to an amount exceeding 50% of the bonds then outstanding under this indenture.

Consolidated earnings of the companies included in the Associated Electric Company group for the twelve months ended October 31, 1927, and annual bond interest and preferred dividend charges on securities of the group to be held by the public upon completion of this financing are as follows:

Gross Earnings and Other Income, including $250,545 Credit for Interest during Construction	$22.066,760
Operating Expenses, Maintenance and Taxes (except Federal Income Taxes)	10,687,347
Net Earnings before Provision for Replacements, etc.	$11,379,413

Net earnings as above but after providing for both maintenance and replacements at the rates now required under the Indenture were $10,089,081, or 2.21 times the above annual charges.

The Company will acquire or retire an aggregate of $23,000,000 of its 5½% Bonds due 1946 and/or bonds and/or preferred and/or preference stocks of subsidiaries (all of which carry a higher face rate than the present offerings of 4½% Gold Bonds) so that upon completion of this financing a net decrease of $3,000,000 in the consolidated capitalization of the Associated Electric Company group and a substantial decrease in the average combined interest and dividend rates thereon will have been effected.

We recommend these Bonds for investment and shall be pleased to send circulars describing the issue in detail.

GANGSTERS ADD ONE TO DEATH LIST

Gunmen in Chicago Drop Bullet-riddled Victim at Gates of Cemetery

CHICAGO, Dec. 18. (Exclusive)—Gangsters of Chicago, in their usual early Sunday-morning killing, are developing a fine technique and regard for the conventions. Peter Ruffalo, owner of a cigar store in Chicago Heights, was "taken for a ride" early this morning, riddled with bullets and his body thrown out at the gates of Oak Lawn Cemetery. This indicates more consideration for the victim and his relatives than to dump the body out on the lonely prairie.

Although Ruffalo ostensibly was a retailer of cigars, it is thought by the police that he dabbled in bootlegging and operated a handbook. Chief Devereaux of the county highway police, after an investigation, says he believes that the slaying of Ruffalo marks the reopening of the gang war in Chicago Heights for supremacy in the bootlegging industry, which already has cost many lives.

Ruffalo, who leaves a widow and two small children, had been shot eight times, twice through the heart and six times in the head.

Solid Florida Delegation to Back Hoover

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18. (Exclusive)—William H. Marshall of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Republican candidate for Congress from the Fourth Florida Congressional District, the largest Congressional district in the United States, consisting of eighteen counties, is in Washington conferring with Federal officers in connection with greater protection for the farmers of Florida.

He declared after several of his Washington conferences, that he believes Florida will send a solid delegation for Herbert Hoover to the Kansas City convention next June, and that Hoover will be the choice of the party.

Opium Imports Shock Legation

PEKING (China) Dec. 18. (Exclusive)—Legation circles here are shocked over the barren effrontery of the open importation into the native city of Shanghai of a shipment of twenty-six tons of Turkish opium—opium consigned to a Nanking government branch organization labeled "The Antiopium Medicine Monopoly Bureau."

This enormous opium importation came after the public importation of 7000 ounces of morphine and heroin for the same organization—an importation sanctioned by the Nanking Department of Interior.

These importations follow upon the heels of the formal establishment of a government-licensed opium monopoly for the Province of Kiangsu, which is to pay $13,000,000 within the next twelve months to the Nanking regime.

Insurance Mark Set by Veterans

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18. (Exclusive)—The United States Veterans' Bureau drive for the reinstatement and conversion of government insurance which ended July 2, last, set a new high record of results in life insurance history, according to Brig.-Gen. Frank T. Hines, director of the bureau.

The bureau's records, according to Gen. Hines, disclose that there are now 700,000 policies in force representing insurance aggregating $3,300,000,000, a net increase of the amount of insurance in force since January, 1927, of approximately $1,500,000,000.

Woman Killed as Car Upsets

YOSEMITE, Dec. 18. (AP)—Mrs. Olive Heisler, 30 years of age, of Kerman, Fresno county, was killed, and her cousin, Arthur Palmquist, and his wife of Kerman, were injured when the automobile in which they were riding overturned today near the park line.

Palmquist told authorities he applied his brakes to avoid colliding with another automobile and that his car skidded and overturned.

Mrs. Palmquist is confined to a hospital tonight. She suffered injuries to an arm and hip. Her husband is slightly scratched.

Mrs. Heisler leaves her husband and four children in Kerman.

RADIO ACTIVITIES

From Broadcasting Stations to Receiving Sets

OLD FIDDLERS WILL BE ON AIR

Champions from the South to Broadcast Contest

Unusually Fine Programs Mark Year's End

William MacDougall, Scotch Baritone, Feature at KHJ

BY DR. RALPH L. POWER

Broadcast is making a determined effort to end the old year with a splurge of extraordinary good programs, if one can judge from advance announcements of the week.

For instance, DX hounds ought to try tonight and Tuesday and Wednesday also, between the 11 p.m. hour and midnight, Pacific time, for KOIL, Council Cluffs, Iowa.

The national old-time fiddler's contest is under way in the municipal auditorium with some 230 fiddlers entered in the affray. Stokes, present champion, will be there from Georgia. So will MacMichen, southern champion, of Georgia also; Layne, Arkansas, the Ozark champion, and sundry others.

Uncle Josh and his radio barnyard ensemble, famous in radio circles, will help with the entertainment features.

PHILHARMONIC ORCHESTRA

Here in Los Angeles the second radio concert of the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra, will be on KFI commencing at 8:15 while up in Oakland, at KGO, there will be a foretaste of the good things in store for the children at Christmas time.

This will be the Pilgrims' musical visit to Toyland on the 9 o'clock broadcast while at KMIC the city of Inglewood, through its Chamber of Commerce, will offer its usual concert hour.

The Monday KHJ high lights will include Elvia Allman's surprise hour beginning at 1:30 this afternoon and the educational hour at 4 o'clock which will feature an aviation talk by C. W. H. Smith, followed by M. B. Benesh of the Sheriff's office.

BARITONE ON KHJ

In fact there are a dozen features on the KHJ studio presentations between now and Christmas.

Tomorrow evening between 8 and 9 William MacDougall, Scotch baritone of some five years' experience, will commence a series of KHJ hours.

Then on Wednesday night the Cadillac-LaSalle concert eight, together with the studio male quartet, will have a rousing good hour of broadcast at 7 o'clock.

Then will come the Thursday night 6:30 visit of Mr. S. Claus, better known perhaps as old Santa Claus himself. On the same evening at 8 the California Bear Balalaika Orchestra will make its KHJ bow, featuring odd Russian stringed instruments and the music of the Cossacks.

SPECIAL HOUR PROGRAM

Friday's outstanding event in the Don Lee studio is labeled a "special hour" featuring the Gamut Quartet, while one of the happenings on the busy Saturday radio program will be the special Christmas music on the 10 to 11 p.m. hour.

Then will come the finale of the Yuletide broadcast when on Sunday the 5 to 6 p.m. time will include the pleasing twilight chimes; then the Orioles between 6 and 7 with a spirit of Christmas hour interspersed with holiday songs and readings; the 7 to 8 hour in the form of a Christmas tree of music; and finally the 9 to 10 broadcast titled, "A Nite in Granada," presenting the Angeleno Male Quartet.

Yes, the forthcoming week looks as though it might perhaps strike the year's high spot in radio entertainment and thus help to bring 1927 to a glorious end.

RADIO SUPERVISOR HERE ON INSPECTION

Bernard A. Linden, who recently received appointment as Federal radio supervisor for the sixth district, and who was formerly acting supervisor, has been in Los Angeles over the week-end inspecting stations here and in the beach cities.

LLOYD GEORGE IRKED BY NIGHTLY CHIMES

FARNHAM (Eng.) Dec. 18. (AP)—Lloyd George, like Carlyle, loathes the tick of a clock in the still hours of the night. The Liberal party leader wants absolute quiet when he goes to bed.

Lloyd George's big grandfather clock and a lot of little striking clocks presented by admirers run all week, but are given a rest on Sunday whenever he comes to Churt, his country home near here, for the week-end.

During the war, as Prime Minister, Lloyd George did not mind "the midnight agony of waiting for laggard clocks to strike the witching hour" described by Carlyle. In those anxious days he had many schemes in the back of his head and not enough spare time to think them out during working hours. So he plotted and schemed and planned long after he had gone to bed.

Striking clocks which did not sleep had something of a note of companionship about them for Lloyd George then—but they haven't now!

RATTLE GET BOWS OF BERLIN ACTORS

BERLIN, Dec. 18. (AP)—The tired business man here is a distraction richer and rid of an exertion into the bargain. A wooden rattle, given him at the box office by an ingenious management, absolves him of handclapping at the Haller Revue. He may also dispense with keeping time with his feet. It is much more intriguing to rattle to the tune.

Everybody's doing it—from orchestra to the gallery gods in the Admiralspalast. The clacking accompanies the music to the extent of almost drowning it. The stars and the chorus bow in appreciation to the rattle applause.

LOGGERS LOSE JOBS IN NORTERN CAMPS

NEW WESTMINSTER (B. C.) Dec. 18 (Exclusive)—More than 1000 loggers in the Fraser Valley District have been thrown out of employment owing to lumber camps being forced to close down because of the deep snow now blanketing the forests. Seven hundred men who were thrown out of employment when the water jacket burst in the Canadian Western Lumber Company's mill near here may not be able to resume until after Christmas. Repairs were affected by night and day shifts for three weeks but mills now contemplate a general shut-down owing to adverse weather conditions.

NEW FAST RADIO SERVICE IN USE

Marconi Beam Wirel... Now in Operation

Success of London-New Yor... Line Proved

Three Hundred Words P... Minute Sent

[Copyright, 1927, by New York Times Co.]

LONDON, Dec. 18. (Exclusive.)—The Marconi beam wireless service, with a transmission capacity of ... than 300 words a minute, has been in operation between London and New York and between London and Rio de Janeiro and Buenos Aires for several days.

While the company has postponed making an official announcement of the service until satisfied that it is operating perfectly, it was learned tonight that a large proportion of the regular traffic over the new long-wave service is being diverted daily over the beam system.

The service, which is operated in conjunction with the Radio Corporation of America, is routed via Bodmin to Rocky Point, L. I., where the transmitting station signals, and from London over a connecting land line, operate the wireless transmitter from which the signals are dispatched. Similarly, signals received on the beam-receiving station at Somerton are conveyed by land line to Radio House in London.

The beam service with Rio de Janeiro is working in both directions, but the beam serials are not yet constructed at Buenos Aires, so, while messages are being sent from London, there is no return service.

Provisions have been made to make engineering adjustments will permit variance of the width of the wireless beams, enabling Rio de Janeiro to communicate with London, Paris and Berlin. A new beam station now is being erected near Paris for sending messages from the United States, and one is expected to be started soon near Berlin.

Council Told of New Action on Valley Airport

The Van Nuys Chamber of Commerce has notified the Council it has rescinded its previous action in indorsing a site for a municipal airport in the San Fernando Valley. The chamber declared it considers both valley sites desirable.

The Finance Committee of the Council now has before it reports on eight sites, two in the San Fernando Valley, one near El Monte, and the others ranged about the city. A hearing on the matter will be scheduled within the next few days. Two sites may be chosen, one downtown with an alternative site in the San Fernando Valley.

The two valley sites are Sesnon Field, near Chatsworth, and another tract near Van Nuys.

HOW TO USE SEALS

Postmaster Requests They Be On Back of Christmas Mail

Mailers of Christmas letters and greeting cards are urged by Postmaster O'Brien to place Christmas seals on the back of enveloper rather than on the front.

For the convenience of shoppers, booths for the sale of Christmas seals have been made available in most downtown department stores, but may also be obtained at headquarters of the Los Angeles Tuberculosis Association, 1008 Transportation Building.

The goal of this year's sale has been set at $100,000. The association hopes to map a program for safeguarding the health of factory workers in addition to the continuation of their usual efforts.

NEW LIGHT THROWN ON CALIFORNIA

Bird Fossils Found Near Carpenteria Show Area Once Was Wooded

Specimens of bird fossils of the pleistocene age, or, in other words, of 250,000 years or more ago, recently taken from the newly discovered asphalt beds near Carpenteria, may throw new and valuable light on the geology and biology of that age. The specimens reveal species of bird life not heretofore known to have been indigenous to that region, according to Prof. Loye H. Miller, professor of biology at the University of California at Los Angeles.

Excavations at the Carpenteria asphalt beds are being financed by the Carnegie Foundation and all bird fossils taken therefrom are forwarded to Prof. Miller for examination and classification. Later they are to be permanently the property of the Santa Barbara Museum, together with all mammal and plant fossils discovered.

"The character of the fossils now being classified show them to have been brush or timber dwelling creatures, supporting the conclusion that this district, now being lapped by the waves of the Pacific Ocean, once was a wooden region and that animal life indigenous to timber thrived there," Prof. Miller said. "It was once a part of the vast coastal plain of California which the ocean waves are encroaching upon."

NOTED SCIENTIST EXPIRES

Dr. Willis L. Moore, Former Government Weather Chief, Dies at Pasadena Home

Dr. Willis Luther Moore, 71 years of age, head of the United States Weather Bureau at Washington for eighteen years and past president of the National Geographic Society, died yesterday at his home, 51 State street, Pasadena, after an illness of four months, from heart disease.

Born in Scranton, Pa., Dr. Moore worked his way through school, receiving the degree of LL. D. at Norwich and the degree of Sc. D. at St. Lawrence College. He entered into his chosen field of meteorology early and worked his way up through successive stages until he became head of the United States Weather Bureau in 1895, a post which he held until 1913.

DR. WILLIS L. MOORE

During the time he was head of the bureau Dr. Moore did much to make weather conditions a subject of popular interest and study, according to Dr. Ford A. Carpenter, now with the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, who worked under him the entire eighteen years he was bureau chief.

He was made president of the National Geographic Society in 1905 and held the post until succeeded in 1913. He originated many of the popular aspects of the society, including the financing of explorations.

For the past four years he had made his home in Pasadena, writing books and compiling information on weather conditions for the aid of transoceanic flyers, a work which attracted considerable attention. He also is author of a number of works treating of the subject of meteorology in a popular way. In addition to his regular duties he held many posts in meteorological societies both here and abroad. He was a member of the Cosmos and Chevy Chase clubs.

A year ago Dr. Moore was married here to Miss Doris Piling of Canada. Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

JULIAN PLEAS SET FOR TODAY

Thirty-six Angelenos Slated for Arraignment

Others Cited, But Cases May Be Continued

Hot Debates Expected Over Reindictments

Thirty-six prominent Los Angeles business men are scheduled to appear before Superior Judge Hardy at 3 o'clock this afternoon to enter pleas of guilty or not guilty to charges of conspiracy to violate the State usury laws arising out of their asserted participation in Julian Petroleum Corporation pools.

Nine other orders for appearance for arraignment at the same proceedings have been issued but several of the cases may be continued because of the absence of the defendantsfrom the Satte. Although there are forty-five defendants named in the complaints that number actually will not appear in court because of a duplication of charges against numerous defendants who are accused of participating in several separate polls.

Heated debates regarding the legality of the reindictments which again made defendants of ten men who had been granted dismissals of the original indictments are expected from their attorneys when the cases come up for pleas today.

Charges that the grand jury had no jurisdiction to return the true bills unless the dismissed cases had been resubmitted to them by the dismissing judge are expected to be the basis of the objections.

Meanwhile Harold L. Davis, chief deputy District Attorney, is preparing evidence to be used in prosecution of the first Julian cases to come up for trial on January 5, next

It was piloted by Lieut. Jack Frye, head of the air line.

OLD-TIMER CONJURES UP PAST

Nicolas Treosti Remembers Los Angeles as Pueblo of 9000 Persons, Recalls First Horse Cars and How Mud Used to Pile Up in Our Main Highways

Few and far between are the genuine old-timers of Los Angeles, but those there are like nothing better than a good old reminiscing bee about the I-remember-when days of the period when Los Angeles was no more than a struggling young pueblo.

One of these is Nicolas Treosti, just returned from a six months' tour of Europe, who came to this city in 1877 and has seen it grow from a town of 900 inhabitants to its present metropolitan proportions. He recalls the pride which the city took in its first horse cars, he remembers vividly the deep, sticky mud that used to characterize our principal business streets and that he first subscribed to The Times, then called The Daily Mirror, in 1881.

Treosti, who was born in Locarno, was engaged in the grocery business when he first came here, and he says that he often delivered supplies at the Hellman residence when it was located on the present site of the Hellman Bank Building. Many others of the early families of Los Angeles were his neighbors and have been his life-long friends. Treosti later went into the real estate business and for thirty years maintained offices on Court street. His present offices are at 105 East First street, and he hopes that the spreading Civic Center will not soon be driving him out of the part of town with which he has been familiar for so many years.

Treosti's wife, who has been dead for several years, was Maria Olvera, a niece of Pio Pico, the last Spanish Governor of California. Gov. Pico was a frequent visitor in their home, he said.

Vidor in Court Today Because of Acrophobia

Acrophobia is one of those costly afflictions, in the opinion of Attorney G. R. Dexter, who says King Vidor, motion-picture director, has it and ought to pay for it.

King Vidor

So this morning will see Dexter and Vidor ranged against each other in Judge Price's department of the Superior Court to argue out whether or not Vidor has acrophobia and if so how much it ought to be worth to Dexter.

The discussion started, according to the complaint, when Vidor employed Dexter as his attorney and agreed to pay him $2500. Naturally, according to Dexter, he expected that business would be transacted in his own office, when he fixed the fee.

Then acrophobia entered the situation. Roughly, acrophobia is a dread of high places. Dexter says that Vidor suffers from it, and that he would not come to the lawyer's office, high up in a large building, so that Dexter had to confer with him on the curbstone in front of Vidor's home. This made a $5000 job out of it, Dexter holds, and he is suing for his fee.

CLUB MEETING POSTPONED

Election and installation of officers of the Pot and Kettle Club will be held at the next meeting of the organization which has been postponed until January 10.

ENEMY'S FLEET WIPED OFF SEA

Battle Squadrons Engage in Final 1927 Practice

Sixty Vessels Take Part in Repulsing Raiders

Warcraft Back in Harbor for Holiday Events

Force B, theoretically a powerful enemy fleet that had crossed the Pacific intent on the capture and occupation of Southern California, literally was swept from the boards by the United States battle fleet in its final maneuvers of 1927, which ended at noon yesterday when the sixty ships dropped anchor at the San Pedro and San Diego bases.

Flung out over a radius of thirty miles, the armada under Admiral Louis R. de Steiguer, commander-in-chief, executed twenty-eight successive hours of tactical exercises, in which nine battleships, thirty-two destroyers plus their cruiser flagship Omaha, ten submarines, eight auxiliaries and sixty aircraft participated with complete co-ordination of effort.

At daybreak Friday, the fleet put to sea, the battleships, submarines, destroyers and aircraft units being preceded by a squadron of minesweepers which cleared their course of "enemy" mines.

PLANES MAKE ATTACK

Just before noon a squadron of enemy fighting planes dropped unseen out of the sun to stage a spectacular "strafing" attack on the dreadnaught column; the sub-caliber guns of the antiaircraft batteries ping-pinging at the flashing planes as they rolled out of range.

In midafternoon the main body of the "enemy" was sighted by battle fleet scouts, twenty miles away, and, while whole squadrons of fighting and observation planes were catapulted from battleship decks and darted off to the southward—like wasps out for blood—the fleet swung into battle line for the action that followed.

The destroyers, at the head of the battle line, dashed in to deliver a torpedo attack on the enemy battleships—simulated by a tanker and four tugs—while the main batteries and broadsides of the dreadnaughts were trained on the enemy. But instead of the thunder and smoke of battle there followed only the "ping-ping" of the tiny subcaliber guns.

VICTORY DECISIVE

The battle over and the battle fleet's victory being adjudged decisive, the fleet again deployed into cruising formation.

After nightfall, the destroyers dashed off to a secret rendezvous. Just before midnight they swung in on the coast again, intent on finding the battleships—steaming in line of divisions with all lights doused—and launching a torpedo attack before discovery. The sharp-eyed fleet lookouts did not find them until they came within 5000 yards. A moment later they were silhouetted against the night by the powerful beams of all the searchlights in the dreadnaught squadron—splendid targets for the five-inch batteries.

The fleet will be at anchor for the Christmas holidays until after January 2, when the battleships again put to sea to prepare for and fire antiaircraft practice "C." On that date the battleships West Virginia and Tennessee will leave for San Francisco for their annual visit to the Bay City. They will rejoin the fleet here on January 15.

PRACTICE RUNS

During the week of January 23 to 29 the dreadnaughts will be engaged in practice runs and rehearsals for annual long-range battle practice, to be fired during the week beginning January 30. The following week will be spent in port for machinery overhaul and landing force drills, while during the week beginning February 13 the entire battle fleet will be at sea on practice runs for force practice, which will be fired February 17—sixty-three ships participating.

Thereafter, until March 26, the battleships will fire night battle practice "A," antiaircraft practice "D" and several advanced practices. The week of March 26 to April 1 will be spent in port for overhaul and landing force drills, preparatory to the Hawaiian cruise, on which the fleet will depart on the morning of April 8.

Immediate interest in the fleet centers on the arrival here on the 22nd inst., from the Atlantic, of the U.S.S. New York, modernized battleship which will rejoin Battleship Division Three after an absence of three years.

SANTA'S STEED LOSES HORN

Blitzen Capers in Joy at Master's Return to Igloo and Meets Accident

In spite of the fact that Santa Claus went to church and Sunday-school yesterday, and so was not able to be at his headquarters at Eighth street and Grand avenue until 1 p.m., nearly as many children and grown-ups saw him and his reindeer yesterday as the day before, when between 8000 and 10,000 persons visited his headquarters.

As soon as Santa showed up he was besieged by a ring of children who were anxious to meet him and communicate their wants for Christmas. His Eskimo assistant also drew a large crowd and the igloo and tunnel leading to the reindeer stable were even more popular than usual.

One slight accident to Blitzen occurred just as Santa reached headquarters. Blitzen, who had missed his master during the morning, was so overjoyed at his arrival that he attempted to jump out of the stable, with the result that one of his horns was caught and was broken. As a result Blitzen's tour of the Los Angeles downtown section, scheduled for the afternoon, was called off.

Although sorry because of the accident, Santa made light of it, as he said that the reindeer's horns would fall off after Christmas anyway, and that Blitzen was hurt no worse than one of his sympathetic admirers would have been by a bad bump. Blitzen probably will make his trip around the downtown section today in spite of the injury.

Tomorrow Santa Claus expects the largest day that he has had so far. He will be on the job at 10 a.m., and his headquarters will be open until 9 p.m., when his reindeer will have to go to bed for the night.

The Lancer

by Harry Carr

SOME of these clever young foreigners in Hollywood are jolting the preconceived opinions of the world—especially about America.

I have just been reading the opinions of one. He says that, far from being the naive children we are thought to be, the Americans are the most cynical people in the world.

TOO INNOCENT

He says that the famed charm and gallantry of European men is not due to the fact that they know women better than Americans. Quite the contrary.

The continental European kisses hands; whispers soft nothings, and perfumes his words and his neckties because—compared with the American—he is still innocent and unsophisticated—full of illusions.

The American is too utterly cynical and skeptical to waste the effort.

NEW YEAR'S EVE

I am looking for a place in which to spend New Year's Eve.

All I know is that it isn't going to be a cafe listening to a lot of idiots tooting tin horns.

THE FACE OF THE WATERS

The best New Year's Eve I ever had in my life was at Del Mar, where I stood all alone at the end of a long wharf; the moon was shining over the face of the dark waters. When the hour came—it seemed to envelop me in awe and wonderment. You could feel it steal into the world—something new and young and lovely. Just about once or twice in a lifetime you float out of the material fetters that way.

SIMPS WITH HORNS

My worst New Year's was in a Hollywood club amid gayety and congenital morons. When the hour came they marched around with paper caps and bottles.

As a matter of sentiment I do not choose to put myself in a mood where I yearn to open fire with a garden hose on a roomful of people.

MEN WASH DISHES

No idle tears if what this tidied Irish lady says comes true.

She says that, eventually, women will be the bread winners, while men will stay at home and do the cooking.

About nine out of ten men would be grateful for the change. They are tired of the struggle. Most of them like to cook, anyhow.

DRAFTING A PRESIDENT

The talk of drafting Mr. Coolidge for President comes again.

Well, it has been done.

I remember the case of an Indian in one of the pueblos of New Mexico. They elected him governor of the tribe. When he refused to accept the nomination they put him in jail.

I don't know how long they kept him locked up; but the last I heard of him he said he'd be dinged if he'd be governor—not if he stayed in jail for a thousand years. To which the tribesmen replied that, so far as they knew, the jail was well built and would probably be on the job for a thousand years—if that was how he felt about it.

SPANK 'EM GOOD

For the honor of the American courts it is to be hoped that the trial judge will punish every person who contributed to the melodramatic doings which have made the Remus murder trial a disgrace. Particularly the woman juror who blubbered and wept in the jury box. The judge ought to give her something to cry for.

Scotch Whisky Fleet Hovers Off Coast With Holiday Cargo

EIGHT VESSELS READY FOR DASH

Boats Ride at Anchor About 200 Miles Out

Liquor Slowly Comes Ashore in Small Lots

Beaches Watched to Block Smuggling Plans

Illicit liquor in the form of assorted Scotch whisky slowly is being deposited on the southern shores of California, but not in large lots, it was admitted yesterday in reports of Federal prohibition officers. Five rum ships which have been standing by nearly 200 miles off the Southern California coast for an opportunity to land liquor have been augmented by three additional ships, according to information received by the officers.

Although Coast Guard speedboats have been circling the anchored rum ships, small shipments have been slipped ashore, it is reported. This is due largely to the extent of territory required to be covered by the Coast Guard boats, and the fact that the rum ships are widely separated.

Alternately shipments of liquor have been landed in the neighborhood of Sunset Beach and of Santa Barbara, the reports show. It is the belief that, because of the shortage of the number of dry agents, other landings have been made. However, it is believed by Maj. McReynolds, government dry administrator, Capt. Benton, head of the Sheriff's squad, and George Contreras of the District Attorney's staff, that the rum ships will be unable to land all of their cargoes.

On Friday ninety-one cases of liquor were seized upon landing at Sunset Beach. Two arrests were made.

He Leaves Jail Only to Return

Undaunted by the completion of a seventy-day sentence for violation of the Wright Act, Ed Hensley, 36 years of age, a truck driver, came back to Municipal Judge Turney's court for 180 days more.

"This man has become such a familiar figure in this court I call him by his first name," explained Deputy City Prosecutor Higgins in recommending a severe sentence.

Secretary Caldwell of the vice squad reported that Hensley recently was released from the City Jail when arrested on November 17, last, for possessing eleven pints of liquor in the kitchen of his home at 736 East Ninth street.

Apprised of two prior charges against Hensley, Judge Turney sentenced him to pay a $500 fine in addition to the 180-day sentence.

Santa at Legion Club Tonight

Santa Claus has arranged to meet all children of ex-service men tonight at 7 o'clock at the main club rooms of Victory Post, American Legion at 327 1-2 Main street.

Post officers have arranged for a Christmas tree large enough to delight every youngster.

Boxes of good things to eat have been arriving for the past week. Each child will be remembered.

After the last toy has been distributed will come entertainment, according to Charles Craddick, chairman of arrangements. Officials of the post want every child whose parents saw service to attend. Former service men who know of needy children are asked to bring them.

ASKS DAMAGES FOR CAR

Andrew J. Davis's car came in contact with a city garbage truck. What happened to the garbage truck is unknown, but Mr. Davis avers his car was damaged to the extent of $135. He asks the Council to reimburse him that sum. His plea was referred to the City Engineer for an investigation.

PUBLIC SCHOOL HAS AIR CLASS

Pasadena Students Build Own Planes

And They Fly, Too

C. K. Berger, director of part-time school and some of his pupils examining small glider models made at school.

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Dec. 18.—What is believed to be the first aviation class in a public school in this country has been established at the Pasadena Part-Time School at Vernon avenue and Villa street, and, according to C. K. Berger, the director, it is the most popular class in the institution.

Although Berger, who is a former army flyer, and who teaches the class, decided when it was established to teach only areonautical theory, several of the students have, on their own initiative, built models in the school shops, and two of the boys have assembled full-sized planes capable of flight. They bought parts with their own money.

One of the purposes which prompted Berger to start the class was a desire to get the attention of boys who were not much interested in the conventional academic subjects and to interest them in something practical.

Berger held the rank of second lieutenant during the World War, when he was at Brooks Field, Tex., and has had considerable aeronautical experience. The class subjects include aeronautical construction, nomenclature, styles of craft, types of flying and the history of aviation. The class meets once a week.

Students at the part-time school are employed during the day, but their employers release them during working hours so that they may finish their schooling or continue along industrial or trade lines of endeavor. Nearly all members of the aviation class are interested in a practical career in this direction, and one boy has joined the Navy with the intention of becoming a flyer.

BEAUTIFUL RANGE TO BE GIFT TODAY

Mrs. Cummings Will Make Presentation During Food Class Demonstration

Mrs. Mae Cummings, whose cooking demonstrations with the Dangler range have been a feature of the Manufacturers' Exhibit, at the Southwest Building, 130 South Broadway, will hold her regular class at 1:30 p.m. today in the food demonstration rooms of the exhibit, and will give not only her regular lesson, but will present to some one in her class a fine Dangler range with Lorsane oven control.

Once before Mrs. Cummings gave away such a range, and a housewife in Hollywood now has a fine new stove in her kitchen at no cost or trouble to herself. Some other woman is due to receive a similar gift today, just in time for Christmas dinner. The range is a model of the same sort that Mrs. Cummings uses in her lessons. All who aspire for a new cookstove are invited to the class this afternoon, when the presentation will be made, and thereafter the stove will be delivered to the home of the fortunate one.

Mrs. Wyman will hold her regular class on Tuesday and Friday afternoons and Mrs. Harris will hold her body-beautiful lecture in the same halls on Wednesday at the same hour. Elevators run direct to the third floor food demonstrations rooms.

RITES TODAY FOR PIONEER KANSAS MAN

Salina Business Leader Succumbs Here While He Pays Daughter Visit

Funeral services for Frank C. York, 75 years of age, a pioneer of Salina, Kan., who died here Wednesday, last, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Harry D. Brown, 803 North Curson street, will be conducted today from the Little Church of the Flowers, Glendale, at 1 p.m.

Mr. York came here a year ago to visit his daughter. He was president of the Salina and Northwestern Railroad and one of the industrial and business leaders in his home city. He was ill but two days before he died.

He leaves three daughters, Mrs. Harry D. Brown and Mrs. L. C. Housel of Salina, and Mrs. Claude Webber, Los Angeles, a son, Glen York, of Salina, and a brother, Charles York of Inglewood. The son and Mrs. Housel arrived here yesterday to attend the funeral. Arrangements are in charge of Dellenbaugh Undertaking Parlors, 680 Venice Boulevard.

Leaders Scarce Educator Tells Employed Boys

The world has plenty of followers, but the scarcity of capable leaders is deplorable, declared Vierling-Kersey, assistant superintendent of schools, addressing the fifth annual conference of employed boys yesterday at Polytechnic High School. The educator's topic was, "The Importance of the Human Element in Business Relationships of Today." He stressed the point that manpower is vastly more important than machinery or other methods of production.

He also urged the boys to master difficult situations instead of being themselves mastered, declaring that only thus may they become the type of men the world needs. A round-table discussion of self-improvement was a feature of the program, the mental, physical, moral, job and civic phases receiving special consideration. In the absence of Dr. James A. Francis, who was unable to appear because of illness, Rev. Bruce Brown, pastor of South Park Christian Church, gave a talk on "The Importance of Being Fit." Luncheon was served in the school cafeteria.

The conference was attended by several hundred employed boys from all parts of Southern California.

This Snake Like 'Unloaded' Gun

Stroking the head of what he thought to be a harmless rattlesnake in a new consignment of reptiles which were thought to have had their fangs drawn, Rennie Crawford 32 years of age, of 1344 East Forty-fifth street, proprietor of a menagerie at 323 South Main street, was severely bitten by the snake which had one fang remaining.

A man, whose name was not learned, probably saved Crawford's life by sucking the poison from the bite immediately. The victim was rushed to the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital for treatment. It was said last night that he will recover although his condition is serious.

Drain Protest Meeting Called

The Southwest Los Angeles Property Owners' Association will meet tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in the Fifty-ninth-street school, West Fifty-ninth street and Second avenue, to protest against the construction of the Slauson-avenue storm drain, C. O. Newman, 5819 Sixth avenue, chairman of the organization, announced last night.

The property owners contend that the digging of such a drain will decrease the value of their property, Newman said.

YOUNG SALT LAKE CITY GIRL VANISHES HERE

One red-haired runaway girl's return to her home in Salt Lake City would be the best Christmas present her mother ever had. Rose Glassman is 16 years of age. Someone told her of the charms of Los Angeles and she disappeared with her brother's return ticket to this city October 16, last. Since then nothing has been heard of her, according to the Traveler's Aid Society.

Rose is five feet five inches tall, weighs 130 pounds and at the time she left home wore a green hat, black dress and green tailored coat. The Glassman family is poor, but they are offering a $100 reward for any information that will lead to her apprehension.

ASSESSMENT MAPS FILED

The assessment district maps for the installation of lighting appliances in the Superba avenue and Lincoln Boulevard lighting district, and in the Durango avenue and Pico Boulevard lighting district, have been filed with the Council by the street lighting engineer.

Polished leather for army saddles has proved a hazard for cavalrymen in fighting, since the light shining on the leather makes it a target for aviators.

COURT DENIES FEES IN LIEN

Judge Engs Rules Against Piling Up Costs Unless Foreclosor Can Show Demand Made

No attorney fee will be allowed upon the foreclosure of a street bond issued before the effective date of the recent amendment to the improvement act of 1911, unless personal demand for payment can be shown to have been made upon the owner of the property, Judge Engs of Superior Court has ruled in granting decrees in three bond foreclosure suits which have been pending before him for several weeks.

In the first of the three cases, Salmon vs. Wing, the bond, with penalties, amounted to $116.70. Judgment for this sum, plus $75 for attorney fee and $5 for title search, was asked. By special permission of the court, Attorney Marshall Stimson appeared in the matter as a friend of the court to oppose the allowance of counsel fee and title search charge, the defendant having defaulted.

HOLD LAW CHANGED

Attorney George Wright, for the plaintiff, argued that the amendment of the improvement act by the recent Legislature removed the necessity of showing personal demand upon the property owner as a prerequisite for allowance of counsel fee and title search charge.

Attorney Stimson contended that the bond was in the nature of a contract between the lien holder and the property owner, based upon the law existing at the time of its execution, and that the Legislature could not alter it. A peculiar circumstance was that at the time the case went to trial there was an upper court decision supporting Wright's view, but that before Judge Engs had made his decision, the Supreme Court had reversed this decision, thus turning that case into a precedent.

FEES DENIED

Despite some ambiguity as to the allowing of counsel fees in suits brought under the act of 1911, it has been the recent practice of the Superior Court of Los Angeles county to construe the statute to mean that fees cannot be allowed unless the lien holder, before filing suit, shall have made personal demand on the property owner for payment of the lien.

In this case that interpretation of the law was argued extensively in briefs, and the decree sets forth a finding that no personal demand was made. This places the judgment in such a form that an appeal can be taken directly upon that point, if the plaintiff desires, so that there may be an appellate decision for the guidance of lower courts in the future.

MOB HOLDS SUSPECT IN BURGLARY

Woman's Screams as Man Crawls Through Window Summon Captors

Overtaken by a mob of angry citizens aroused by a woman's screams, F. F. Fuller, 39 years of age, a transient, declared by Mrs. A. Baxter, 324 South Fresno street, to have entered her room through a window early yesterday, was seized by the crowd and held until police arrived. He was booked on suspicion of burglary.

As soon as Mrs. Baxter saw the man enter her room she gave a series of screams which frightened the burglar and aroused neighbors. In a moment a chase was organized and the man was overtaken within a few blocks.

Owl Company Children Get Gifts at Party

Little children of the employees of the Owl Drug Company were guests of the firm at a Christmas party yesterday morning in the ballroom of the Alexandria Hotel.

A Christmas tree piled high with presents was the center of attraction. Before the gifts were handed out, there was an entertainment program by the Collins twins, "California Songbirds," Nona Clapp, the "Sunshine Fairie," Henrietta Poland, "Little Forget-me-not," Uncle Remus, Dick Winslow and others.

Ten children of employees born during the past year became charter members of the Owlets Club which was formed yesterday, and on each Christmas Day, the children born during the year previous will be initiated into the club.

Liquor Robbery Case Will Go on

James Lloyd, former bail bond broker of Long Beach, will resume testimony today in the court of United States District Judge Henning in the trial of four defendants accused of robbery of the watchman and the government liquor warehouse on December 10, 1925.

Lloyd has been on the stand for nearly two days during which time he has related the asserted circumstances that led up to the robbery. He is considered as the "key man" in the case, already having admitted a part in the robbery.

Theater Club to Put on 'Justice'

The Community Theater Club tonight will present the first of five evening performances of "Justice," a four-act play by John Galsworthy, at its theater, Eighteenth and Figueroa streets, according to announcement yesterday. The cast numbers twenty persons. David Calvin and Herbert Rooksby are charged with direction of the play.

Announcement also is made that an exhibition of old films from the collection of Hugo and Emmanuel Browne will be held January 4 and 5. The films include Eleanor Duse in "Agnes Viscountl," Sara Bernhardt in "Queen Elizabeth," "King Henry the Eighth," "Anthony and Cleopatra" and "The Fall of Troy."

Cinema Actress Bride of Scribe

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Dec. 18.—A romance which began when the bride was a member of the Greenwich Village Follies culminated here at 6 o'clock this evening when Miss Rita Hoyt, cinema actress, became the bride of Harry Collins, former New York newspaper man. Miss Hoyt is said to be a protege of Belle Bennett, who brought her to Hollywood.

The ceremony, witnessed by only a few intimate friends, was performed by Rev. Hervey C. Parke, vicar of the Church of the Angels. The couple will live at 1626 North Harvard Boulevard, Los Angeles, on their return from a brief honeymoon trip.

DISTRICT MAP SUBMITTED

City Engineer Shaw has submitted to the Council for its approval the assessment district map for the laying out and widening of Melrose avenue from Gower street to Seward street.

WIFE WINS BY NECK

Decree Given on Tale of Bows Over This Part of Chicken

What Hoyt M. Smith wanted was a drumstick.

What he got, too frequently to make living with him a pleasure, was the neck.

Mrs. Mary E. Smith related this to Judge Bowron at the trial of her suit for a divorce, by way of explanation of their domestic difficulties.

"Judge, you know how it is when you have company," Mrs. Smith pointed out. "Any reasonable man expects about so much of that sort of thing. But Mr. Smith is not a reasonable man. He always wanted the drumsticks of the chicken. But there are times when the host must be content with the neck, and upon these occasions Mr. Smith would be terrible. He would complain right out loud, and announce to everyone that he always was treated that way."

Judge Bowron had little sympathy for Smith's troubles.

"Still a little boy, wasn't he?" the court remarked as he granted Mrs. Smith a divorce.

BANKER WILL ADDRESS CITY CLUB WEDNESDAY

"What Does Your Banker Do For You?" is the subject of an address to be given at the City Club at noon next Wednesday by Chester A. Rude, vice-president of the Citizens National Bank. Next Friday at noon the club will give its Christmas party for children. SPIRIT OF SAINT NICHOLAS LIKENED TO CHRIST'S LOVE

Culbertson in Sermon Over KHJ Tells "Why I Believe in Santa Claus"

"Whoever enacts the role of Santa Claus is, for the moment, ...ing the loving spirit of Christ," declared Dr. H. C. Culbertson of the Plymouth Congregational Church, in a sermon ...n yesterday from the KHJ broadcasting station. Preaching on "Why I Believe in Santa Claus," Dr. Culbertson spoke in ...s follows:

...hundred churches in Europe ...en dedicated to 'St. Nicholas,' ...d Bishop of Lycia, who lived ...m A.D. Stories about him ...w him as the protector of ...children, merchants and sail... It is said that he restored to ...ife youths who had been mur... and that he surreptitiously ...ed diveries upon three daugh... of a poor citizen. The Dutch settlers, called ...anders, brought the custom ...erica, calling him San Niclaas. ...ed all legends and stories ...t a great, serene, beautiful ... There is a real Santa Claus, ...n Nicholas, nobler than ...ery dressed-up imitators of ...ly saint. The Christmas spirit ...s realism reality, the idea, emo... soul of our celebration, incarnates itself in Santa Claus, and in the hearts of all papas and mamas who play Santa and give good gifts to little boys and girls in His name.

"Look back over the centuries when Jesus was so misunderstood that men thought of Him only as a helpless babe in Mary's arms or else as a tragic, crucified figure hanging on the cross, and when they had forgotten all the rest of His life and glorious teachings! Remember that during many centuries no lives of Christ were written, and His best teachings were overlooked in the pompous ceremonials of religion. Cruel popes in armor were leading their troops to storm cities, fierce kings were going murderously on crusades to capture the Holy Sepulcher with slaughter and hate, the poor suffered, and the church was like a tinsel guardian of the golden gates. In those terrible, cruel centuries the living Christ-Spirit found its expression, its incarnation in the legend of the good St. Nicholas. Theologians had put Christ so high in the sky that He seemed out of touch with common men, but the real living spirit of Jesus crept into the souls of the people in the form of the story of good St. Nick. The forgotten Christ, the giver of all good gifts, the Holy Christ-Spirit found expression in the hearts of men through this legend. Fathers and mothers who conceal their generosity under cover of Santa Claus, are not only playing Santa, but they are playing Christ, they are 'playing God.' In spite of all the woes and troubles of life, there is a great infinite Santa Claus God in the sky."

OIL MEN WILL HOLD HI-JINKS

Arrangements Made to Entertain 600 at Show Program

The Chamber of Mines and Oil is making preparations for its annual Christmas Hi-jinks, to be held at the Ambassador Hotel Friday noon. Arrangements are being made to entertain 500 to 600 oil men and their friends.

The Wildcat committee of the chamber is in charge of the entertainment program, and has announced that there will be four or five musical and vaudeville numbers in addition to a playlet.

The playlet will be a revised version of the one-act skit, "So's Your Oil Man," which was presented here by the oil men about a year ago. It is a burlesque of certain follies in the oil business.

SPIRITUAL PIONEERS PAID HIGH TRIBUTE

"Pioneers on Untrodden Paths," is the theme of a sermon preached yesterday by Dr. Bruce Brown at the South Park Christian Church. The sermon, in part, follows:

"The history of the world has been made by about fifty periods. All the rest have been like sheep following their guide. The men who have served their fellowmen could never be popular while living for they must rebuke the wrongs of their day and lead people away from the beaten paths. This is never pleasing, for folk do not relish being told of their sins and have no desire to enter upon untrodden ways. Every generation is kept building monuments for the martyrs that its fathers crucified. One must choose between the passing popularity of today and the enduring honor of tomorrow. Mankind could never have made any progress had it not been for bold pioneers who were willing to break away from the traditions of the past and follow the pathway wherever the light of truth glowed on it."

SAYS NEW TESTAMENT NOT JEWISH WRITING

"Does Liberal Judaism Lead to Christianity?" is the question discussed by Rabbi Herman Lissauer at the Temple Emanu-El. Dr. Lissauer said in part:

"Nothing is more to be deplored than the tendency in the reform pulpit to accept the New Testament as Jewish writing. True it is that the central figure of the New Testament was a Jew, but even more true is it that the New Testament is a distinct departure from and subversion of the central doctrine of Judaism. The tendency referred to is seen in its extreme form in Montefiore's commentary on the Synoptic Gospels, and may also be observed in the frequent panegyrics of praise bestowed by many rabbis upon Jesus, though strangely enough they fail to preach sermons upon Hillel and the genuinely Jewish teachers and saints. It was for sufficiently weighty reasons that Judaism disowned the Christianity which grew out of it. The parent religion realised instinctively that the offspring was a heresy in its removal of emphasis from God to man. The recent agitation over the statements of Stephen Wise about Jesus arose out of the fear that a recognized Jewish leader was accepting and urging his people to accept Jesus and, together with Jesus, the New Testament and Christianity. The procedure of the Agudath Horabonim was unjustifiable, but their apprehension was easily understandable. For though he may not be liberal in many matters, the orthodox Jew is at least genuinely Jewish and views with alarm any possible betrayal of his religion."

DECLARES WORLD STILL IS WAITING A SAVIOR

"Awaiting a Savior" is the subject of a sermon preached yesterday by Rev. William C. Isett at Amanda Chapel, Carthay Center. Mr. Isett said in part:

"A thoughtful student of world history cannot help being deeply impressed by the note of expectancy, the spirit of uncertainty and the eagerness for leadership abroad today. We are continually searching for the deeper meaning of Christmas, and inevitably we turn for inspiration to the little town of Bethlehem as the capital of the world's hope. Nearly 2000 years have passed since the first Christmas dawn, and still the world awaits a Savior. Who will lead the nations of the world into harmonious concord? Where is the brain, keen and analytical, that we may know the truth that makes us free? Who has a heart humble enough to bind the body of Christ—His church—together into one functioning organism? Where shall we find a general at whose command the armies and the navies of the world will abandon their destructive plans and turn to pursuits of peace? There is but One—Jesus, the Prince of Peace."

CALLS "VIRGIN BIRTH" SLUR ON MOTHERHOOD

"A Critical Examination of the Birth Stories of Jesus" is the subject of a sermon preached yesterday by Rev. T. C. Abel at the Hollywood Playhouse. An excerpt from the sermon follows:

"Is it honest for a preacher or an institution to perpetuate, as history, the stories of Jesus's birth when reputable scholarship has established their mythological character and origin? If it is not honest, the practice should be abolished, for dishonesty strikes at the heart of religion. Not only is the prepetuation of these stories, as history, dishonest but it reflects upon the purity of every human mother, for the stories are based on the theory that human nature is depraved and that the natural children of human parents are conceived in iniquity and born in sin. This idea was born in the prurient minds of the Orient and has no rightful place in our thoughts. There is nothing in the world more sacred than the birth of a child to parents bound together in love. The birth stories of Jesus contain elements of beauty when treated as myths or religious poetry, but as history they are an insult to every mother and to all intelligence."

JOY CONSIDERED DIVINE QUALITY

Adrian Sasha, author and founder of "Laws of Life," spoke yesterday at the Hollywood Metaphysical Fellowship, 6065 Hollywood Boulevard, on "Joy and Laws of Life." He said in part:

"You have evidence of God's presence in the fact that a good act leaves a feeling of joy in your heart, irrespective of outside consideration or remuneration. The fact that there is some power inwardly compensating or punishing you cannot be considered as an indication of the workings of mere conscience which is always dependent on the degree of intelligence. Human beings are frequently happy or unhappy without being able to explain the reasons. It is the spirit within, urging toward higher understanding of the principles of righteousness. From this voice no one can get away. Only this inward voice accounts for the progress of humanity."

PASTOR DISCUSSES ATTITUDE ON SIN

Rev. Albert Anderson, pastor of the Central Lutheran Church of San Fernando Valley, preached yesterday on "Sin." He said in part:

"Sin is transgression of the law of God. There is a tendency in the present age to minimize the idea of sin. The stern, severe, rigid doctrine of the Bible regarding sin is offensive. Truth is offensive when it runs counter to certain great social interests, associations and passions. Attempts are made to classify all teachings about sin as antedated. The doctrine of sin is considered a relic from early history of mankind when clouds of superstition hovered low. Sin is real.

"Repentance, confession of one's wrong, relieves the soul. God forgives the penitent. The redemption of Jesus Christ has made it possible for man again to attain to eternal life, not through good works, but by grace alone."

TITLE WRITERS

The Pullman Company has nearly 10,000 cars in service. No wonder that some of them have to carry funny names.

ENDURANCE TEST

One of the great steel magnates says that he is wearing the same overcoat he bought in 1913. He must have found a dandy presser and renovator.

IN THE DISTANCE

A utility company recently put out an issue of bonds payable in the year 2297. Perhaps that is what they call postponing the day of reckoning.

BREAKING THE NET

And stil there are censorious citizens who say that the probers in the Julian tangle smoked out everybody save the right parties. The man who goes fishing explains it by the statement that it is usually the big ones that get away.

QUICK ACTION

"Scott threw up his hand and seized the whizzing projectile as it cut through part of his left breast and was about to imbed itself in his body."—Washington Post. This man should be drafted and sent to Nicaragua for service with the marines.

MUZZLED DOGS

The Englishmen declined to accept the American hot dog as a bit of al fresco nourishment. They said they were unsanitary. But they have come into their own at last. They are now sold and served in waxed or glazed paper. A muzzle of oiled paper makes the hot dog safe for aristocracy.

ROAD TRAGEDIES

According to the best compilations of the Department of Commerce 23,400 persons were killed in motor tragedies last year. This is an average of nearly 2000 a month and, of course, the urge for speed is blamed for much of the mourning. We would consider it a good-sized war that killed off more than 20,000 of our citizens.

THE FAMILY IS FIRST

A Southland goat rancher who complained that he couldn't pay alimony and buy goat feed was told by a local judge that as between feeding one's family and one's animals the family comes first, so he was ordered to pay up. It appears that the rancher will have to dispose of one or two of his stock in order to make the settlement, which shows there is more than one way of getting a man's goat.

BARS POPULAR DANCES

Mussolini has forbidden officers of the Italian army to dance any of the exotic dances that have become so popular in Italy. In his decree he specified the black bottom, shimmy, Charleston and dirty dog, saying that such antics detract from the honor and dignity of the uniform. Wonder what other way Il Duce will discover to prove that a sense of humor has been omitted from his mental make-up.

THE BANK BALANCE

Many eastern banks are making a service charge on all checking accounts where the monthly balance falls below $100. This is hardly an incentive for new business from small depositors, but it puts more business into the savings department. However, the service charge is a light one and the average depositor does not complain. The argument of the banks is that they really lose money in the casual handling of general accounts that run a balance of less than $100 a month.

THE PARDONING POWER

On his last day of office Gov. Fields of Kentucky is reported as having signed the pardons of sixty-seven criminals. In the number were fourteen who had been serving life sentences and one who had the death penalty waiting. In his last six weeks the Governor granted 130 pardons. It would almost look as if the Kentucky executive had gone after the mark set by Miriam Ferguson of Texas. If the Governor can justify his leniency it is all right with us, but Governors and parole boards seem to serve as a reflection upon our courts, and their reputation for celerity and severity of punishment is not high.

VERMONT VITALITY

Little old Vermont is showing fine powers of recuperation and reconstruction. The flooded area is to be restored to its former condition as soon as possible. The Legislature has voted an $8,500,000 bond issue to reconstruct bridges and restore highways, and has authorized the emergency board to borrow $1,500,000 for other relief purposes. The Legislature also voted to loan the St. Johnsbury and Lake Champlain Railroad $300,000 from State funds, so that it may rebuild its damaged property. This is the spirit that soon will make that $30,000,000 flood loss seem a mere bagatelle to Vermont, which is pretty well supplied with money, thanks to the economy of its State officials, and has plenty of credit.

NEWSPAPER RESPONSIBILITY

To a greater degree than in any other country in the world the American public is dependent upon its newspapers for the accurate, unbiased information upon public affairs essential for the intelligent popular participation therein which is the foundation of democratic government.

Because of this vitally important function of the American press it enjoys a greater degree of freedom of expression and interpretation than is the case anywhere abroad. Official censorship, except in times of the greatest national emergency, is unknown. Freedom of speech and of the press are among the fundamentals of American liberty guaranteed by the Constitution.

Like all great privileges, this freedom of the press carries with it an equal measure of responsibility. It is predicated upon the assumption that it will not be abused; that the newspapers enjoying this unexampled liberty shall employ it ably and honestly in the service of the public to which every real newspaper is dedicated.

To the credit of American publishers be it said that it is seldom that they have failed thoroughly and disinterestedly to live up to the tacit obligation thus accepted. Recognizing that, under our system of government, the final decision in important national questions rests in the hands of the people and that correct decisions can be based only upon complete and reliable information conveyed to the public through the press, responsible publishers have made it a fundamental principle of American journalism that the news they publish shall be as complete, as honest and as trustworthy as their respective facilities for news-gathering, news-investigation and news-interpretation can make it.

Especially, and for obvious reasons, is this true of matters involving delicate international relations and the conduct of those high officials who are intrusted with the heavy responsibility of representing the United States in its dealings with foreign countries. Consequences of the gravest character—even war itself—hang upon the integrity of the public press in times of international stress. Seldom, indeed, has any American newspaper publisher failed to recognize and to fulfill to the extent of his ability and resources his solemn obligations in such situations. Where such failure has occurred it is no cause for wonder that the newspaper profession itself is the first to condemn the offender who, for reasons of private spite or for mere sensationalism, deliberately seeks to deceive the public in a matter fraught with possibilities of the most serious character.

William R. Hearst, owner and publisher of some twenty-five American newspapers for which he claims an enormous circulation, recently caused his newspapers to publish, as part of his campaign to stir up trouble between this country and Mexico, an article declaring that the Mexican government had ordered $1,215,000 paid to four members of the United States Senate for "services" plainly inferred to be part of certain sinister plots against this country charged to Mexico by Hearst.

Called before a Senate committee appointed to investigate this grave charge, Hearst admitted:

That he had made no investigation of the charge before causing his newspapers to publish it;

That he had asked none of the four Senators involved regarding it;

That he had no evidence indicating that any Senator had accepted such a bribe;

That he did not believe the charge himself when he published it.

The verdict of the public, intended victims of such wanton deception, is yet to be received. But the verdict of representative American journalism has been prompt. Said the New York Times, editorially, in its issue of Friday, December 16, the day after Hearst made his astounding confession:

> He himself (Hearst) blandly testified that he did not for a moment believe that the Mexican government paid over a million dollars to four United States Senators. Yet he confessed to having light-heartedly printed evidence going to show that such corruption had been attempted, because he believed that in this way a Congressional investigation would be forced. It has been, but already the results go far to discredit the methods used by the Hearst newspapers in this case and by so much to injure the repute of the press in general. It is this injury to his own profession wrought by Mr. Hearst which newspaper men will most keenly feel and resent.

Said the New York World:

> The honest publisher who prints, believing them to be genuine, documents falsely assailing the honor of public men is guilty of culpable neglect. The publisher who prints such documents not even believing them to be true, who makes no effort to ascertain if they are true, who disregards internal evidence suggesting that they are forgeries, and who seeks to protect himself against libel suits by partly blotting out names which yet remain identifiable by the associates of the men traduced—that publisher is a disgrace to the profession.

Said the Philadelphia Public Ledger:

> It is inconceivable that they (the four Senators) did receive this money. Mr. Hearst himself testified before the committee: "I have no evidence nor do I believe that they did get the money." Intelligent persons will agree with Mr. Hearst's opinion, though they will certainly question the propriety and common decency of publishing alleged documents which might give rise to suspicions so unwarranted.

Such rebukes will mean nothing to Hearst, for to him the ethics of journalism mean nothing. More effective, perhaps, will be the reaction against the political and personal ends which, through this appeal to prejudice and groundless sensationalism, he has sought to serve.

RADIO FOR THE PUBLIC

By order of the Federal Radio Commission many broadcasting stations changed their wave lengths December 1 and more will begin operating on changed wave lengths the first of the year. In addition to this initial change, the commission proposes to eliminate nearly 50 per cent of the stations now operating, or about 300 of the total 694. Unless political meddling through the medium of Congress halts the intended action, the business of closing stations least beneficial to public needs will begin in February.

The commission has long had in mind improvement of the country's broadcasting through elimination of the least valuable broadcasters, thus unloading the air and making better reception possible, but before beginning the program it awaited definite settlement of cases pending in court to establish positively the authority of the commission to act. There is no longer any doubt of the authority vested in the commission and it is now prepared to act for the benefit of the radio public.

Radio telephony long ago passed the stage of novelty and experiment and became a valuable public institution. Its potential benefits, however, have been greatly retarded by the overcrowding of the ether by all manner of broadcasters. Some of the superfluous stations are merely inadequate, some are wholly selfish in design and give a public service wholly incommensurate with the advantage enjoyed by the operators, others constitute a real nuisance and are an abusive imposition upon the radio public.

In its program of elimination, the Radio Commission is not likely to hear much objection from the mass of listeners-in, though groups interested in the dissemination of class propaganda over the radio will set up considerable resistance politically whenever they are given notice to get off the air for public good. It is to be hoped that the commission will not be halted, or if it is forced to permit propagandists to broadcast will be given latitude enough to allocate to them wave lengths entirely outside the range of receiving apparatus in the hands of the general radio public.

BEAUTY FOR MEN

A French journalist insists that beauty is the monopoly of no sex and that it is quite as important that men should doll themselves up as for the ladies to indulge this custom. Even a fighting man can the better battle for being clean and neat—at least that is what the Frenchman claims. This Parisian critic says that in another season or two men will be using rouge and the lipstick just as their flapper daughters are doing today. Men today are giving attention to their waistline and to color effects in their apparel. They have their hands regularly manicured and some of them have their hair marcelled. They have perfumed waters and powder after the daily shave. They bathe every morning and they sleep in pajamas as gorgeous as Joseph's coat. But any time their country calls for defenders they can grab the good old toothbrush and make a dash for the front. They may be listed as dudes, but they can fight. Some of them can put up a better scrap in a dress suit than Hector could in his sheet iron pants.

The LEE SIDE O' L.A.

By Lee Shippey

ONE reason why Los Angeles is a city in which men are men is that it is blessed with abundance of the wide, open spaces in which boys can be boys.

A boy can't be a real boy unless he has space in which to kick footballs and bat baseballs. Public playgrounds are grand things, but you can't have them in every neighborhood. So the vacant lot is a far greater community asset than many of us imagine. It not only gives the boys room to grow in, but saves householders from many broken windows.

Most Spacious City

Los Angeles is the world's most spacious city. Paris boasts that its boulevards and parks give it far more open ground than ground which is built on, and that undoubtedly has had much to do with giving Paris repute as Europe's most beautiful city. Yet compared to Los Angeles, Paris is built up as economically as a ship cabin, and it is doubtful if any other city in the world can compare to ours in open spaces. Kansas City's splendid park system and many private yards and Chicago's big parks within the city limits may make them rank second and third among important cities. But they are far behind us, even if their park systems do serve those cities, as a whole, more efficiently than ours does.

How Big We Are

Most of us have heard that Los Angeles is the biggest city in the world in area. The city limits of Los Angeles include 441.095 square miles, or more than 10,000 square feet for every man, woman and child living here. Have you got yours?

The Tree War

Yet quite a lot of people out in Hollywood are fearful that the steady growth of the city is going to steal away some of the charm that has been uniquely ours. The recent widening of Cahuenga avenue has compelled the sacrifice of one of the noblest rows of pepper trees one could see in a day's journey, and now that it is planned to widen Sunset Boulevard at the expense of many more fine old trees, real war has broken out. Fifty per cent of the property owners have petitioned, backed by the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce, to have the street widened, the plans providing for the planting of palm trees along its new boundaries, and a protest representing 49 5-10 per cent also has been filed with the City Council. As a result, Councilman Arthur Alber, who represents the district affected, is tearing his hair. He wants to please his constituents, but how can he?

"Only one-half of 1 per cent between 'em," groans Alber. "Don't ever tell me again that there's no real kick in one-half of 1 per cent."

Pen Versus Saw

We soon shall see if the pen is mightier than the saw. The saw is all sharpened and ready to bring down the trees, but the pen-pushers are wielding trenchant lances. They are pouring out their souls in poetry, evidently convinced that if one poem commanding a woodman to spare one tree was so effective as to win a lasting place in literature, 1000 poems or so may make the Hollywoodmen spare hundreds. The neighborhood papers in Hollywood are fairly flooded with poetry, and of course they do not print it all. It almost looks as if all the people living near Sunset Boulevard—or, at least, 49 5-10 per cent of them—are impassioned poets.

Trees In Business Streets

Part of the controversy rages 'round some one's assertion that trees have no place in business streets. That has given everyone who has been to Europe chance to talk about the beautiful plane trees which line "les grands boulevards" in Paris and the streets of many other European cities. The answer, of course, is that those European streets are wide enough, even with trees. When Napoleon III had Hausmann lay out the Paris boulevard system, for instance, his idea was to have streets and "places" wide enough to march armies through to put down any possible uprising, instead of narrow streets which could be barricaded easily, and his prophetic soul never dreamed of the space which would be required for the motor traffic of today. Nevertheless, trees in business streets are beautiful and not at all out of place if they can be kept there, and no doubt Joyce Kilmer wouldn't ever have stopped to wonder if he'd "ever see a business street as lovely as a tree"—he'd have been dead sure he never could.

Columbusing at Home

Yesterday I discovered the five-and-tin store. The five-and-tin store is a place where people go to save money, and I saved so much that I'll be broke for a month. That's the great trouble with five-and-tin stores. The more you spend the more you save, and every way you look you see so many chances to save that your good resolutions and your dimes vanish together. I tottered out of the store, at last, with all my pockets bulging—excepting, of course, my cash pocket—and my arms laden with fully two bushels of things I didn't really need but had secured at great savings. My firm resolve this morning is to fight shy of five-and-tin stores hereafter, for it will be at least a year before I can afford to save so much again.

THE SARATOGA AND LEXINGTON

The airplane carrier Saratoga, largest naval vessel ever built in American shipyards, has gone into commission and will be joined within a few months by her sister ship, the Lexington, now under construction. The Saratoga and the Lexington will be the largest airplane carriers afloat and also the fastest. Their displacement is 33,000 tons, their speed 34.5 knots, as compared with the British Eagle of 22,790 tons, 24 knots, and the Furious, 19,100 tons, 31 knots. Japan's carriers, the Kaga and Akagi, will have greater displacement than the British, but less speed, and will fall short of the Saratoga and Lexington's capacity in both respects.

The huge Saratoga is equipped with no guns larger than 8-inch caliber, a limitation fixed by the Washington Naval Treaty and one not fancied by naval experts who declare such great ships as the Saratoga and Lexington should mount much larger guns. The Saratoga and the Lexington were originally intended for battle cruisers and escaped scrapping under the Washington Naval Treaty through Article IX, which stipulated that the nations party to the treaty might be permitted to build "not more than two aircraft carriers, each of a tonnage of not more than 33,000 tons displacement," and further decreed that ships otherwise destined for the scrap heap might be used under the terms of the article.

The flying decks of the Saratoga and Lexington extend the whole length of the 888-foot hulls and the plane capacity of each is eighty-two planes of several types. The West Virginia, the newest and largest United States dreadnaught, completed in 1924, and the last to join the fleet before 1934 under the naval treaty, is 624 feet in length, has a beam of 97 feet, 3½ inches, speed around 21 knots developed by 35,000-horsepower engines. Compare it with the Saratoga and Lexington with their 888 feet of length, 105-foot beam, 34 knots speed and 180,000 horsepower—power sufficient to light an American metropolis. Even though they lack guns of the caliber such giant naval vessels should mount, the Saratoga now and the Lexington a little later will be very powerful additions to the United States Navy. With the planes they will carry the two together will cost the American people $90,000,000, one of the initial items in the expense of keeping even a limited navy up to date.

DOORS ARE OPEN

There are lots of homes in Los Angeles without chimneys, but that is no sign that we don't believe in Santa Claus.

THE END OF THE OLD HOUSE.

BY ELLANORE J. PARKER

It was an old house, settled far back from the busy highway, as if it were ashamed of its shabby window boxes, and its knocker that was old and rusty. It seemed to quiver, as if touched by some unknown force, as the red sign proclaimed its shame, "Auction today."

Old and unwanted, in the way of progress, it had to go. For days it had stood waiting for this terrible thing to happen, the violation of its long quiet by alien feet.

Ten o'clock, the hall clock struck the silvery gong, and the door was flung open to the world. They came in, eager to pierce the long privacy of the old house; men and women from all walks of life.

A tall fair man with a cruel mouth lifted the corners of the beautiful old carpets and noted their texture with an appraising eye.

A giggling bride, hanging to the arm of an elderly husband, whispered, "Something classy, now mind," and he gazed at her fondly, a new wife and he was her slave.

A fat woman sinks into the first easy chair—the chair that Aunt Kate had loved to dream in, the chair that had been brought from that famous old palace in Italy, a gift. How the fat old woman pressed down the beautiful tapestry, and grunted her pleasure in its comfort.

A man talked in the language of the studios, a buyer of lovely things for the sets; the old house hated him less than the others, millions of eyes would feast upon the pictured beauty of the things he bought. Maybe he would buy the old chair, and one night in sunny Italy a family might see the old chair there upon the screen—there was only one such chair. "Oh," they would cry, "our chair," then perhaps they would come to studioland and buy it back, the old chair, and it would return to its old spot in the palace.

A tall old woman with a regal air and a look of the terror of life in her eyes. See how she fingers the little china figure, a lovely bit of old china. It is her passion, and here she can touch and dream of possession.

"What, no offers?" called the voice of the auctioneer, "a bit of real china. Well, who will offer a dollar? It's yours, lady." For a second the old proud face relaxes into joy, then, with a swift proud hauteur, she conceals her emotion. It is hers, a dollar. Well she can sit in the dark to save light, or miss a meal for it, but something like happiness shone in her eyes.

The rooms are full of eager, excited people. Upstairs, men walked boldly into the beautiful rooms. There is something terrible about the publicity; it seems to create a feeling of nervousness, a restlessness not apparent in the rooms below.

Now the voice that calls and calls is selling the silver from the sideboard. The tall thin man is insistent. Dollar by dollar he bids up the old silver, and dollar by dollar the little painted bride bids up, too. She is excited; it is her first taste of power. She is not terribly anxious for the silver, but she is anxious to win from the tall thin man. "Beast," she mutters, but she gets her silver, for her husband beside her lets her bid up; he is touched with her excitement.

A tapestry, a lovely thing, mellowed by years. A dozen eager people bid, and then the battle for possession started. The auctioneer smiled behind his hand, he is well pleased. At last a crude woman gets it, and announces her intention of hanging it "in my livin' room."

The music room is the place of the wistful ones. They gaze at the beautiful room in a passion of longing, but they are poor, no check book bulges their pocket, yet in the joy of looking and longing there is a measure of solace.

Lovely linens bring gasps of joy from the feminine lips. Laces from Italy and Spain, fair and beautiful linens embroidered by the white hands of nuns, cloistered flowers of great families, dreamwomen, almost forgotten even by those whose names they bear.

The silvery chimes of the old clock ring out the hour of noon. There is a time of quiet in the old house, a brooding sadness, a whispered sigh. Then once again the voice that fills the house, "To settle an estate, ladies and gentlemen, I want your attention. Here is an old clock, very, very old. Now what am I offered for this old clock?" "Tick tick," or was it fancy, "tick, tock." It sounded like a little moan from the old clock. "In the family for generations, how much?" At last it was sold. The studio man had it, and many eyes would rest upon it in all its pictured glory on the screen, artists would gather from it an inspiration, for it was old and beautiful, this clock that had ticked off so many hours.

"A miniature, ladies and gentlemen, an old miniature of a young lady, a very beautiful young lady." And indeed, it was beautiful. Aunt Kate at 17 was a flower of a girl. There was little interest in the miniature but if the rosebud lips could have told their tale of war and romance, men and women would have paused to listen.

"How much, how much for the miniature of a lady? Going, going, gone."

The tall, thin man with the cruel mouth smiled as he put it in his pocket.

Near the voice the dealers gathered, no sentiment stirred them. It was business, hard, cold business. They had a living to earn, and bills to pay, no time for sentiment.

The sale was over, quiet brooded over the old house. Tomorrow, it, too, would be sold and moved away.

How quiet the rooms were. The new moon came up and sent a finger of silver light into the empty rooms, a little eerie tap, tap of ivy was the only sound in the old house.

A bottle of sherry is always presented to the clergyman preaching the Sunday morning sermon in St. Paul's Cathedral, London. The custom is centuries old and the wine is the gift of the City Corporation.

SEEING MEXICO

BY WILLIAM L. VAIL

Sir Henry Thornton, described as the supreme head of the Canadian railways, is in Mexico on invitation of the Mexican government, and by permission of his own government at home. Sir Henry is there to study and report on the possibility of a general and financial rehabilitation of the National Lines of Mexico, long in financial chaos. Sir Henry, who was preceded by a considerable staff of competent experts, auditors, accountants, etc., is working under the aegis of the Minister of the Treasury, in whose office Sir Henry hangs his hat.

In a sort of manner and by way of parables, Sir Henry considers himself in the nature of a specialist called at a late hour to study the condition of a very sick patient—not too sick to take nourishment, if it can be had, but hardly able to "sit up in bed alone." He will prescribe for the patient, after feeling his ribs, looking at his tongue, examining his feet and otherwise going over the physical symptoms of a general breakdown. The prescription he will turn over to Nurse Calles, and go home, for Sir Henry is a very busy man and has other patients to attend.

"Gen. Calles is one of the most impressive characters I have ever met and I was struck with the evident sincerity of the higher officials of the Mexican government with whom I have come in contact, in their efforts to co-operate in pulling the railways out of the hole."

Sir Henry, who has visited all the terminals and gone over much of the right of way, in addition to inspecting the innards, sees a veritable golden lane in the possibilities for building up hoppers to hold tourist moneys here in Mexico. Given stability of government, a return of confidence on the part of foreigners, with particular reference to Americans, because they are near, the establishment of quicker and better railway service, and the construction of real hotels to house the tourist and relieve him of his surplus cash, there ought to be a veritable landslide of pleasure seekers, according to Sir Henry.

But returning to the railways—they are really in a beautiful condition. The total income, for example, for the month of September this year was confessed to be 12,457,456.41 pesos as against 13,819,878.15 pesos in August and 20 per cent of this gross income is taken by the Federal government to pay toward those bonds held by the New York bankers. A complete statement, or a statement of the complete losses, has not yet been published, but it will look ghastly. Of course, in milking the railways to pay the bankers the government doesn't get far because this stealing from Peter to pay Paul business always comes to a reckoning.

The total value of the American railway properties in Mexico is placed by the State Department in Washington at $248,000,000. This exceeds the value of American-owned mines by $32,000,000 and the value of all the much-talked-over oil lands by nearly $50,000,000. On top of these impressive figures America has $16,000,000 invested in public utilities.

There are nearly 14,000 miles of American-built railways in Mexico. The Southern Pacific alone is in to the tune of $150,000,000.

The Pullman share of the 10 per cent overall tax for September was 144,657.36 pesos and Wells-Fargo contributed 107,844.31.

The physical condition of the roads is not bad.

Advocates of government ownership will find much of interest in a study of the railways of Mexico under government management.

After all that is said, and left undone, it is evident that President Calles is determined to have a show down, as we say in America, and that is why Dr. Stir Henry Thornton and his corps of able assistants are there.

FOR RAINY DAYS

BY WYNONAH JOHNSON

Into each life some rain must fall, according to the w. k. poet, and here we are deluged with a million-dollar shower ever so often. It is interesting to note that the day need not be dark and gloomy sartorially speaking, since in direct contradiction to past styles milady blossoms out when it pours in the gayest of raincoats and jaunty hats.

Last week Broadway was a veritable garden of cheerful colors in the downpour. Those of us who are considerably younger than the oldest inhabitant distinctly remember the first "rainy-day" skirts, a few inches off the ground and the horror of the conservative. But these days just let the padre of rains say showers predicted, and out come the gayest of raincoats in vivid colors, plaids, checks, and designs, in silky-looking material far removed from the dingy, smelly mackintosh effect of yesteryear. A trim cap to match, and often an umbrella ditto, and a jaunty bag to put rubbers in later complete the outfit, and there is a decided lessening of depression when the spectator joins the bright throng. Zipper boots, and galoshes of odd types oft complete the outfit, and the streets resemble more nearly a garden than a procession of mourners, for Fashion has demonstrated that one may be sensibly clad, warm and dry, and gaily and becomingly outfitted at one and the same time.

While no woman has ever held the office of minister or ambassador in the United States diplomatic service, yet women are eligible for these positions. At present, it is explained, there are two women in the Diplomatic Corps who are in line for these offices.—[Liberty.

THE FOOL

Into a gloomy midwest pub there walked, the other day, the most disconsolate of men, to make a good long stay. He was a banker who for years enjoyed his town's respect; he clipped his coupons with his shears, his conduct was correct. He went about his honest ways, his heart was free from guile; it was an honest, in those days, to gain the banker's smile. He had a wife and children four, who loved him passing well; he had a home within whose door the virtues used to dwell. And he had, salted in a cask, more coin than he would need; what more could any banker ask, if not consumed by greed? For years he wisely seemed content to reap a modest gain, and know that every local gent believed him safe and sane. And then the lust for boodle crept into his heart and soul; and from the narrow path he stepped, to gain a bulging roll. He stepped down from the honored place that he had held so long, to walk in shadow and disgrace, as other man gone wrong. The silent convicts he has joined, once lawed from freedom's bliss; all the money ever coined will pay a man for this. From high, commanding station hurled, he's lying abject, flat; not all the money in the world will pay a man for that. While brooding in his dungeon cool, where sunshine never dwells, he doubtless thinks that as a fool he wears a string of bells.

USES FOR CORN SUGAR

If a perfectly pure sweetening material is used in ice cream, bread and candies and why is it an advantage when used in catsup, cider, drinks, jams, preserves, canned fruits or vegetables? This is a question being asked by corn farmers of America who are on the eve of an outlet for 20,000,000 additional bushels of their slow-selling product.

The reason for this discovery is that corn sugar, while admitted to be pure, cannot be used in scores of canned products without special labels being placed upon the cans by packers. Dealers and manufacturers declare that such a label leads the purchaser to believe that corn sugar is an undesirable adulterant.

Corn sugar now has been proved a success. It is not as sweet as cane or beet sugar, but manufacturers are ready to use it, except for the antiquated ruling made before corn sugar became a reality. Should this ruling be removed, corn farmers would be able to market 20,000,000 more bushels of corn immediately, and that the amount used domestically every year would soon increase greatly as would the price of corn.—Indianapolis News.

HEALTH and DIET ADVICE

by Dr Frank McCoy
author of "The First Way to Health"

Dr. McCoy will answer personal questions on health and diet, addressed to him, care of The Los Angeles Times. Inclose stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

"THREE O'CLOCK FATIGUE"

I do not know of any kind of work performed by those doing manual labor or brain work which can be responsible for what is commonly called "3 o'clock fatigue." Undoubtedly, most people do feel tired at about this time in the afternoon, but I am sure there is only one principal reason for this and that is the wrong kind of luncheon. Overeating at the noon hour, eating bad mixtures of food, eating too rapidly, or not resting for a while after luncheon, is responsible almost wholly for that dejected, toxic feeling which so many have all during the afternoon.

It is true that a rest at 3 or 4 o'clock with perhaps a stimulant of some kind may prove helpful in finishing the day's work. This is not so much because of the rest but because of the effect of the stimulant. Necessity for such stimulation could be avoided if a well-balanced luncheon were used each day.

Even a heavy breakfast does not seem to interfere very much with physical or mental activities during the morning. This is probably because we seem to have a good deal of stored-up energy from the night's rest and are, therefore, able to digest a more or less "bad" breakfast without noticing the depressing effect. But as the bodily energy seems to be naturally lower during the afternoon, it is unwise to burden the body with excesses of food, either to please the appetite or because of the mistaken notion that the body requires food in order to do the afternoon's work.

You, who have been complaining about being so tired in the afternoon, will do well to try my suggestion for a few days, using a light luncheon such as a glass of orange juice, a combination salad, or one or two cooked, nonstarchy vegetables with a salad. Many will find that an exclusive fruit luncheon will be quite satisfactory. If fruit is taken, use only one kind at a time, and eat as much as desired.

I have a special article prepared giving a series of perfectly balanced diets for the average person, and if you will write to me, care of this paper, asking for the article, it will be sent to you by return mail. Ask for the article entitled "A Good Curative Diet."

You will find if you adopt my plan of the light luncheons, you will have literally twice as much energy during the afternoon, whether your work is with the brain or with the hands. Stop talking about overwork and afternoon fatigue until you have tried the light, wholesome luncheons I have suggested.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Question: M. O. asks: "What is 'Pumpernickel' bread?"

Answer: Pumpkernickel is the black bread of the German and Russian peasant, being made of the coarse, unbolted rye flour. The genuine pumpkernickel is imported into this country sliced in cans. The real article is a very good starch food.

Q.: M. A. W. writes: "I am a regular reader of your articles and also have your book, "The Fast Way to Health," so wish your advice. Six years ago I had my upper teeth removed on account of abscesses, and am still unable to wear a plate because of mucus collecting between it and the roof of my mouth, although I have had several made by the best dentists. Do you think I will ever be able to wear a plate?"

A.: I have had many patients who complained of the same thing, and I always advised them to go to one good dentist after another until they found one who was able to properly fit them with false teeth. The fitting of the plates is not only a science, but an art, and even those dentists with the best reputations often fail to fit false teeth properly. Don't give up, but try again.

Tomorrow we shall publish Mr. Whitehead's explanation of today's hand, with the important features emphasized.

Fill out your own chart and compare it tomorrow with Mr. Whitehead's method. Do this each day and carefully read Mr. Whitehead's explanation, and you will find that your knowledge of the game will progress rapidly. Compare your bidding and play with that of your friends—the comparison may be illuminating.

Record the bids that each player should make, assuming that he does not see any of the other hands. These hands must not be bid or played "Double Dummy," i.e., as though all four hands were exposed.

Final Bid 4C Played by East

Salient Points of the Bidding

Although South holds a six-card Heart suit headed by King-Queen-Jack, he does not hold a sound original Heart bid, as he lacks the essential minimum requisite of two quick tricks. East's unbalanced distribution makes an original Club bid preferable to an immediate No Trump. Following the Club bid, South properly showed his Heart suit. West's assist of Clubs gave strong assurance of game in that suit, so East continued with Clubs instead of shifting to No Trump.

Salient Points of the Play

Trick 2. East leads a low Club to Dummy's King to provide for the possibility of North's holding all three of the outstanding trumps. Should South hold all three, the Declarer must lose a Club trick.

Trick 6. East trumps with the 8 of Clubs instead of the 4, to insure an additional entry in Dummy.

Tricks 11 and 12. The Declarer enters Dummy with the 5 of Clubs to make the Spade now established in Dummy and score a Small Slam.

CHEF WYMAN'S Suggestions for TOMORROW'S MENU

Every Tuesday and Friday at 1:30 o'clock Mrs. A. L. Wyman will conduct a free class and demonstration of good cookery in the lecture room of the Southern California Manufacturers' Exhibit, 130 South Broadway.

Dinner

Celery Olives
Jellied Tongues

POACHED EGGS A LA BISQUE

Strain tomatoes and put on to boil with one cupful of cream, a tablespoonful of butter, a little flour, salt and pepper, and let boil until it thickens. Pour mixture over poached eggs on toast.

CREAMED FISH WITH CHEESE

Boil pieces of any white fish in salted water, to which the juice of a lemon has been added. Place on a hot platter and cover with a thick cream sauce; sprinkle with grated cheese, season with salt and paprika. Put under a broiler a few minutes until cheese is melted.

MACARONI SALAD

Three hard-boiled eggs, two green peppers, two pimientos, two onions. Chop all fine, mix with mayonnaise and pour over cold, boiled, salted macaroni.

CLEAR TOMATO SOUP

Wash, peel, cut up and cook sufficient tomatoes to make one quart of thin stew when strained (or take one can.) To this add one tablespoonful of sugar, one teaspoonful of salt, one dozen pepper corns, four cloves, tablespoonful each of chopped onion and parsley. Simmer all for twenty minutes. Mix together two tablespoonfuls each of soft butter and cornstarch, dilute this paste with a little of the hot soup, then add to the contents of the saucepan and stir until smoothly thickened and clear. Taste to see that it is properly seasoned; rub through a sieve and reheat. In serving drop a pinch of parsley in each plate.

JELLIED TONGUE

Select a nice fresh tongue, wash and boil it till it is tender enough to skin easily. Add to water in which tongue is boiled, one onion, three pieces of parsley, one bay leaf, one sprig of mint, a little green pepper, salt and pepper to taste. Line a mold the size required to hold the tongue with stuffed olives and sliced hard-boiled eggs. Boil down two cupfuls of the liquor until reduced to one cupful, add one-half teaspoonful gelatine, which has been previously soaked in cold water, to the stock. Pour over tongue, and let stand until well set. Turn out of dish, garnish with parsley.

SWEET POTATOES IN RAMEKINS

Boil and mash sweet potatoes, beat in melted butter and enough milk or cream to moisten, season with salt and pepper. Fill into ramekins, place on top of each three or four marshmallows. Bake until hot and a golden brown. When marshmallows begin to soften, press them down over top of potatoes.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope, forwarded to this office, will bring a personal reply.

IMPORTANT PROBLEMS AND THEIR SOLUTIONS

Mrs. G. A. C.: The letter I am publishing below came in the same mail as yours and seemed designed to answer your questions, as it takes up both questions of sunbaths and cradle cap, and the successful manner in which Mrs. B. B. handled them.

Mrs. B. B. writes: I was glad to find, in today's paper, that you said you favored soft shoes for the small walking baby. I could not get them in the regular shoe departments, but found them in a small store. Soft kid shoes with hand-turned soles. My 10-months-old baby can take quite a few steps.

I am keeping up her sunbaths by putting her on a rug in front of an open window and heating the room so she can't get chilled.

I was not strong before the baby was born, but by following the diet the doctor laid out for me I had a strong, healthy, perfect baby. When she was a month old colic began to trouble her and people scared me into believing that fruit and vegetables were at fault. The doctor said that was all wrong. When I began to drink lots of orange juice the scurf that was on her head began disappearing and the colic did also.

She weighed six and three-quarters pounds at birth and nineteen at 10 months. I took both cod liver oil and orange juice while nursing her. After weaning her and starting her on cow's milk, maltose and water, she took pure milk, cereal, orange juice, cod liver oil, spinach and prunes and crackers. I am to keep adding foods gradually. She has four teeth, more ready to break through, and is very strong physically and well developed mentally. She has never been sick and never had a cold. She could stand on her feet before she was 7 months of age but I never gave her any encouragement umtil the last two weeks.

She does a lot of jabbering. I suppose this indicates early talking.

I hope I have not bored you with this long recital.

Answer: This letter is a real encouragement to me and to other mothers. We think and always have that most things, other than congenital defects, are curable through the right diet. You have been consistent in helping your baby that way and the results have certainly been ideal. Barbara B. is a credit to her mother, and an unusually wise doctor.

PETITION TO MAKE LUCAS WIDER FILED

Improvers Plan for New Artery to Give Route Into Glendale Region

A majority petition, asking for the improvement of Lucas avenue between First and Sixth streets, is on file with the Council in connection with a petition to change the name of Lucas avenue to South Glendale Boulevard as part of a plan to create another important north-and-south artery through the heavily congested area.

The proposal is sponsored by the Lucas Avenue and South Glendale Boulevard Improvement Association, of which W. S. Witmer is president; Harry Heffner, vice-president, and L. S. Black, secretary. Letters indicating the approval of Councilman Foster, the Northwest Chamber of Commerce and David R. Faries, executive vice-chairman of the Major Traffic Committee of the Traffic Commission, were filed.

Proponents of the measure declare it is their plan ultimately to carry the new thoroughfare southward from Seventh street by connecting existing streets, thus relieving traffic congestion and affording a new route from the city to the Glendale region.

The petition as filed calls for widening the roadway of Lucas avenue to the sidewalk lines, cutting grades and creating fills to conform with the grades to be established at First and Third streets, and straightening and connecting the intersection of Lucas avenue and Glendale Boulevard.

Local Chorus Recruited for Shrine Operas

An outstanding feature of the forthcoming light opera season, which opens at Shrine Civic Auditorium next Monday, will be the singing chorus of sixty voices recruited in Southern California.

"The Merry Widow" will open next Monday night with a cast headed by Charlotte Woodruff, prima donna of the St. Louis Municipal Opera, and Ralph Errolle, leading tenor with the Metropolitan Operahouse. In addition to the chorus of sixty voices, sixteen specialty dancers and a forty-piece symphony orchestra will participate.

A weekly change policy will be in effect throughout the series. In addition to Charlotte Woodruff and Errolle the cast will include such favorites as John Cherry, Richard Powell, Roland Woodruff, George Kunkel, Louis Templeman, Juliette French and Beth Laemmle.

Pagan Origin of Festivities Cited

The modern celebration of Christmas grew out of the pagan Feast of Jupiter more than nineteen centuries ago, Dr. Edward C. Bull, curator of the Exposition Park Museum, said yesteryay afternoon in a lecture on "Christmas of Long Ago." His talk was illustrated by stereopticon slides.

The origin of the Christmas tree was attributed to Martin Luther. Later it was adopted by Queen Victoria, the speaker said, and eventually found its way to America.

A Christmas musical program was given by the Manual Arts High School Glee Club and a display of dolls and books was a feature of the afternoon. The program was conducted in the museum building.

NANCY PAGE

Grandmothers Like "Pretties" As Well As Other Folks

By Florence La Ganke

"What can we give grandmother Page, Peter? She has a magnifying glass and warm nightgown and pretty lounging robe. Is there anything she wants?" "I don't know, unless it might be a few peppermint drops or candied fruits." "But I have those already. Do you suppose we could afford a big, soft, comfortable chair?" "Why, I think we might be able to get it. But we had better count on a foot stool to match. It gets tiresome just sitting, you know." "No Peter, I don't know. I don't have a chance to sit still long enough to find out."

"Never mind, Nancy. Some day when my ship comes in you'll have to do nothing but sit on a cushion and sew a fine seam and feed upon—" "Upon your goodness and thoughtfulness," broke in Nancy.

After that question had been satisfactorily thrashed out they came back to grandmother. They decided that Joan should give her a string of pretty, gaily colored beads. And do you know, they believed that grandmother enjoyed these beads most of all.

RICH REWARDS FOR SMALL DEEDS

It would be quite horrid if we performed our little deeds of kindness with the hope of reward. But every so often we hear of rich rewards for little deeds of kindness.

I knew a young girl in England, who was about 18 years of age in 1900. Walking near Hyde Park Corner she saw an elderly man stagger and reel. The passing crowd either looked amused and winked, thinking the man drunk, or else drew their skirts aside in disgust. But my girl friend's first instinct was that the man was ill and she rushed to help him. She led him to a druggist's, soon to be followed by one of those nice London Bobbies who always seem to be around when they are wanted.

"Drunk, I suppose," remarked the policeman. "Well, I'll take care of him."

"Oh, no, I am sure he is ill," said my friend. "Let me help you take him to a hospital. I will call a cab." Which she did, and accompanied the officer and his patient to the hospital. The old gentleman really was ill and recovered sufficiently in the cab to thank my friend and ask her name and address.

She received a courteous letter of thanks a week later for rescuing the old gentleman from a distressing experience—and ten years later he died, leaving her a fortune of ten thousand pounds or about fifty thousand dollars.

Then there was a young man, son of a country squire, who used to ride around the country. He dropped into an old-fashioned inn one day when the widowed owner was distractedly preparing for a large party of distinguished folk out pheasant shooting. She was short of help and half a bushel of peas needed shelling. The young man good-naturedly sat down to the job and proved an expert pea sheller. Then, to cap his generosity, he remained and played at being a waiter.

The widow remembered that young man handsomely in her will a few years later, describing him naively as "a real gentleman."

A young married woman friend of mine has just come into a small legacy of $5000, left by a former beau in Canada. But her emotions are a little mixed about that one. You see, the fellow had jilted her after a year's engagement. He said he had left her the legacy because she was so sporting about it and was too proud to sue for breach of promise.

A taxicab driver was taken ill while driving his cab. His fare was a stylish young man in evening dress, in a great hurry to get to a function. But the fare took the wheel and drove the driver to a hospital, and followed up his good deed by taking a message to the taxi man's family. Later that "fare" was campaigning for an important elective position, and the taxi driver insisted upon mounting the platform at one meeting and telling about the foregoing incident. The story caught on like wild-fire and turned the election in favor of the young man.

A small boy was knocked down by an automobile and a returned soldier picked him up and cared for him as though he were his own. The boys father was a big manufacturer and that returned soldier is now his manager and married to the boy's big sister.

Even when no big tangible reward results, little deeds of kindness are never wasted. If they do naught but cement faith in human goodness they are tremendously worth while.

HUGE CROWD ON HAND FOR MEAT SHOW

Thirty Thousand Visitors View Annual Display at Hauser Packing Plant

More than 30,000 persons visited the second annual Christmas Meat Show at the Hauser Packing Company plant yesterday to view the $250,000 worth of meats on display in the huge two-acre refrigerating room.

Julius Hauser celebrated his eighty-second birthday by attending the show, which he inaugurated last year. He was greeted upon his arrival at the plant by a band and hundreds of employees.

The display showed every kind of meat sold on the retail market, including 1000 cattle, 300 hogs, 1000 lambs, 100 veal and 5000 turkeys. The fresh meats were all dressed and prepared for cooking and garnished with Christmas decorations. Sausages and all kinds of smoked and cooked meats were also on display.

The refrigerating room was decorated with sixty Christmas trees, colored lights and evergreens. Santa Claus was there, jolly, fat and twinkling between the rows of meat tables.

Frank Hauser, general manager of the packing company, and his lieutenants were in charge of arranging the display and the entertainment. He is the youngest of six sons of the founder of the concern.

In other rooms of the plant and parts of the refrigerating room there was dancing with jazz orchestras supplying the music.

OWNERSHIP OF 'ISLAND' NOT CLEAR

Suit Necessary to Settle Status of Land Fraction at Belmont High School

The question of the identity of the parties to be paid for a triangular piece of property, thirty-seven feet on each of its three sides, at the southwest corner of the tract on which stands the Belmont High School at Second street and Loma Drive is to be threshed out before Superior Judge Ambrose January 12.

The city of Los Angeles has begun condemnation proceedings against the triangular plot. The Board of Education asserts that the lot, used as a street car landing for pupils of the school, was included in the purchase of the block and that title was guaranteed by a title guarantee company.

Paul B. Stewart and others, also defendants in the damage suit, set up that the triangular plot was bought by them from Witmer brothers for use as a gasoline station.

Estimates of the value of the lot are from $1000 to $4000. Efforts are being made to reach some agreement as to the legal interests of the parties defending the action.

The street car line passes between the lot and the school grounds proper, making something like an "island" out in the street and a projecting corner. The city plans to eliminate the island and improve the corner for traffic.

Avoid an Accident

If the burner on the oil stove is turned so high that you cannot turn it down again, throw a handful of salt on the flaming wick. It will put it out immediately.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Staple Supplies

If the housekeeper would arrange her supplies from the pantry and place them in glass jars, she would know at a glance what is running low, besides keeping a very attractive sideboard.

Clean as You Go

There are always a few minutes during the preparation of a meal when one could quickly wash the dishes or pans used in the process. Then one is not ashamed of someone's guest peep into the kitchen, nor is the clearing-away process half so irksome.

Home Classification

Most of the milk labels now have the day of delivery printed on them. However, if the milk comes with which you deal does not employ this method a way to mark milk is to wash the cap well and put it on the bottle upside down. The day may be written on the cap with a pencil.

WHEN SHOPPING—
think of telephone convenience,

At this season, multitudes of minds are centered on a common thought—the spirit of giving. And so, despite the plea of merchants to "shop early", crowds of eager people fill our streets and stores in a hurried, last minute search for gifts.

To avoid the bustling crowds, many clear thinking people turn to the telephone to help them locate just the gift they are looking for; or when time is a factor, to make or rearrange social engagements, to call the folks at home if they are delayed, and for many other uses, both at this season and throughout the year.

Public telephones are located everywhere for your convenience.

FAHY TO ACCUSE FIVE OF FRAUDS

Auto Parts Dealer Will Take Stand Today

Charges $11,000 Worth of Materials Stolen

Checks Will Be Introduced as Strong Evidence

J. Benjamin Fahy, Los Angeles automobile dealer, who asserts that he lost approximately $11,000 worth of materials from his stockroom during 1926, will be the principal witness in Superior Judge Edmond's court today in the trial of Lawrence J. Daw, Tom Williams, Fred Oliver, and Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Boykin of Pasadena, accused of conspiring to rob the firm of J. Benjamin Fahy, Inc., of Ford automobile parts.

The five defendants are charged with thirty-six counts of embezzlement, grand larceny and conspiracy, in the indictment returned by the grand jury recently.

ACCUSED AS GO-BETWEENS

According to Fred Shelley and W. O. Russell, deputy district attorneys in charge of the prosecution, the State will attempt to prove that Boykin and his wife acted as go-betweens for the Western Auto Supply Company, asserted to have obtained Ford parts through them after the Ford Motor Company had removed the Los Angeles concern from its discount list.

In addition the State will introduce testimony intended to prove that Daw and Williams, former employees of J. Benjamin Fahy, Inc., although permitted to allow discounts of only 25 per cent to Boykin, actually allowed a discount of 33 1-3 per cent by supplying extra parts over and above the number ordered.

CHECKS TO BE INTRODUCED

Among the evidence to be presented is a group of checks from the Western Auto Supply Company totaling $35,000, asserted to have been given Boykin by Oliver, a representative of the supply firm, in exchange for parts.

Daw and Williams also are charged with accepting and dividing a $2800 "commission" for their part in the transactions. Stanley Visel is acting as their attorney in court.

George Friend, Pasadena attorney, is representing Mr. and Mrs. Boykin while the law firm of Sharon, Alvord & Hearn represents Oliver.

LEGAL FEES BRING TEST OF SERVICES

Lawyer Files Suit But Client Refuses Sum Asked for Property Settlement

The value of an attorney's services is the issue in the suit of Earl Justin McCulley, an attorney, who seeks to collect $2581.30 from Mrs. Jennie C. Gano, being heard before Superior Judge Wallace.

McCulley said on the witness stand he had been a real estate dealer before he took up law and that he spends part of his time in the real estate business and part as a lawyer. He asserts Mrs. Gano, who is separated from her husband, John O. Gano, engaged him to reach an agreement with her spouse on the division of their community property.

He presented in evidence an agreement as to his fee, which provided that he should get 10 per cent of a sum up to $10,000 and 5 per cent for all over that amount. He complains he has received but $208.70 of his fee. He holds the value of the property of the couple at $85,000.

Mrs. Gano, resisting the action, asserts McCulley is overpaid for his services with the $208.70. She says she employed him to get a division of property to safeguard the interests of herself and little daughter, because she was afraid her husband would dissipate the estate.

Mrs. Gano sought in addition to her community interest a further amount for the support of herself and child and for the education of the latter. She states the amount the attorney obtained for her is only her community interest, to which she was legally entitled; that the agreement the lawyer sought to make her sign would have defeated the purpose for which she retained him, and she dismissed him as her counsel.

Attorneys are being called as expert witnesses to testify to the value of the services McCulley says he gave.

EXTENSION OF STREET REQUESTED

Traffic Commission Asks Council to Adopt Wiggins Place Suggestion

Adoption of the suggestion of the Chamber of Commerce to utilize Eleventh street as an extension of the proposed Wiggins Place is contained in a communication filed with the City Council by the major traffic committee of the Traffic Commission.

The Street Opening and Widening Committee will have the matter before it tomorrow afternoon. David R. Faries, who wrote the letter for the traffic committee, is expected to appear before the committee at that time to express the convictions of the committee on the matter.

Wiggins Place, so named in memory of Frank Wiggins, for many years secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, is designed to run east and west between Eleventh and Twelfth streets from Main to Figueroa street. Traffic congestion south of Ninth street has increased materially within the past few years, Mr. Faries said, making it necessary to open additional arteries of travel.

He states that by the elimination of several jogs and at slight expense Eleventh street can be made to carry the Wiggins Place traffic as far west as Arlington avenue.

REPORT AGAINST TUNNELS

Establishment of pedestrian tunnels under streets at downtown intersections is not practicable at the present time, according to a report of the Police Commission to the Council.

BOY VICTIM OF POISONER

Alhambra Lad Forced to Drink Acid

Makes Way Home to Sound Alarm

"Probably Recover" Verdict of Doctor

ALHAMBRA, Dec. 18.—Telling a story of having been forced by a strange man to drink something out of a bottle, which made him "very sick," John W. Horn, 12 years of age, of 2822 West Main street, was brought to the office of Dr. O. J. Riddell by his mother. The boy was suffering agony from burns to his mouth, throat and stomach, caused, the doctor says, by some kind of acid. Parts of his tongue and throat were eaten away by the caustic.

The lad told the police, who were summoned by the doctor, that as he was walking near a wash a man called to him, asking him if he wanted to see a rattlesnake. Youn. Horn said he went into the wash and as he came up to the man the latter grabbed him around the neck and forced a bottle between his lips. Before he could get away he had swallowed a small portion of liquid.

The man, described by the boy as being about 50 years of age and with chin whiskers, walked rapidly away, according to the boy's story. The boy, violently ill, finally made his way home and told his story to his mother who took him at once to the doctor. He will probably recover.

No marks of violence were found on the boy's body nor on his clothing, nor was there any evidence of a struggle in the spot where the boy said he was attacked, the police report.

Van Nuys Soon to be Part of City Chamber

VAN NUYS, Dec. 18.—Some time ago the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce made an overture to the Van Nuys Chamber of Commerce that if the latter body would increase its active membership to 300 the former chamber would make it a branch and let it participate in all its huge activity.

Members of the Van Nuys Chamber who have been conducting a membership drive for the last month now report that they are within forty of the required number and hope within ten days to complete the quota. James R. Goldsworthy, president of the Van Nuys body, has been one of the most active in the drive. He is a prominent realty man here and a leader in civic developments. He stated today that much of the great amount of advertising that goes East from Los Angeles is fostered by the Los Angeles Chamber.

"With Van Nuys as a part of the general organization," he said, "this vicinity as well as other parts of San Fernando Valley will be made known in the East and Middle West when ever the Los Angeles Chamber sends forth its advertising pamphlets."

EAGLES ARRANGE CHILDREN'S PARTY

HUNTINGTON PARK, Dec. 18.—A new plan is being arranged this year by the Eagles' Lodge, in which they will take care of the children on the day before Christmas, while their parents are doing their last day of Christmas shopping. They will turn their lodge hall into a nursery to take care of all children, who are left there by their parents. The ladies of the Eagles will care for the little ones.

Vaudeville entertainment has been provided throughout the day and a great Christmas tree has already been secured and placed in the hall, which will be in charge of Santa Claus. Bags of candy and nuts will be given the children.

C. R. DYER NAMED JUSTICE OF PEACE

LA CRESCENTA, Dec. 18.—Charles R. Dyer, a lawyer of Montrose, will be appointed justice of the peace for the newly created township of La Crescenta, according to an announcement just made by County Supervisor Henry W. Wright. Official confirmation of the appointment will be made at the next meeting of the Supervisors on the first Monday of the new year. The new township was created by the Supervisors last November 28, as the result of the annexation of a part of the old township of Burbank to Los Angeles. It now comprises a part of the old Burbank and Glendale townships and includes Montrose, La Crescenta and Tujunga.

IMMENSE CROP OF GRAIN ANTICIPATED

STRATFORD, Dec. 18. — Reports to the Kings County Chamber of Commerce are that the corn crop of this vicinity is practically all harvested and the seeding of grain is going on at a fast pace, being about 80 per cent completed, with more wheat than barley being planted. An immense acreage is being planted to both grains on the west Tulare lake bed area, east of here. Hogs and dairy products continue to bring good prices and those industries are flourishing. There is an unusually fine crop of early sheep and cattle feed on the plains and in the hills west of here, but more rain will soon be needed to keep it growing, as the recent frosty weather has been unfavorable.

BROTHERHOODS MEET

HUNTINGTON PARK, Dec. 18.—The largest gathering of men ever assembled at a men's mass meeting here, promoted by the brotherhoods and Bible classes of the district, assembled at the California Theater this morning, where a special program was given.

Judge Scott of the Superior Court was the special speaker, and the Huntington Park band provided the musical program. This was the second annual mass meeting to be held here by the two organizations.

VAN NUYS, Dec. 18.—A throng estimated at more than 5000 persons from a dozen towns attended the San Fernando Valley community Christmas tree party given last night by Mrs. W. P. Whitsett here.

Mayor and Mrs. George E. Cryer and Mr. and Mrs. John Steven McGroarty were among the guests who assisted Santa Claus in the distribution of thousands of gifts.

An outstanding feature of the occasion was the arrival of 300 boys from the McKinley Home, brought to the party by special cars through the courtesy of D. W. Pontius.

Assisting Mrs. Whitsett in the arrangements for the party and distribution of presents were Mrs. Howard S. Trotter, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd N. CLERK HELD FOR ROBBERY

Store Assistant Beats Owner, Robs Safe and Later Makes Confession to Police

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 18.—Harold Marks, 27, clerk in the Hub Clothing Store, Fourth and E streets, is held in the City Jail today following his capture last night and confession that he had clubbed Mrs. Emma Wineburgh, owner of the store, with the butt of a gun and then with a blackjack, and rifled the safe and cash register of $190.

He was arrested late last night as he was about to board a train for Los Angeles. Attracted by the moans of Mrs. Wineburgh, a man who gave his name as Wilson, entered the store by a rear door. He found Mrs. Wineburgh on the floor. The place was in disorder and the door of the safe was open. Detectives made a check of downtown hotels but could find no one registered under the name of Marks. Going to the Union station five minutes before the train was due to leave for the north, detectives arrested Marks after he had already bought a ticket for Los Angeles. The $190 and a blackjack were found on his possession.

Marks told the detectives he had not used a gun, but when one of the officers showed him a piece of a revolver handle found beside Mrs. Wineburgh, he said he had had a gun but threw it away in the alley behind the store. The weapon was found there later. Mrs. Wineburgh was taken to Mercy Hospital with multiple cuts on her head and face.

CHRISTMAS SHOPPERS THRONG LITTLE CITY

HANFORD, Dec. 18. — Yesterday saw the biggest day, in visitors, Hanford has had in many a moon. It was next to the last Saturday before Christmas and there was a bright sunny afternoon following weather that has for some time been cold but cloudy. The opening of a large new department store here brought not only most of the people of the city out on the streets in the daytime and evening, but ranchers for miles around. The beautiful, tall Christmas tree erected by the firemen, in addition to Christmas displays in shop windows, added holiday cheer to the occasion and the streets were literally blocked with people purchasing, sightseeing and admiring.

FACTORIES HOST AT CHRISTMAS PARTIES

High School Gives Gifts

ALHAMBRA, Dec. 18.—Through the generosity of Alhambra High School students, members of the faculty and others connected with the school, twenty-six families, comprising 119 children and adults, will have a happier Christmas than otherwise would have been possible.

At the fourth annual Christmas "gift-giving day" at the school, more than 2000 packages were brought and laid at the foot of the big Christmas tree. The gifts will be dispensed by the Girls' League and the Boys' Federation. Fresh meat and vegetables will be added to the store by funds contributed by the two organizations.

No effort was made to force the students to take part in the gift day, each offering being entirely voluntary. The gifts included canned fruit, canned milk, cereals, many other articles of food, toys of every description, candy and clothing.

Young Chaney is said to have presented a check for $8.50 in payment for a pair of shoes at the Hunter shoe store in this city. The check was signed by Gordon M. Gale, an attorney of Los Angeles. It was indorsed by James Bloom, another youth. When presented at the Merchants' National Trust and Savings Bank, here, it was pronounced a forgery.

Detective Ridgway began an investigation, resulting in the arrest of Chaney.

COLLEGES TO COMPETE

Musical Organizations of Southland Announce Annual Competition in Song

REDLANDS, Dec. 18.—Extensive plans are now under way for an intercollegiate contest between glee clubs of Southern California colleges, to be held in the new chapel building at the University of Redlands, February 25.

Before the Southern California Intercollegiate Glee Club contest has been merely a part of the competition of the California Eisteddfod Association. According to this system each college or university was under a certain district, which chose a representative glee club to compete in the intradistrict finals held each year in Los Angeles.

The glee clubs have withdrawn from the association this year, Prof. Olds, director of the University of Redlands men's glee club, who was appointed chairman of college and university music, took the initiative in inviting all the Southern California colleges to hold the contest at Redlands, who last year placed first, thus establishing the precedent of having the contests held in one of the colleges now concerned in the group. They are now under the rules and regulations of the Intercollegiate Glee Clubs, a national organization. Contests are also held in New York, Chicago, Kansas City, Syracuse and many large southern cities.

All clubs are are to sing one given song. This year "The Broken Melody" has been chosen by the men's glee clubs. "To the Muses," by Bantock, was selected by Mr. Babcock of Pomona College and Prof. Patterfield of the University of Redlands as the number to be given by the women's glee clubs. In addition to this each college has the privilege of choosing other numbers and also one of its college songs.

Cowboy Flyer Marries Bride on Horseback

RIVERSIDE, Dec. 18.—Astride their favorite mounts Roman C. Warren, "cowboy aviator," and Miss Ethel Berry were united in marriage by Dr. L. L. Epley Sunday afternoon. They were attended by Sheriff Clem Sweeters as best man and Miss Helen Berry as bridesmaid.

Instead of the conventional church wedding, the ceremony was performed out of doors and was witnessed by a thousand or more spectators, who lined the bridle paths of the Purple Sash rancho to witness their first wedding horseback.

The members of the wedding party wore the picturesque cowboy costumes and all were mounted with the exception of the minister.

Warren conducts the Riverside airport and provided thrills for thousands at the recent Southern California fair, when he piloted his plane through a replica of an arch of the Mission Boulevard bridge at 25 miles an hour while Miss Berry stood on the structure.

FLOWER SOCIETY IN DRIVE FOR MEMBERS

SEPULVEDA, Dec. 18.—A drive is on to enroll more members in the San Fernando Valley Horticultural Society in preparation for the annual flower show, according to C. L. Milne, prominent gladiolus grower in this section. Only members will be permitted to exhibit, it is stated. W. J. Knecht, president of the society, a botanist and horticulturist with a large farm between here and San Fernando, states there are many amateur and commercial flower and bulb growers who have promised to enroll. Last spring the first annual flower show of the society was conducted at Van Nuys. The immensity of the exhibit and the variety of the flowers brought forth comment from the leading plant experts in Southern California. The next exhibit is scheduled to take place in San Fernando.

TUJUNGA TO VOTE ON FIREHOUSE BONDS

TUJUNGA, Dec. 18.—A petition that has been signed by 128 residents asking that an election be called to vote bonds to buy the Legion Hall and other property for City Hall and firehouse purposes, has been presented to the local City Council, and the proposition will be submitted to the people at the next election in April. The bond issue will be for $20,000 and will include the purchase of Legion Hall and lots adjoining. All can be bought for about $15,000. The present firehouse lot is in the name of H. H. Breidt, who lent the money for the erection of the small station. Later he bid it in at the consent of local city officials when the affairs of the Tujunga-Sunland county fire district were terminated.

BAKERSFIELD KEEPS PACE WITH STATE

Property Valuation Soars as Does Phenomenal Gain in Population

BAKERSFIELD, Dec. 18.—Showing a steady substantial growth unsurpassed by any other interior California city, the assessed valuation and population of Bakersfield have more than doubled during the last decade. From $15,530,471 in 1918 the assessed valuation of this city has jumped to $31,819,305 for 1927 and the population increase has kept pace, rising from approximately 15,500 to 31,012 during the same period. Such are the figures compiled by a special committee of the Bakersfield Civic Commercial Association. Since 1923 the assessed valuations each year have been as follows: 1924, $27,383,180; 1925, $28,775,620; 1926, $29,869,675, and 1927, $31,819,305.

Bakersfield's population increase during the last twenty-seven years has averaged 1000 annually, although the two-year period from 1923 to 1927 has shown an increase of almost 8000. Following are the population records compiled by the committee: 1900, 4836 persons; 1910, 12,727 persons; 1920, 18,638 persons; 1926, government Bureau of Census, 23,487 persons; July, 1926, State Controller's estimate, 27,946 persons; July, 1927, estimated from a survey of water services, poll lists, school census, city directory and telephone directory, 31,012 persons.

Tells of Work to Find Origin of Aborigines

SANTA BARBARA, Dec. 18.—While archeological research traces the early settlers of the Channel Islands to migrations from the South Sea Islands, over a route along the Japanese group and then down the Pacific Coast, there is no definite proof to establish the origin of the early Indian tribes which came here centuries ago, according to David B. Rogers, archeologist of the Santa Barbara Museum of Natural History.

In the course of a talk on the achievements of his department, Mr. Rogers gave a detailed description of the surveys made of the various islands and results obtained. Evidence of well-established tribal settlements was disclosed in the discovery of graveyards, which, having been covered up by strata or refuse matter, had been forgotten by succeeding generations, and altogether lost sight of by newer settlers.

The discovery of great sea-going canoes, some of them measuring twenty-six feet in length, found imbedded near the graves by the survey expedition, gives support to the belief that the early settlers on the Channel Islands came from distant seas, and did not migrate from the coast, the speaker declared.

Other implements, similar in size and shape to those found in the South Sea Islands, strengthen this belief, he said.

Mr. Rogers deplored the activities of so-called relic-hunting expeditions which had added to the difficulties of scientific research.

Sing Messiah at Whittier

WHITTIER, Dec. 18. — Members of the Handel Society, assisted by soloists who are well known throughout Southern California, are to present Handel's celebrated oratorio, "The Messiah," at the First Friends Church here Tuesday evening.

This is the fourth annual presentation, and is under the direction of Prof. Howard L. Hockett, head of the department of vocal music at Whittier College, and also organizer and director of the Whittier Men's Chorus, which has attained a pleasing popularity in Southern California cities.

The largest assemblage of massed voices ever to appear in the Oratorio Society here, will sing in the well-known and increasingly popular choruses. The church choirs of the city have united to make this the most distinguished presentation during the past four years.

Soloists for "The Messiah," are to be William Pilcher, tenor, who sang the part in Salt Lake City last year and later appeared in San Diego in the same role. Lorna May Lamport will be the soprano soloist; Mary D. Weaver, the contralto, and Percy Ryker, the bass.

The church, where the oratorio is to be given, is the largest in the city in point of seating capacity. Miss Grace Dixon, organist for the Friends Church, will be at the organ and Arthur Hitchcock, member of the faculty of Whittier College, will be at the piano. The local Chamber of Commerce this year sponsored the sale of patron tickets, so that there will probably be no financial appeal the night the oratorio is presented.

Date Set for Sauer Retrial

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 18.—A. R. Sauer, publisher of a weekly newspaper in San Diego, will go on trial again January 7 on charges of criminal libel, according to a ruling by Judge Shelley Higgins of Superior Court. An out-of-town judge again will be called to conduct the trial.

Indicted on five counts by the judge, Sauer went to trial a fortnight ago before a jury and Judge Hahn of Los Angeles. He was acquitted on one of the five counts and the jury admitted inability to agree on the remaining four.

The District Attorney's office announced at the time of the disagreement that Sauer would be retried on the four counts in the indictment. He appeared in person before Judge Higgins yesterday and offered no objection to the date selected by the prosecutor for a retrial.

ARCHITECTS TO START GIRARD SCHOOL PLANS

GIRARD, Dec. 18.—Word received here today from the directors of the Protestant Welfare Association was that architects had been given a commission to proceed with plans for the group of buildings to be erected here, in the vicinity of Chalk Hills, for use as a boys' home and college. The first unit of the improvement as proposed will consist of six bungalows, each with accommodation for twenty-one boys. Shops, administration building and agricultural hall are included in the building plans. The cost of the project will be $250,000. The architects are Hunt, Chambers & Phepard.

DEDICATE BRIDGE AT GILMAN'S SPRINGS

RIVERSIDE, Dec. 18.—Formal dedication of the new 306-foot bridge over the San Jacinto River near Gilman Hot Springs, will be conducted on the 26th inst. At that time, according to James L. Davis, secretary, the County Chamber of Commerce will conduct a monthly meeting at San Jacinto, with the bridge ceremony the principal feature of the day.

The bridge is to replace the old structure carried away by the storms of last winter and is one of the major constructions of the kind necessitated as a result of the floods which carried away practically every bridge of the county and brought thousands of dollars' damage. Travel across the river at this place has been made possible with a rough detour and a pontoon bridge held by cables.

OUR HISTORY IN PICTURES 902 The Story of the "Cow Country"—Part V. by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

WITH THE RISE OF THE CATTLE BUSINESS APPEARED THE COWBOY, THE MOST COLORFUL TYPE OF "THE LAST FRONTIER." THE COWBOY'S WORK WAS HARD AND REQUIRED SUPERB HORSEMANSHIP, GREAT PHYSICAL ENDURANCE AND UNFAILING COURAGE.

MOST OF HIS TIME WAS SPENT OUT OF DOORS IN ALL WEATHERS, FAR FROM THE HOME RANCH. THE "CHUCKWAGON", WHICH ACCOMPANIED EACH "OUTFIT" ON THE RANGE, WAS THE ONLY SUBSTITUTE FOR A HOME HE KNEW FOR MONTHS AT A TIME.

"COWPUNCHERS" WERE RATED ACCORDING TO THEIR DEGREE OF PROFICIENCY, RANGING DOWNWARD FROM "TOPHAND RIDER" AND "ROPE EXPERT" TO THE "WRANGLER" WHO HERDED THE EXTRA HORSES. ONE OF THE COWBOY'S GREATEST ASSETS WAS THE ABILITY TO SHOOT STRAIGHT AND TO BE "QUICK ON THE DRAW".

LIVING IN CLOSE CONTACT WITH NATURE ON THE VAST PLAINS, THE COWBOY DEVELOPED AN UNUSUAL PHILOSOPHY OF LIFE. HE WAS OFTEN UNEDUCATED AND PROFANE, BUT WAS TRUE TO THE CODE OF THE RANGE THAT REQUIRED BRAVERY AND HONESTY.

TOMORROW—HAZARDS OF COWBOY LIFE.

MONEY TALKS IN COMEDY

"Four Flusher" Center of Conflict in Light Farce at Morosco

MY MARQUIS BUSBY

That familiar theory, if you look like money you'll finally get it, is amply proved anew in "The Four Flusher," which opened yesterday afternoon at the Morosco Theater.

Caesar Dunn's comedy is amusing holiday fare, affording light entertainment without the slightest tax on the brain. In fact, the less one thinks about it the better. It doesn't bear too close scrutiny.

"The Four Flusher" is all about a shoe clerk with ambitions to be a big arch-supporter manufacturer. A rich uncle arrives from California, or maybe it is Wyoming, declaring the clerk will be his sole heir. From then on the boy splurges on the strength of anticipated wealth. He buys an eight-cylinder car, a dress suit, and a pearl necklace for the village social belle. Then the uncle decides that he will leave his money to the insane asylum. The boy decides he may profit by that bequest also, but scarcely so soon. The rich girl breaks the engagement, and the car is taken away. Things are set to right nicely in good time for the final curtain, however.

I forgot to tell you the four flusher finds solace in the arms of the pretty blond cashier of the shoe store.

A few extra complications are thrown in by way of good measure. The owner of the shoe store comes near losing his business on account of a thieving son, and there is a socially ambitious mother who wants her daughter to marry the local physician.

There is something theatrically effective in the idea of a poor young man paying court to a haughty rich girl, even if one knows all the time that eventually he will return to the "poor but honest" shop girl.

When Mr. Dunn wrote his comedy he might have injected one or two novel situations. As it is "The Four Flusher" adheres pretty closely to Form B.

The settings of acts one and three, a modern shoe store, are unusual enough, with the customers being fitted more or less successfully.

John Litel gives an excellent performance as Andy Whittaker, the four-flushing shoe clerk. Litel is always at his best in breezy comedy characterizations and the current role fits him like a glove. Mitchell Harris as the rich uncle is delightful. His interpretation of the crabbed old man brought considerable laughter yesterday.

Kay Hammond pleases as the store cashier although her role is not important. Dorothy Shannon is a pretty rich girl, and May McAvoy is very grand as the girl's mother, the village social dictator. Harry Garrity and James Bush appear as the owner of the shoe store and the light-fingered son, respectively.

Jane Morgan is amusing as the reporter on the local gazette, although not even most remotely does she suggest a newspaper woman.

V. Talbot Henderson, Raymond Lawrence, Charles Chadwick and Frederick Fymm also appear in the cast.

Love Emerges From Strife

A love story runs through the plot of "Old Ironsides," which comes to the Million Dollar Theater on Thursday for its first popular run.

Esther Ralstone and Charles Farrell have the romance roles in a cast which features such well-known players as Wallace Beery, George Bancroft and Johnny Walker.

"Old Ironsides" shows the stirrings of early America—and the glamour. It depicts the story of the staunchest ship that ever furled a sail, and tells a love drama of simplicity and sweetness—love on creaking windjammers in terrific storms, love in the midst of hostile pirates and the dead of night.

The romance of early America has the tense and spectacular elements for which James Cruze, who directed it, has always been noted. One of the particularly striking scenes in the production is the battle sequence in the Bay of Tripoli, where the Americans engage the pirates and finally put them to rout. Fifty ships participate in these battle scenes, and for the direction of them a complete radio sending outfit was rigged up so that Cruze could direct every movement of both ships and individuals more than a mile distant.

Laurence Stallings, author of "What Price Glory" and "The Big Parade," is responsible for "Old Ironsides."

STAR IN PERSON

Something unusual is promised by the management of Loew's State Theater for tonight, with the appearance on the stage of Jetta Goudal, exotic star of "The Forbidden Woman," current. Miss Goudal is said to possess a rather remarkable stage personality. The star will appear at both evening performances.

THUNDER ON THE STAGE

Thunder, who through his intelligent performance has gained for himself the title of "the wonder dog of the screen," has a photoplay today at Pantages Theater. He will make an appearance "in the flesh," with his master and trainer, Frank Davis, tonight on the stage. Thunder is featured with White Fawn in "Wolf Fangs."

Kolb and Dill Share Bill

Jetta Goudal

Is the fascinating star with whom they share it. The two comedians are at Loew's State this week, with Miss Goudal's "The Forbidden Woman" on the screen.

MUSIC OF CONCERT TRAVERSES EUROPE

Schneevoigt Shares Honors With Father Tonello and First-Chair Men

BY ISABEL MORSE JONES

The fourth popular concert of the Philharmonic Orchestra yesterday afternoon had an atmosphere of charming sentiment. The auditorium was filled to hear a program conducted by Georg Schneevoigt of which Father Joseph Tonello's two Italian sketches and an old Haydn concertante with Megerlin, Gaillard, De Busscher and Moritz r soloists, were the highlights. Two short Chopin preludes arranged for orchestra added fragrant incense to the offerings and the Wagner overture to "The Flying Dutchman," Smetana's "River Moldau" and Massenet's "Scenes Neapolitaines" rounded out the concert-list.

"The Flying Dutchman" overture was done in quite thrilling style, dramatic, forceful, with flaring brasses, contrasting delicacy of string work and impressive, whispering pianissimos.

Haydn's concertante billed as "the first time in America" had much that was beautiful and afforded an interesting opportunity to hear the bassoon and the oboe in solo measures, but one could readily understand why it had not been done before. It is by no means one of Haydn's best.

The strength and beauty of the Philharmonic's famous wood-wind section was apparent after hearing the exceptional playing of Mr. Moritz and Mr. de Busscher. The violin solos were admirably done in point of feeling and style, if not in tone power, by Mr. Megerlin. Fritz Gaillard essayed the 'cello part at the last minute as Ilya Gronson suffered an injury to his ankle on Friday and was unable to play. As a whole the orchestra accompaniment was rather ragged and uneven.

Father Tonello's short glimpses of Turin and Florence were melodious and simply written. Their charm was of the Old World which they so gracefully recalled. In response to the applause which was a hearty and spontaneous tribute to a gentleman whose association with the church and the arts in this city has endeared him to many, Father Tonello made his way to the platform. A cry rose from the audience when he stepped into the dangerous green balsa pitfall which separates the orchestra from the auditorium like a sinister moat around a castle. The white-haired little priest was unharmed, however, and looked up from the pit to smile to the vast throng which had held its breath for fear of his being hurt.

It is to be hoped when the auditorium is done over this pit will be guarded.

After the second number, which Father Tonello heard from a seat in the orchestra like the composers of another day were wont to do, the house thundered its appreciation.

Chopin's preludes were especially liked because of their familiarity. Transferring these essentially pianistic writings to the heavier medium of the orchestra, even if ever so well played destroys their illusion.

This Great Oak Grows Sans Acorn

There is a popular adage in life that "great oaks from little acorns grow," but F. W. Murnau, who made "Sunrise," now showing at the Carthay Circle Theater, proved recently that a great oak can be created without an acorn in sight.

The particular oak in question was required to add a touch of New England to a rural village built on the shore of Lake Arrowhead, that was to represent a composite country town of all nations. There was not an oak tree anywhere around.

Murnau consulted his art director, Rochus Gliese, for a solution. "Build one," was the answer.

And so it was that a giant oak, fifty feet in height, was built in the center of the village of "Murnauvia," with 50,000 artificial leaves tied to its boughs—and there wasn't an acorn in sight.

"Sunrise" is a dramatic treatment of the lives of three persons—a peasant fisherman, his wife and the other woman. It was adapted from Sudermann's novel, "A Trip to Tilsit," by Carl Mayer. Janet Gaynor, George O'Brien and Margaret Livingston are featured in the cast.

LAUGHTER GREETS "ADAM AND EVA"

That perennial favorite among American comedies, "Adam and Eva," arrived at the Belmont Theater last evening amidst gales of laughter from a capacity Sunday-night house.

According to the tried and true formula of the play, young Adam Smith, as characterized by Edmund Smith, undertakes the disciplining of a family of spendthrifts in behalf of his employer. Incidentally, while engaged in household expenses, he falls in love with the pretty daughter of the house, Eva King, as played by Lurina Tuttle.

Raymond Wilker, Dot Baker, Eddie Blaine, Lilla Mundy, Myrtle Selwyn, Roger Williams, Howard Foster and Barrett Browning, all have roles, but for the first time in some months, the favorite of the favorites with Belmont audiences, Horace Murphy, is absent from the cast.

TROJAN NIGHT APPROVED

The University of Southern California will be honored at the Million Dollar Theater, where Trojan night is to be held Tuesday for "Helen of Troy." Many Trojan students are making plans to attend the affair. Campus interest in John Erskine's clever satire, from which the film was made, as well as the Trojan title coincidence, is responsible for the special student gathering.

Chauve Souris Troupe Is on Journey West

NEW YORK, Dec. 18. (Exclusive)—The "Chauve Souris" company left New York today for the Coast, and will make the trip without stop. They have just closed a ten weeks' season at the Cosmopolitan Theater, giving their 738rd performance in this city.

For the first time in the history of the American theater, this troupe is making the cross-continental journey without stops. As a matter of fact, New York was the only city where a performance was given between Paris and the Pacific Coast.

Morris Gest, who was on hand to see the company off, is expected to follow shortly. He presented "The Miracle" in Los Angeles last season.

The Russians will arrive in San Francisco Thursday afternoon, where they will begin their California season.

Tenor's Career One of Honors

Ralph Errole, tenor of the ten weeks' season of light opera to be presented at the Shrine Civic Auditorium by Al Malaikah Temple, is considered a leading American singer on the operatic stage.

At the age of 28 he made his operatic debut with the Chicago Opera Company in the role of Lionel in "Martha," winning the distinction of being the first of his class, trained entirely in this country, to be chosen for a leading role with one of the two major organizations.

A second honor came to him when he was engaged by Alfred Hertz, conductor of the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra, to create the leading tenor role in Horatio Parker's opera, "Fairyland," which won the $10,000 prize competition, and was first performed in Los Angeles.

Following a tour of Australia in concert, in which he won the universal plaudits of every critic in each city where he sang, Mr. Errolle played in "Lakme," opposite Galli-Curci, and his personal triumph was tremendous. So favorably were the officials of the Metropolitan Opera Company impressed with the young man that he was engaged at once.

Braham Called Genuine 'Find'

Six feet six, and weighing more than 290 pounds, Lionel Braham, for ten years a central figure in New York operettas and musical comedies starring Mitzi and others, forms an impressive personality in the role of Ali Ben Ali, Caid of the Riffs, in Lillian Albertson's operetta, Sigmund Romberg's "The Desert Song," which is to formally open the new Windsor Square Theater, Wilshire and Lucerne, Christmas week.

Braham has a deep-toned basso voice that fairly rattles the timbers of the Windsor Square, according to Miss Albertson, who declares that the New Yorker is a genuine find in the important role for which she has signed him.

FIRE CHIEF PLEASED

Official Employs Superlatives in Praise of Cinema House

"The new United Artists' Theater is not only one of the most beautiful houses I have ever seen, but it is also one of the most perfect in design as regards safety and protection to the public."

Chief Ralph Scott of the Los Angeles Fire Department thus summarized his opinion of the new $3,500,000 cinema "palace" at 931 South Broadway, following an inspection of the structure.

"I am very much pleased with the theater in every respect," continued Chief Scott. "The exits are large and numerous, so that in an emergency this house could be completely emptied in a surprisingly brief time. The construction of both the theater and the office building is absolutely fireproof, and the auditorium and balconies are so designed as to afford a guarantee of complete safety to the audience.

IN RECEIPT OF ANOTHER

TOTO IS STAR OF NEW BILL

Favorite Clown Proves a Recurring Delight in Act at Orpheum

BY PHILIP K. SCHEUER

Toto is at the Orpheum this week.

Everyone must know who Toto is—Toto, the last of a line of great clowns whose names are indissolubly linked to the fast-vanishing traditions of vaudeville and the circus; Toto, the naive, to whom life is a bewilderment of discoveries, its every development a fresh crystallization of surprises; Toto, the incomparable mimic, gently mischievous, who plainly shows us to ourselves.

Plainly, in truth, as the little skeleton lady in the ruffled skirt, gyrating jerkily against the thick blackness of the Orpheum stage as on invisible strings.

This little macabresque figure is really Toto. So, too, is the glistening patent-leather soldier, with all his fine yellow frimmings, strutting to the "Wooden Soldiers" march; and the pirouetting danseuse who is supposed to be Anna Pavlowa, tripping—verily, tripping!—the light fantastic; and the mincing, swaying Merry Widow, merrier, far merrier, than Franz Lehar or Mae Murray ever dreamed her to be; and, of course, the white-faced, red-pated buffoon who first rolls before the footlights in an automobile so tiny as to make one doubt one's own eyesight—he, too, is Toto.

I think the most delicious moment in this irresistible Revue a la Minute occurs when the make-believe Pavlowa's ballet costume becomes in some unaccountable way unhooked, and a dozen hoarse voices offstage chorus, "Hey!" at the little dancer, and "she" glances down affrightedly at the anatomical expanse so shamelessly exposed! Or, again, it may be that moment when the clown, in the manner of the experienced cut-out artist, takes a large sheet of white paper and, with a great show of earnestness, proceeds to tear it apart piece by piece until not a shred is left, only to bow profoundly at the end of his performance as if to say, like Chico, "I'm a very remarkable fellow!"

An innovation of sorts may be found on the bill this week. It is called "A Chameleon Caprice." In it —and by the cunning management of various colored lights—scenery, costumes and even the faces of the performers are made to change their hues at will. This is the first time, to my knowledge, that this uncanny effect has been employed on the variety stage, its use having been limited heretofore to eastern revues. So fascinating is it that one almost forgets the people in the act in eagerness to see its next manifestation.

The company includes Mollie Dodd, Tommy Rush, Leo Conway and the Chameleon Sextet.

Pat Henning, in "Versatility," seemed to be exceedingly popular with the audience yesterday afternoon. His act was but one of a long list featuring the Yacht Club Boys (a quartet of recording artists,) McKay and Ardine in "Just Back from Abroad," "A Night at the Club" (with the clubmen going in strongly for voice exercises,) Boyle and Delia in "How's That?" and "Pagana," the Girl with the Piquant Personality. And Toto!

FEAST OF VARIETY IS WELL RECEIVED

Joe Browning Is an Unexpected Addition to Fare at Hillstreet

He came in unannounced to fill a place left vacant by Claude and Marion, the latter-named being ill, and walked away with honors of the new bill at the Hillstreet yesterday. He has no elaborate act, this Joe Browning, just a simple monologue and a repertoire of songs, but the audience clapped him back, again and again. Perhaps his sad face is responsible for his popularity, for he informs you he is a "reformer" and appears in a long frock coat, enormous white bow tie, waits hose, high shoes and ill-fitting, scantily cut trousers. At any rate, the laughs came readily.

A colorful dance presentation is that given by George Choos under the title, "The Spotlight Revue," with Ray and Rose Lyte, assisted by Eddie Prinze. The costumes are snappy and new, and the dances are spirited affairs with the two Lytes displaying unusually good technique.

A breath of grand opera came in with Odali Careno, dramatic soprano, who pleased with a varied selection. Miss Careno's appearance marks a departure somewhat from the regulation "Three-a-day" offerings for her work is undoubtedly the type usually heard on concert platform.

Harry J. Conley is back in a skit entitled "Slick As Ever," by Willard Mack. Conley is seen in the characterisation of a "rube" and is very funny for the first few minutes of his act, which seems entirely too involved and too lengthy.

The four Valentinos are acrobats of distinction who perform some really excellent feats on the trapeze and bars.

A wild comedy involving a revolt in the harem of the mythical kingdom of Tarnboustan to which Rudolph Schildkraut, from his business in New York, is called as sultan, is the picture feature, "Turkish Delight." It is a De Mille release with the story credited to Irvin S. Cobb, who must have dreamed it all one night after indulging in a heavy potion of cheese rarebit.

Besides Schildkraut, Julia Faye, Kenneth Thomson and May Robson have featured roles. Paul Sloane is the director.

COBWEBS BLOWN FOR WEIRD FILM

Electrically spun cobwebs were manufactured by a strange process to heighten Lon Chaney's latest Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer mystery, "London After Midnight," which is now playing at the West Coast Uptown Theater. The heavy cobwebs in the haunted castle scenes were made by blowing a rubber composition through an electric fan and an apparatus something like a candy floss machine, spinning fine threads by centrifugal force.

In the picture Chaney plays a detective solving a strange mystery of ghosts and apparitions by the use of hypnotism, and Marceline Day, Conrad Nagel and Henry Walthall head the supporting cast.

A Vitaphone presentation, featuring four well-known acts, is also enhancing the program at the Uptown this week.

HULA LAND TO SEE FIRST CIRCUS

Forty Performers on Way to Hawaii

Sawdust Ring Their Workshop

FORTY circus performers, together with all the necessities of a several-ring show, en route to the Hawaiian Islands to present the first real circus the islands ever has seen, sailed from the harbor on the liner City of Honolulu this week-end.

Because of expense, the hazards of the show business and similar contingencies, no circus magnate ever has undertaken a Hawaiian expedition. The present party is sponsored by E. K. Fernandez of Honolulu, who long has been convinced that the islands will support such an enterprise and now he proposes to find out.

Lion Hunters Return With Empty Hands

By "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Dec. 18.—Tracks of mountain lions along the west fork of the San Gabriel River, north of Mt. Wilson caused a lion hunting party comprised of Legionnaires and members of the local chapter of the Isaac Walton League to start out to kill the beasts yesterday. The hunt was fruitless.

For the past fourteen years hunting has been forbidden in that territory, but due to the fact that the lions have been preying on deer and other game, special permission was granted the Pasadenans to track down the beasts.

The party was comprised of twenty-seven men, and more than ten dogs. The tracks were not fresh enough for the dogs to make any headway, the hunters reported. Another attempt will be made later in the month.

Air Mail Will Care for Last Minute Flood

Use of air mail for delivery of late Christmas letters and parcels was urged last night by Postmaster O'Brien. Air mail posted the 21st inst. will reach principal cities in the East and in Canada for regular delivery on the 24th inst. Mail destined to the most distant railway postoffices for delivery on Christmas Day should bear a special delivery stamp.

Air mail also bearing special delivery mailed the 23rd inst. will arrive in any airport city in the United States for delivery Christmas Day.

Air mail should be plainly marked, but may be deposited in any ordinary mail box, but if possible should be placed in regular air-mail boxes.

CHICKEN MEN WARNED TO LAY OFF LETTUCE

RESEDA, Dec. 18.—Poultry raisers in this vicinity and in other parts of San Fernando Valley are being warned against feeding their flocks the lettuce that has been left in the fields and which is free to all who care to cart it away. Hundreds of tons of the lettuce which was touched by the frost at the tag end of the recent harvest season is now infested with the usual slime, which when eaten is harmful to chickens, poultry experts here say. Some ranchers who have fed the lettuce assert it produces a form of chicken dysentery that is likely to affect entire flocks. A general caution has gone out that unless the lettuce is found undamaged by frost, it is best to "lay off" it as a green chicken feed. Most ranchers are now feeding green barley or alfalfa from the large supply now growing in the valley.

ALL CARS MUST STOP

ASH MOUNTAIN (Headquarters Sequoia National Park) Dec. 18.—All outgoing cars from Sequoia National Park must stop at Ash Mountain and check out, in the future, according to a new ruling in effect here. This includes employees as well as tourists, and is designed as a protective measure. Formerly cars could go on down the hill without stopping, but it was found necessary to place the new rule in effect.

RUSSIANS COPY FRENCH UNIFORM

A recent number of L'Illustration, Paris, calls attention to the fact that, according to the photographs of military ceremonies in the Red Square of Moscow on the occasion of tenth anniversary of the Bolshevist revolution, the trick uniforms of at least part of the Red army have been changed. Gone are the clumsy ankle-length overcoats and the weird peaked caps with the hammer and sickle insignia. Instead appears a uniform almost identical with the French, the only apparent difference being that the Russian boot is retained and the steel helmets and caps bear a star instead of the French grenade.—[Exchange.

ORNAMENTED DEER

A freak deer brought down in the vicinity of Squaw Mountain, Me., by a Massachusetts hunter, attracted much attention as the hunter passed through Madison, Me., The animal was a ten-point buck and on one of the back legs, completely encircling the hoof, was a pine knot that evidently was acquired when the animal was young.

Bandit Suspect Foiled by Kick Held for Trial

Captured when his proposed victim kicked the revolver out of his unsteady hands, Jack Dalton, 26 years of age, rancher of 5357 Ghesley street, was ordered held for trial by Municipal Judge Baird on five robbery charges.

Questioned by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Holland, Henry Binder, proprietor of a jewelry store at 232 South Main street, testified he kicked the gun out of the defendant's hands during an attempted hold-up on the night of the 11th inst. Dalton had commanded the owner and clerks to be quiet while he robbed the store when the timely place kick was made, the witness said.

H. Corotzky, 208 East Fifth street, also identified Dalton as the hold-up man who thrust a revolver against his side on the 8th inst., relieving him of a gold watch and other articles.

Judge Baird held Dalton on $5000 bail.

HERRIOT HAS A "DOUBLE"

Parisians always have been interested in the "doubles" of public characters. President Felix Faure had one who copied clothes and mannerisms of his original with great fidelity, and used gravely to return the numerous salutes mistakenly bestowed upon him when he walked abroad. M. Millerand, when President of the republic, had a "double" who lived in the neighborhood of the invalides and did nothing to destroy the resemblance.

The same fate has now befallen M. Edouard Herriot, the Minister of Public Instruction, who is certainly as well known to the man in the street as any living French politician. The resemblance in this case was such that a rumor spread abroad that M. Herriot had opened a wine shop in the Rue Blanche as a means of diverting his mind from politics. A reporter went to the shop and there discovered behind the counter, a living portrait of the biographer of Mme. Recamier, with the same thick black hair, the same breadth of shoulders, the same short mustache and the same pipe.

He admitted that when he was a cafe waiter the customers used to call him Edouard, but when the inquiry was carried further and he was asked about Mme. Recamier, he replied that she was not one of his customers.—(Baltimore Sun.

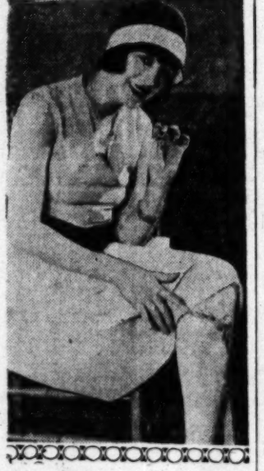
INSTALLMENT PLAN SURE'S GREAT IDEA



Elinor Fair and New Jewels

Elinor Fair, De Mille picture actress, thought she had it on her husband, William Boyd, for Elinor has a birthday Wednesday, and she didn't see why she should miss out on a Christmas present just because it was Christmas week. Her husband, like all the rest, was digging in to the toe of the family sock to finance the festive day.

But Bill Boyd finally solved the problem by giving his wife a three-part combination Christmas present, with one of those popular knee bracelets, which are the rage in Paris, for her birthday, an arm bracelet to match for Christmas and a pendant for her neck for New Year's, if she's good.

LEARN THE MOST PROFITABLE PROFESSION IN THE WORLD FREE!

The selling game is the biggest and most profitable business in America. So why waste time with other trades and professions when the greatest of all is open to you and that without cost or obligation.

A full course in the art of selling in your evening hours to men who have made $50,000 yearly in the business. They give you all the tricks of the trade, how to sell a fat man, how to sell a lean man, the round faced, the long headed, the blonde and the brunette; each takes a different selling argument and you can now get this valuable information without paying out money. It is from men who have spent many years in learning it all through world-wide experience.

MANY LOCAL SALESMEN MAKE FROM $10,000 TO $30,000 ANNUALLY AND THERE'S A JOB WAITING FOR THEM IN EVERY TOWN AND IN THE COUNTRY OF OVER 1000 PEOPLE. NO REAL SALESMAN IS EVER UNEMPLOYED.

We want ambitious men, especially young men, who have not sold anything or who may be selling goods or commodities today, if you are making $150 a month this course should enable you to make that much each week.

CLASSES START NEXT MONDAY NIGHT and continue for 20 days. Get your application in early, either by mail or in person. Ask for the Superintendent of the School of Selling.
